5 FLYERS LOST; FIND NO TRACE

By JOHN F. STONE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 18.—With the arrival of dawn the search of Hawaiian waters for trace of the two missing planes in the Dole race got under way today with renewed intensity.

All through the night there had been hopes that flares might be sighted giving a clue to the whereabouts of the Golden Eagle and its crew of two or the Miss Doran and its crew of two and passenger, Miss Mildred Doran, the only woman in the race.

Both planes were equipped with flares, but no report came from any source of the sighting of the Very signals with which the planes were equipped.

And likewise there came no report from any other source.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Forty destroyers, merchant vessels and aircraft joined in the hunt today for two airplanes—the Golden Eagle and the Miss Doran—which sailed into the air from the Oakland airport on Tuesday with high hopes of reaching Honolulu in competition for the James Dole $35,000 prizes for a non-stop run to Honolulu, a distance of 2,400 miles.

While interest in the flight swerved to the search over the Pacific, tucked safely in their hangars at Wheeler Field, Honolulu, were the monoplanes Woolaroc and Aloha, which landed at the finishing point late yesterday. The Woolaroc, piloted by Art Goebel, won first prize of $25,000, and the Aloha, in second place, gets prize money of $10,000.

Goebel skimmed across the long course in 26 hours, 17 minutes and 33 seconds, while Jensen's time was 28 hours, 16 minutes and 29 seconds.

GAS SUPPLY GONE.

At midnight the missing planes had been out more than 24 hours, long past the time when their gasoline supply would have kept them on the wing.

One carried Miss Mildred Doran, pretty 22-year-old Michigan school teacher, with J. A. Pedlar, pilot, and Lieut. V. R. Knope, navigator.

The other was the cigar-shaped Hearst monoplane Golden Eagle, piloted by Jack Frost of New York

Mills Close Here

The giant wheels of industry in the "workshop of the world" paused for five minutes at 11:30 o'clock this morning as 100,000 employes of the United States Steel Corporation in the Pittsburgh district, bowed their heads in respect to the memory of Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the corporation's board of directors, who died Monday and whose funeral was held at Wheaton, Ill., today.

In every plant of the Carnegie Steel Company at Braddock, Homestead, Duquesne, Clairton, Mingo Junction, New Castle, Farrell, Isabella and Lucy furnaces, the McCutcheon mills and in the general offices of the Carnegie company, 42,000 men and women stood in silent tribute to the man who guided the corporation's destiny for many years.

In addition to the Carnegie mills and offices, similar tributes were observed in other subsidiary concerns, including the National Tube Company, the Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad, the Frick Coal and Coke Company, American Bridge Company, Universal Cement Company, American Steel and Wire Company and the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company.

U. S. STARTS TO DAM UP BORDER RUM

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug 18.—The first move in a general campaign to plug up the heavy flow of liquor from Canada into the United States was taken today when Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman established a new prohibition district comprising the state of Michigan, Heretofore, Michigan and Ohio constituted the twelfth prohibition district. The Michigan district will be number 25.

Headquarters of the new district was established at Detroit, in charge of Thomas E. Stone, now deputy administrator at Cleveland. Stone, who has been in the government service for years, was custodian of the White House during the administration of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt.

"We consider that Detroit presents the most critical condition in law enforcement in the country today," said Mr. Lowman. "This change is part of a plan of the prohibition, customs and coast guard services to plug up the hole that allows thousands of cases of whisky to flow into the United States from Canada."

PAYROLL SLAYER AND PAL SHOOT THEIR WAY TO LIBERTY

The famed "Flathead Mob" has struck back.

Led by Paul Jaworski, two convicted murderers escaped from the county jail in Ross street at 2:06 o'clock this afternoon and left in their wake two jail guards seriously wounded.

The other fugitive was John Vashiner.

Deputy Warden John Hanlon and Guard Harry Riger were felled by bullets from two of the four revolvers which spit fire about the prison walls.

A third confederate who had come to visit Jaworski was their outside connection. He had talked to the leader of the Flathead Mob that was responsible for the Coverdale payroll holdup and other similar crimes, and just as a guard was about to notify him that "time was up" he slipped Jaworski two revolvers, and flashed two more himself.

The two convicted murderers rushed down the corridor leading into Ross street, their revolvers still firing, and brushed by Mrs. Betty Horning, of 208 Stockton avenue, North Side.

She fell in a heap on the steps as two shots narrowly missed her. She was revived a few minutes later.

Hundreds had collected in Ross street attracted by the inside shooting and by the time the fugitives reached there they ewere forced to keep their guns spitting to gain further freedom.

The two men jumped into a Chrysler sedan parked outside the jail and sped off in the direction of Diamond street. The license number was reported as Pennsylvania 417-449.

State records show that it was owned by George Udjhnac, of 154 Baker street, Woodlawn, Pa.

The car was parked at the corner of the jail at Ross street and Fifth avenue and the number of the license plates was obtained by telephone operators for the county exchange who were seated at windows in the courthouse opposite the jail. They witnessed the jail break and gave the police and detectives a description of the bandits.

at the main office of the jail when the shooting started were Mrs. Annie McFedricks, missionary worker known as the "jail angel"; Mrs. Margaret Taylor, 1911 Termon avenue, matron of the jail, and her daughter, Mrs. G. J. Vetter, 2407 Perrysville avenue.

As the firing began they fled to the rear part of the office beside a desk and huddled together, speechless until the jail breakers had left.

SCIENTIST BELIEVED DEAD

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—A fourth rescue party returned from the recesses of Nick-a-Jack Cave today without discovering any trace of L. S. Ashley, explorer and geologist, who entered the cavern Monday with the promise that he would return not later than Tuesday. Another party will enter the cave within a few hours to search a hitherto unexplored cavern. The third rescue party, which is still in the cave, is expected out during the afternoon.

Claude McAbee, a guide, who led the searchers, said he is convinced that Ashley either has been caught under a rock slide or has fallen into the underground stream.

Yesterday a party of friends traced him for a distance of four miles into the cave, following chalk marks which he had left on the walls.

GEORGIAN SENTENCED FOR FLOGGING EDITOR

SOPERTON, Ga., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Raymond Lee was sentenced to from three to five years in the penitentiary today for his part in the whipping of H. M. Flanders, editor of the Soperton News. Before Judge Graham pronounced sentence Lee told him "they had convicted the wrong man."

Jail Delivery Recalls Biddle Escape

The most daring previous escape from the Allegheny county jail was that of the notorious Biddle brother, Jack and Ed, who, January 28, 1902, fled from the building, taking with them Mrs. Kate Soffel, wife of Warden Soffel. The Biddle brothers were shot by a posse near Butler the following day. Both died in the Butler Hospital.

In September, 1891, a prisoner named Fitzsimmons, who had murdered Detective Gilkenson, sawed the bars of his cell and slid down a lightning rod to freedom. He later was captured in New Orleans and committed suicide there.

PROBE BANK CLOSING TALES

By EDWARD C. SYKES.
Staff Correspondent.

WAYNESBURG, Aug. 18.—Prosecution of persons responsible for the spread, maliciously or otherwise, of false reports regarding the soundness of the Citizens National Bank of Waynesburg may be ordered as a result of the run on the bank which brought the closing of its doors yesterday.

An investigation with that end in view is now being made. In the meantime, strong financial interests are assisting in the reorganization of the bank with 12,000 depositors, $4,693,562 deposits and total assets of nearly $7,000,000.

Nothing irregular in the management of the institution has been found. J. L. Garard, president of the bank, says the institution would be stronger than ever today had not unfounded reports caused the run. The officers and directors had considered sometime ago starting of prosecutions against persons believed guilty of such action. At that time it was thought such a move might intensify the situation. The bank's personnel now feel that if

The leader of the famed "Flathead Mob," which staged the Coverdale payroll robbery in March this year, led a jail break today in which three men escaped and two guards were wounded.

Americans In China Warned

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The United States government today decided to issue another warning to American missionaries to keep out of interior Chinese districts, where civil war is flaming again.

At the same time, the administration determined upon a policy of strict neutrality as between the native factions. Efforts of certain foreign groups to take alleged advantage of Chinese internal dissension are frowned upon here.

Faced with a Chinese situation growing daily more chaotic and delicate, this government will content itself with assuring protection for Americans in Shanghai and other concentration ports, while refraining from action aimed to thwart legitimate aspirations of the awakening Chinese people, it is said.

This policy is described as "patient and sympathetic waiting."

'Contempt' Charged In Raid

Patrick P. Butler and his wife, Regina R. Butler, each posted $5,000 bond today for appearance next Tuesday in Federal District Court to show cause why they should not be adjudged guilty of contempt of court.

The case concerns the latest raid on the Stadium Cafe at 3004 Fifth avenue, against which an injunction had been granted for violations of the prohibition law. This injunction, the government contends, was violated by the Butlers.

Their bondsman was State Senator James J. Coyne.

ANOTHER MISSING.
Another plane that has been unaccounted for is the Hearst "Golden Eagle," piloted by Jack Frost, a former army pursuit flyer, with Gordon Scott as the navigator. The plane was one of the fastest entered in the big air derby and had established several records for speeds on test flights. It is thought Frost may have deviated from his course and landed on an isolated island.

JOINERS ELECT PITTSBURGHER PRESIDENT

By International News Service.

YORK, Pa., Aug. 18.—Oil City was chosen as the 1928 convention city for the Pennsylvania Council of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, at the closing session of the annual meeting here today. N. F. Storm, of Pittsburgh, was elected president of the council.

Other officers selected included Vernon Fletcher, of Philadelphia, secretary-treasurer, and these vice presidents: J. A. Z. Stauger, McKeesport; B. M. Williams, Wilkes-Barre; Frank McGarrigle, Philadelphia; George A. Wuenchel, Erie; B. S. Wenrick, Harrisburg; William York, Peckville, and Irvin Shaffer, Reading.

Delegates to four other state conventions were also named. These included William Hughes, of Hazleton, to the New Jersey convention; J. Z. Blair, Bradford, to the New York meeting; H. F. Detwiler, Bethlehem, to Massachusetts, and J. A. Mullin, of Pittsburgh, to the Ohio convention.

and navigated by Gordon Scott of Santa Monica.

Miss Doran's plane went into the race after it was forced back to the Oakland airport from its first start in the Dole derby on Tuesday on account of engine trouble and went ut again despite the warning of Lieutenant Ben Wyatt, navigation officer who had inspected all entrants in the aerial contest.

But Miss Doran was adamant in her refusal to remain behind in the race and joined with Pedlar and Knope in a second start down the runway and off through the Golden Gate.

PLANES JOIN SEARCH.

Today all the modern agencies of communication were thrown into full play in search for the missing planes, neither of which carried radio sending sets.

Airplanes were zooming out from the shores of Hawaii and California scanning the broad expanses of the Pacific where the fliers may be battling the elements, hoping to sight a passing ship, in their planes or in rubber inflated life boats which they took for just such an eventuality.

The fate of the Miss Doran was cause for greatest anxiety owing to the fear it may have been forced down soon after it left the starting point and dumped into the sea with a ton of gasoline in the tanks. The possibilities of a smashup and quick sinking loomed large in this picture, for the planes loaded would have made a landing at sea a most hazardous task.

The Golden Eagle presented a more hopeful prospect. It was sent into the race equipped to care for just such an emergency. Its navigator was considered one of the most skillful and Pilot Frost had a machine performing perfectly at the takeoff. If forced into the open sea, the landing gear could be dropped after the plane reached the water and three extremities of the craft—the wing ends and the rear of the fuselage—could be inflated with air carried in a tank in the navigator's cabin.

PLANE SEAWORTHY

Pipe lines were connected with the air feed and the navigator could fill the tanks by turning a valve. The bags could be placed on the wing tips to prevent the sea from pounding them to pieces.

The doors and all other openings were lined with rubber to make the Golden Eagle seaworthy.

The Miss Doran presented a different picture. It put back to Oakland on account of engine trouble and if the trouble developed soon after the plane got out to sea and a quick forced landing was necessary the odds would be against a safe come down.

Lieut. Wyatt made the following statement concerning the missing planes:

"I am of the opinion that the Mildred Doran plane was forced down by engine trouble. Pedlar, the pilot, on his return to the field was warned against taking off again since I did not believe that changing the spark plugs would rectify the motor trouble which forced him back. I believe he experienced the same motor trouble that forced the Oklahoma out of the race."

Lonely Pacific, Sahara Of Oceans, Guards Victims Well

The lonely Pacific! Being lost on its bosom is like land travelers lost in the great Sahara desert.

Traffic in the western ocean is only a small percentage of that on the Atlantic.

It is a common occurrence for a passenger liner to make the run from San Francisco to Honolulu without seeing another vessel except the sister ship going the other way.

So the search for the missing aviators is a slow and heart-breaking process.

NAVY SPREADS NET OVER SEA TO FIND AIR RACERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Marshaling the greatest fleet of vessels at its command in the Pacific, the Navy Department today had 42 ships of various descriptions under orders to search for the missing Hawaiian flight planes, "Miss Doran" and "Golden Eagle."

Most of the ships were under way early today while the others are awaiting only the stocking up with provisions to speed out into the broad wastes along the 2,400-mile flight course in hope of finding the five missing fliers alive.

The armada of naval craft, which will be assisted in the wide search by airplanes and commercial craft, includes seven destroyers out of San Francisco, four destroyers en route from Honolulu to Seattle, 23 submarines and three submarine tenders from the Pearl Harbor station, the aircraft carrier Langley and the aircraft tender Aroostook.

HONOLULU, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The United States Navy late last night directed 12 vessels to search the Great Circle route for the two missing Dole flight airplanes.

The vessels, under command of Commander R. C. Parker, are the destroyers Hull, Corry, Farenholt, Lavallette, Sumner, Meyer, Hazelwood, the aircraft tender Langley with planes aboard, the Aroostook and the submarines S-14, S-16 and S-29.

The Langley and the Aroostook left San Diego at 10:40 o'clock last night for the Great Circle course. The other ships probably will start from here at noon today.

The U. S. S. Pelican steamed at 8:40 o'clock last night to search the waters five miles north of the Great Circle, and the tug Sunnadin left to search the expanse five miles to the south.

HONOLULU, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The Signal Corps office at Fort Shafter announced that it had recommended that the Maui radio beacon shut down at 8 p. m., in order not to interfere with plans for possible rescue of the two missing Dole aviators. This action was taken in view of the fact that Pilot J. H. Pedlar's plane, the Miss Doran, does not carry a receiving radio set and Jack Frost, in the Golden Eagle, apparently is lost.

Admiral McDonald ordered the Holland, the Ortolan and 12 submarines between Oahu and Hilo to proceed in network formation eastward in search of the missing planes. He also ordered the minesweeper Sunnadin to steam in search of the planes.

The submarine S-15 and S-16 late last night were ordered to proceed to San Francisco along the Great Circle route to aid in the search. They will depart as soon as they are provisioned and refueled, probably at noon today.

Hope Buoys Families Of Girl and Pilot

'Flying School Marm's' Relatives Bravely Keep Vigil — She's Safe, Brother Says.

FLINT, Mich., Aug. 18.—Despite the passing of hours without information as to the fate of the missing Dole airplane racer, "Miss Doran," brothers and sisters of the girl passenger bravely refused to give up hope for her safety.

In a little band of watchers who had waited in a local newspaper office throughout the night sat William Doran, Jr., elder brother of the young woman passenger of the airplane. He had maintained the watch since 6 o'clock Wednesday morning.

"Mildred will come through," he said. "She's too good to go this way."

A group of friends surrounding him tried to distract his mind from the strain. Their efforts were futile, however, for the young law student of the University of Cincinnati would talk of nothing but his missing sister.

By telephone he kept in constant touch with his two aunts, where at the home of one, Mrs. Elmer Gonsler, their younger sister, Helen, 12, sat beside the telephone.

While Mrs. Gonsler grew more anxious as the minutes passed, Helen remained staunch. Helen who has been "mothered" by Mildred since their mother's death 10 years ago, kept hoping bravely, although appreciating the gravity of the situation.

Pedlar Not Engaged to Wed Air-Race Companion, Mother Says at Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 18.—"Send me news of my boy, for I know that there is hope; say that he and his companions are safe."

Mrs. Frank (Pedlar) Joy, mother of John Auggie Pedlar, pilot of the missing plane, "Miss Doran," in the Dole air race to Honolulu, stood beside the telephone in the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Jennie Joy, here today and anxiously awaited word from her son. She had not allowed herself to give up hope, she said, and declared that she had faith in his ability and courage to bring him to land in safety.

Mrs. Joy said she had never met Miss Mildred Doran, the flying school teacher, sponsor of the ship and her son's passenger in the flight.

"But I do know that they are not engaged to be married," said the flier's mother. "I had a letter from Auggie about 10 days ago and he indicated then that there was no romance in his plans. He has been an aviator since he was a child, performing as a wing-walker, parachute jumping and other feats. I think Miss Doran selected him as her pilot because she had seen his daring performances in the air at her home at Flint, Mich."

WAYNESBURG BANK

prosecutions had been started then the bank would not be closed today.

FROZEN ASSETS BLAMED.

Much hardship is resulting to more than one-third of the population of the county who have their ready cash tied up in the institution and severe criticism of the rumor spreaders is being voiced.

Counsel for the bank has filed 27 judgment notes against as many individuals in the Greene county court in order to protect the bank's interest.

Prothonotary Morgan Henderson, of Greene county, said that $69,000 is involved in the judgment notes, but that executions would not be issued against the signers. Henderson said the proceeding was simply a diplomatic move to protect all of the bank's depositors.

Receiver A. J. White, placed in charge of the institution yesterday by the U. S. Comptroller of Currency, says the bank's difficulty is due to "frozen assets represented by investments in coal lands and real estate."

The officers and directors were not able to realize quickly on these, but according to reliable statements, arrangements are being made to dispose of some of these holdings. Some directors are personally taking over properties to help along the reorganization plan.

"In my opinion" said President W. D. Cotterel, of the Union Deposit & Trust Co. which had planned to take over the institution Tuesday night, "with proper liquidation of its affairs, no depositor should lose a dollar. The bank has $200,000 capital and $1,000,000 surplus and when they realize on the assets, there should be no difficulty in paying depositors in full."

The closing of banks at Fayette City and Mt. Morris, recently, resulted in the situation becoming somewhat tense in Waynesburg. The big run on the Waynesburg bank started last Saturday and from that time until yesterday morning, something like $150,000 or more was withdrawn by depositors.

WIFE FAINTS AS SECOND FLIER REACHES GOAL

WHEELER FIELD, Honolulu, Aug. 18,—Two of the four intrepid airmen competing for the $35,000 Dole prize today had successfully completed the flight from Oakland to Hawaii.

Martin Jensen, Honolulu entrant, landed at Wheeler Field at 2:20 p. m. yesterday, approximately two hours after Art Goebel had landed, winning the first prize of $25,000. Second prize of $10,000 goes to Jensen.

Jensen landed beautifully, taxiing up in front of the grand stand. Salutes were fired in his honor, and the crowd went wild as the Aloha's safety was assured.

Jensen's time was approximately 28 hours and 15 minutes.

Just prior to the landing of her husband, Mrs. Jensen, who had waited patiently, hopefully and with great bravery, collapsed, it being necessary to take her to the Officers' Club, where she was revived.

Jensen came in by the back way to Wheeler Field. The Honolulu flier dropped down from the skies around the Waianae Mountains in the full glare of the afternoon sun, which blinded spectators so that he was almost over Wheeler Field before he was seen.

Mrs. Jensen was carried on to the field from the Officers' Club, where her husband embraced her. Gov. Wallace R. Farrington then welcomed him.

Police and Army officials encountered great difficulty in restraining the crowd, which had gone wild with joy. Jensen said he had gone off the course somewhat. He was astonished to see his wife half carried, half dragged across the field, but waving to him. He leaped from the plane and grabbed her in his arms. The crowd broke into deafening cheers and broke the lines guarding the field despite all efforts to keep them back. Troops had to fix bayonets.

SEIZE NORTH SIDE SLOT MACHINES

Upon complaint of women, who claimed their husbands had lost money playing slot machines, police raided two North Side saloons, confiscated gambling devices and a quantity of moonshine.

Charles Miller, 36, of 1258 Juniata street, proprietor of a saloon, was fined $50, and his bartender, C. A. Collins, 34, was fined $25 by Magistrate E. M. Hough in Allegheny police court. Mike Verlihay, 42, of 3044 Preble avenue, drew a fine of $100.

"FIREWORKS" AT NEXT HEARING --M'GOVERN

Startling revelations were promised by Controller Charles C. McGovern today for the next hearing in the public audit of the county commissioners' account and methods. This was due to the controller's auditors acquiring the records of the bond fund and contract ledger of the commissioners' bureau of accounts. McGovern reiterated his charges of questionable methods being used by the commissioners and that he had an "ace in the hole" to prove his contentions. The date for the next hearing has not been set.

McGovern had a battery of attorneys and auditors working today on the books submitted by the county commissioners. The records include the bond fund and contract ledger of the bureau of accounts, Allegheny County Department of Public Works. McGovern declined to say when the next hearing would be held, but intimated that the results of today's examination of the records would be a determining factor.

Says Doran Plane Can Float 24 Hours—Here's How:

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The biplane carrying Miss Mildred Doran, Auggy Pedlar and Lieut. Vilas Knope, if it has been forced down in the ocean, can remain afloat a full day, or more if the sea is not rough, Lieut. Ben H. Wyatt, navigation inspector of the Dole flight committee, has announced.

This is the method Lieut. Wyatt used to make the estimate:

There are 231 cubic inches in a gallon of gasoline. The Mildred Doran plane carried 400 gallons of tankage, or 54 cubic feet.

One cubic foot of air has 62 pounds of buoyancy. Then 54 cubic feet would have 3,400 pounds of buoyancy or would support that weight in the water.

The plane can dump the gasoline automatically so the air can rush in. It weighs unloaded 2,160 pounds, which subtracted from 3,400 pounds buoyancy leaves an excess of 1,240 pounds which the tanks can float.

Lieut. Wyatt believes that the sea would not break up the plane structure for at least 24 hours.

STATE RESTS ITS CASE AGAINST KING BEN

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Aug. 18.—Three and a half months of court sessions, filling 12,500 pages of testimony with charges, denials, counter-charges and rebuttals ended here late yesterday when the state rested its case in the hearing to dissolve the House of David as a public nuisance.

Sixteen witnesses in rebuttal had consumed most of the day prior to the announcement. Judge Louis H. Fead then set September 26 as the date for filing of closing briefs and hearing of arguments.

The case, which for months has been a monotonous round of charges and counter-charges, was featured during its last days by the testimony of "King Ben" Purnell, once powerful ruler of the colony, but now a bed-ridden, disease-wracked old man.

After categorically denying charges of immoral behavior, "King Ben" astounded the court by calmly admitting he committed bigamy by marrying the present "Queen Mary," and later charging her with heading a rebellion to starve him in order to usurp his power.

Lobar pneumonia caused the death of Ferdinand Jerome, 50, Brooklyn, found dead early today in the rear of the West Homestead freight station. A theory of foul play was abandoned when the post mortem revealed the cause of death.

CHRISTENING MOTIVE FOR DRY VIOLATION

Frank Pavelko, a coal miner of Coverdale, 37-year-old father of eight children, was walking along the road with two quarts of moonshine, representing an outlay of $4, to celebrate the latest christening, when he fell into the arms of the law, he told Judge George V. Moore in Criminal Court today in pleading guilty to a charge of illegal transportation of liquor. He was paroled.

To Accuse Hosts As Slayers

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—An age-old provision of English common law has been uncovered in musty legal tomes here to provide the basis for prosecution of F. Creigh Nelson, wealthy Seattle clubman, and Amory F. Bell, skipper of Nelson's yacht, on a charge of manslaughter for the death of Miss Violet Maude Payne, young dance teacher, who drowned during a liquor party on the yacht early last July 20.

As Prosecutor Ewing D. Colvin today prepared to file the manslaughter charges against the two men, he explained that the common law of England governing maritime criminality will hold Nelson and Bell, as owner and skipper of the boat, legally responsible for the death of their guest.

Evidence at a coroner's inquest last month showed, Colvin pointed out, that the two men stood by and made no effort to save the drowning woman who had slipped and fallen into Lake Union while leaving the yacht.

Witnesses at the inquest testified the drowning occurred in not more than 16 feet of water and that lifeboats and life belts were close at hand had the men desired to assist the struggling woman.

In its report, the jury branded Nelson and Bell as "cowards" and further found that they conspired to conceal the fact of the woman's death.

FREE MANICURE CARE WINS GIRLS' VANITY

A concern engaged in the manufacture of a well-known food product had difficulty in getting the girls to maintain the necessary standard of clean hands. The management solved the problem by providing manicure treatment for a month. Vanity did the rest. The girls who had been once accustomed to well-manicured hands kept up the standard.

INDEPENDENTS PLAN TICKET

Leaders of independent groups have not yet abandoned hope of getting together a partially complete ticket to run against the Republican organization slate, it developed this morning. An effort is under way to join the candidacies of Judges Richard W. Martin, James H. Gray and Frank N. Golimar and, with the three as a foundation, build a ticket that will include County Controller C. C. McGovern, seeking to succeed himself, and Justice of the Peace George B. Shields, candidate for clerk of courts. W. E. Armstrong of Baldwin township, and former Controller Josiah Speer, aspirants for county commissioner, are reported willing to join any independent movement that develops.

DIES IN BLAZE OF HOSPITAL

By International News Service.

DEFUNIAK SPRINGS, Fla., Aug. 18.—One person was killed and another was believed fatally burned when the Ensor Hospital, a private sanitarium at Crestview, near here, was struck by lightning and destroyed by fire early today.

John Jernigan was burned to death when he re-entered the burning hospital to get a pair of shoes. Dr. O. O. Ensor, hospital head, was believed fatally burned in his efforts to rescue Jernigan. Forty patients were safely removed from the building before it burned to the ground.

SECRETARY MELLON DUE IN NEW YORK AUGUST 30

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Secretary Mellon will arrive in New York on the Leviathan on August 30 after a two months' vacation cruise in the Mediterranean, it was said today at the Treasury.

COUNTY OFFICIALS -:- OPEN BABCOCK BOULEVARD -:- WITH CEREMONIES

RECEPTION.

CROWD ATTENDS.

A section of the crowd that attended the ceremony and later the reception at Aultz's Pavilion. The exercises opened when a ribbon closing the road was broken, allowing a stream of traffic to enter the new stretch. County officials, community leaders, and those who attended the exercises later visited Walter Farm, North Park, where dinner was served.

FORMALLY OPENED.

The stretch of road, formerly known as Evergreen road, between Stitzer's corners and the Three Degree road, was formally opened by Miss Eleanor Brown and Miss Helen Hoeveler (above), who parted the ribbon barrier. Petitions were presented by Keown Station Civic Association, Ross Township Board of Trade, and Highland Firemen's Association requesting the courts to authorize the new name of Babcock boulevard to honor Commissioner Babcock.

AMMUNITION RAIDER SHOT NEAR SACCO SCENE

MARINES FIRE ON TRIO ROBBING ARSENAL

HINGHAM, Mass., Aug. 18.—The ammunition depot of the United States Navy here, covering 900 acres, today was under the closest guard that had been set over it since the World War while civilian authorities searched for a man thought to have been wounded by the Marine guard who foiled an attempt to steal some of the millions of pounds of explosives stored there.

One of a trio discovered a quarter mile inside the enclosure dropped under the rifle fire which was poured upon them but was carried off by his companions. In the belief that he would have to seek medical treatment for his wounds, police asked all physicians and hospitals in the district to report promptly any gunshot cases.

Hingham is situated in the wedge which Plymouth county pushes up through Norfolk county, not far from South Braintree, where the murders were committed of which Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted at Dedham. One act of violence attributed to sympathizers with the convicted men was committed in Norfolk county at Bridgewater, where the home of a witness was dynamited last year. The depot was within sound of the explosion which wrecked the home in Milton of a Sacco juror Tuesday morning and which is still unsolved.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

SOUND BODIES COME WITH SANE LIVING.

DR COPELAND

AN intelligent young woman, apparently a concert singer, wrote me from Detroit.

She enumerates flesh, skin, internal organs, teeth, eyes, hair, nervous system. Then she asks:

"Is it not a fact that human beings should and can be in perfect health?"

Of course, there is but one answer to the first question. Certainly we should be in perfect health. But can we be?

To have firm muscles, clear skin, perfectly functioning organs, an abundance of hair and a normal nervous system—that is a combination devoutly wished for and rarely had.

You see, dear lady, we grow up and attain wisdom when it is too late. If we could be born wise and sensible, we could have all these blessings. But if we were born that way we wouldn't be human beings!

We can't choose our parents so some of us are sure to suffer in youth. We suffer if our parents don't know how to bring us up or, knowing how, don't apply their knowledge.

So you see no matter how wise and sensible we are when we are old enough to go on concert tour, it is too late to remedy the omissions in our early training.

In the matter of teeth, for instance, we must have very early care or these precious possessions are damaged beyond repair. I have good teeth. If I could have the skilled attention dentists give now I would have a perfect set. Every tooth I lost in boyhood was one with a tiny cavity which would be repaired today without the slightest pain.

The earlier we begin to think in terms of health the more certain we are to have perfect health. We must think correctly about eating. More ills come from wrong eating than from almost every other cause.

Then we must learn early the value of sunlight, fresh air, sleep, exercise and frequent bathing. A few simple rules, followed religiously, make all the difference between perfect health and shattered health.

To answer the second part of your question: It is my opinion that perfect health can be had if we begin early enough in life to guard and care for this body.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

L. E. C. Q.—What do you suggest for a good tooth paste to preserve the enamel on the teeth?

A.—Careful brushing of the teeth after meals and any of the good tooth pastes on the market should keep them in good condition. Visit your dentist regularly.

W. S. Q.—What causes me to have a breaking out on my hands? They are very red and itchy and have a tendency to swell.

A.—This condition may be due to eczema and is usually caused by improper diet and constipation. These two factors must be overcome. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

H. J. Q.—What is the cause of ringing in the ears? The ringing sounds as if crickets were singing.

A.—Ringing in the ears is often due to nasal catarrh which has extended to the middle ear. This requires special attention and the using of a good nose and throat spray. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

T. Y. Q.—My baby of 18 month of age is very bowlegged. What can be done?

A.—Corrective braces are often effective for this trouble in babyhood. See an orthopedist and he will advise you.

LULL IN OHIO MINE WAR

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Belmont county officials have apparently shelved their differences resulting from the mine situation, at least until conditions are less tense.

Sheriff Clyde C. Hardesty of Belmont county and Prosecutor Paul V. Waddell conferred for five hours yesterday, but neither would reveal what took place at the discussion. Waddell, however, failed to appear before Gov. Donahey yesterday as he had announced he would, to press his ouster proceedings against the sheriff. He charged Sheriff Hardesty with intoxication and incapacitation for duty.

Col. L. S. Conelly, Ohio National Guard, who has been investigating conditions in Belmont county, returned to Columbus yesterday to go to the National Guard encampment at Camp Knox, Ky., with his regiment.

Are The Rieck-McJunkin Babies

There are thousands of them all over this big Pittsburgh district. Fine, sturdy youngsters whose radiant health is partly the direct result of plenty of Rieck-McJunkin Milk.

And they like it. That's the beauty of it. It isn't hard to get a child to drink Rieck-McJunkin Electropure Milk because it tastes good—like real milk—you know—with that delicious fresh milk flavor that makes you think of sunshine and green meadows and the open country.

Try it. It costs no more than you will pay for any good milk. And it's just as easy to get for there's a Rieck-McJunkin wagon on your street every morning. Phone either plant.

More Broilers at 75c each!
Fresh--Fully Dressed--Split

Ready for the pan—simply wash, dust with flour and fry or broil. Over 2000 of them for this week-end—enough, we believe, for everyone.

A tender chicken, plump and meaty. Extra large for broilers—about two pounds before dressing. A half makes a generous service.

50c McCann's "Perfect" Butter

McCann's Fresh Eggs 47c

A Roast for Sunday---Chops for Today!
Genuine Spring Lamb in Roast Form

Even the expensive cuts of tender pink-boned lamb at roast prices. At our home, we sliced eight delicious lamb chops from a small loin roast. Some people buy a loin for slicing in chops and a leg for roasting. At these low prices you can afford to buy your meat for several days ahead.

Loins of Lamb, lb. 35c
Legs of Lamb, lb. 35c
Forequarters of Lamb, 23c

Fresh Red Salmon Steak, lb. 35c

Straight from the ice cold waters in which these prized fish make their home. Usually sold as canned Salmon, but this is FRESH—just like Halibut or any of the other popular fishes. No waste—only a single bone in each steak.

Danish Coffee Rolls, 4 for 25c

Large rolls in a variety of shapes! So rich they are almost cake. One roll supplies all the bread a person will want at a meal. Fresh from our own ovens.

A Complete Lunch in One Dish
Chicken a la King, pt. 60c

Made with bits of chicken, mushrooms and peppers, combined with a cream sauce. Served on toast, you have a complete lunch. The only thing needed to "top it off" is a cup of McCann's Coffee.

Wisconsin "Swiss" Cheese, lb. 55c

This Swiss is delicious! "Fancy," of course, but with a texture that is unusually nice. The holes are so regular they look as though they had been bored in the cheese. Mild, yet tasty. Excellent for sandwiches.

"Not-a-Seed" Raisins—Concentrated Strength! 2 pkgs. 25c

Growing children need the strength-giving iron, raisins contain! Some mothers give them to their youngsters instead of candy. Bread, pie, custards, puddings and rice are made more palatable and nourishing by adding raisins.

Enjoy a Duck Dinner—served in our Coffee Shop or Cafeteria from 11 A. M. to 8 P. M. Roast Duck with dressing, Apple Sauce, French Fried Potatoes, Bread or Rolls, Pie and Coffee—a real dinner for 75c.

NINE DAYS AT BEACH -:- GIRLS' REWARDS -:- IN BEAUTY CONTEST

"MISS ARCADIA"

"MISS ORPHEUM"

"MISS SCHENLEY"

"MISS CAPITOL," BELTZHOOVER

'MISS CAPITOL', BRADDOCK

"MISS ARSENAL"

"MISS DORMONT"

POWER PROJECT REVEALED BY RUSSIAN VISITING HERE

Stepping off in Pittsburgh yesterday on a tour of the United States to visit large hydro-electric plants, John G. Alexandrew, chairman of a Russian commission to develop water power, told of plans of his country in this line. He said that a dam is being constructed on the Dnieper River at Alexander, 300 miles from the Black Sea, which is expected ultimately to provide [illegible] horse-power for industrial development of that district. The Russians, he said, look upon this project as a "second Niagara."

'Miss Pittsburgh,' Like 'Sally,' Loves Home

If evening moments were good after working in an office all day, they are wonderful now. The winning of a title brings busy days and after trying on gowns, dresses, shoes and hats for hours at a time, there is grand relief to be home and away from the crowds at night.

It is not meant that I do not enjoy the crowds and meeting people. Indeed, I do because they are so kind to me. There is certainly pleasure in hearing such good wishes from strangers. And I do appreciate it far more than they probably can understand.

But the evenings bring me rest. Then I get to reading and right now I'm engrossed in one of the most interesting of stories. It is "Sally's Shoulders" in The Sun-Telegraph. Beatrice Burton wrote this new serial just starting in the paper and I really do think it is better than anything she has ever contributed. I enjoyed "The Flapper Wife" and "The Hollywood Girl," by this author, but from as much as has been published of the new story it just makes me know it is even better.

Sally is a wonderful character to me. I can just picture her as a beautiful girl with dark hair and blue eyes. I always have admired girls with blue eyes. Miss Burton has made her a home-loving girl, too, and I guess because that is what I am, she appeals to me all the more. Of course, Sally goes to dances and enjoys life. There are thousands and thousands of girls in true life just like her and it isn't one bit hard picking out friends who might be this Sally. That is what helps to make the story all the more interesting. It can all be so true.

And so it is, life with the title of "Miss Pittsburgh 1927" means busy days with restful evenings reading and chatting with family and friends. And really good reading in "Sally's Shoulders."

Mary Millnack

"Miss Pittsburgh 1927."

STILL SEIZED AT SNOWDEN

Federal prohibition agents yesterday seized a 200-gallon still, 100 gallons of moonshine whisky, 75 barrels of mash, [illegible] pounds of corn sugar and 100 pounds of yeast in a raid in a one-story building near Snowden. Frank Cptara and Frank Schardelo, who were arrested, furnished bonds of $1,000 each for their release pending a hearing before the United States commissioner. Charles Levinbooks, alleged owner of the establishment, is being sought.

WOUNDED ACTOR ASKS DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Lieut. Ligor Presniakoff, movie actor and formerly of the Czar's army, has withdrawn a complaint which charged his wife, Irene Preston Presniakoff, a Russian actress, with attempting to murder him, but—indicating that his move was not one of reconciliation—at once filed suit for divorce.

Presniakoff declared that his wife shot him in the arm in a domestic fray August 5.

WILL DISPERSES MARK HOPKINS' MILLIONS

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The remnant millions of the once vast Mark Hopkins estate has been dispersed at last.

Cut into by a long history of litigation, the fortune that was once estimated at more than $50,000,000 has dwindled to a reported $15,000,000 for distribution among relatives and friends of Arthur T. Walker, secretary to Edward F. Searles, from whom he inherited the bulk of the estate.

Walker's will divides the bulk of estate among four sisters, two brothers, and a niece, and makes small bequests to devoted friends and employes of himself and Searles.

Thus the millions wrested by the railroad pioneer of the early West pass to persons of moderate means, who a few years before never had reason even to dream of such wealth, and who were unrelated and unacquainted with the founder of the fortune.

Walker, once a $12-a-week school teacher, who later became Searles' secretary, died August 7, only a few months after he had successfully defended his inheritance from the attempt of Angelo Milton Ellison, former elevator operator, protege of Searles, to break the Searles will.

During his seven year possession of the fortune Walker was engaged in almost constant litigation. Where Searles almost disregarded his relatives and left $13,000,000 to Walker, the former secretary gives his inheritance to a group of relatives and friends.

RAIN HOLDS UP PARIS TO N. Y. FLIGHT

PARIS, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—A spell of favorable weather which fanned the LeBourget flying field into unwonted activity during the night proved short lived, for a heavy rain set in, and the prospects of a start of a New York flight were again uncertain today.

Thinking that Dieudonne Costes or Leon Givon would start on their transatlantic flights, a band of anxious newspaper correspondents and eager aviation enthusiasts stood on the ground until the rain began at 1 a. m.

There is a bare possibility that Costes and Givon may get away at dawn Friday, but the weather men offer little encouragement.

M. Lanite, who is to pilot Lieut. Tarascon's Blue Bird across the Atlantic, says if the weather remains as it is until Monday or Tuesday, his plane will be ready to start with the others. A new engine has been bolted into place, and he planned to make a long test flight today.

REPUBLICANS START SPEAKING CAMPAIGN

The speaking campaign of the Republican organization candidates will start tonight with a mass meeting at the Winters Playground, Monastery avenue, Seventeenth ward. A parade will precede the meeting. There will be a meeting in Brentwood tomorrow night.

SAYS MAN BEAT HER AT 'PARTY'

A three-day drinking orgy last night ended in trouble for Miss Frances Meyers, 32, of East street. According to her story, told to Magistrate E. M. Hough in Morals Court this morning, Thomas Plocenek, 20, city, "choked, beat and kicked her in a rooming house in Madison avenue. Pete Meyers, 33, of 813 Madison avenue, a brother, and Plocenek were arrested following the alleged attack charged with being suspicious persons. Plocenek denied the charges and told the magistrate that the woman was suffering from the effects of a drinking party. They were fined $10 or 10 days in jail each.

DEATH ROLL

Felix M. Cruciger

Felix M. Cruciger, formerly connected with the Crucible Steel here and recently transferred to their New York office, died Tuesday in his New York home. Mr. Cruciger was born in Goethe, Germany, in 1884 and had lived most of his life in this district. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Olive Truxall Cruciger; one son, Richard; his mother, Mrs. Marie Cruciger; three sisters, Mrs. Elliott Jeffrey, Mrs. H. S. Deans and Miss Anna Cruciger, and four brothers, Charles F., Alfred G., Francis and William G. Cruciger.

Frank Shearing

Frank Shearing, 78, of 142 Chateau street, Northside, night clerk for James Lowrie & Sons undertakers, 1501 Beaver avenue, North Side, was found dead at his work yesterday morning. He entered the employ of the Lowrie firm 15 years ago upon his retirement from the city fire department. He was a member of the Firemen's Benevolent Association of Pittsburgh; Standard Council No. 62, F. P. A.; Hope Lodge No. 243, Knights of Pythias, and State Firemen's Association of Pennsylvania. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Margaret Shearing; two daughters, Mrs. Bertha C. Wilkinson, of Hookstown, and Mrs. Laura Ahlborn of Langeloth, and a brother, Edward Shearing of Vandergrift.

Samuel M. Flanegin

Samuel M. Flanegin, 65, died Monday in his home in Winchester, Ky. Mr. Flanegin was born in Harrison City, Pa., and was a son of Capt. F. C. Flanegin and a grandson of Francis C. Flanegin, who, in 1856, was the first district attorney at Pittsburgh elected by popular vote. For more than 40 years he engaged in the oil business in the Butler, Bradford, Oklahoma and Kentucky fields, and for the past 15 years made his home in Kentucky. He was a member of the Episcopal Church. He leaves his widow, Alice Geyer Flanegin, formerly of Pittsburgh; one brother, John W., of New Castle, and one sister, Mrs. George W. Tulloch, of Apollo.

Mrs. William L. Harris

Mrs. Josephine Macrum Harris, wife of Dr. William L. Harris, of Norfolk, Va., died this morning at the home of her sister, Miss Katherine Macrum, of 565 California avenue, Oakmont, whom she was visiting. Mrs. Harris was born in Pittsburgh and lived the greater part of her life in Oakmont. She has been a resident of Norfolk since her marriage to Dr. Harris. Besides Miss Macrum, Mrs. Harris leaves another sister, Mrs. A. C. Cubbage, and a brother, George S. Macrum.

Robert Roberts

Robert Roberts, 92, died Tuesday in the United Presbyterian Home, Wilkinsburg. Mr. Roberts was born in Wales and came to this country in 1873. He had lived most of his life in this district. He was a member of the Christian Church of Wilkinsburg. Mr. Roberts leaves a daughter, Mrs. Mary Hervey, of Seattle, and a son, David Roberts, of Richmond, Ind.

John H. Larson

John H. Larson, 48, of 1446 State street, Coraopolis, died Monday in Tulsa, Okla., after an illness of two weeks. He had gone to Tulsa on a business trip and was stricken while in that city. He was born in Oil City, Pa., and had lived in Western Pennsylvania all his life. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Dolly Weaver Larson; a daughter, Miss Nancy L. Larson, and his mother, Mrs. P. A. Larson.

John H. Larson

John H. Larson, of 1446 State street, Coraopolis, died Monday in Tulsa, Okla. Mr. Larson was born in Oil City, April 11, 1878, and lived most of his life in this district. He leaves his widow, Dolly Weaver Larson; his mother, Mrs. P. A. Larson, and one daughter, Nancy Larson.

Miss Anna Robertson

Miss Anna Frances Robertson, daughter of the late John L. and Isabella Cochrane Robertson, died in her home at 15 Highland avenue, Etna, yesterday. Miss Robertson was born in Pittsburgh and was a member of Calvert Memorial Church of Etna. She was a student of the Pittsburgh School of Design until ill health forced her to give up her work. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. M. E. Dethiefs and Mrs. Samuel Ferguson.

Velvet Frocks
The Choice of Young Women

Velvet is so varied in weight and other characteristics this season, and is used in so many different types of dresses in the Misses' Shop, that it will be the choice of all, in one form or another.

Afternoon frocks of transparent velvet, of figured velvet, and of velvet combined with lame.

Daytime frocks of georgette crepe, or heavy, dull crepes, trimmed with velvet.

Tailored frocks of transparent and heavier velvets.

Sports frocks of plain and checked velveteen.

Prices, $25.00 to $145.00.

Mediumweight Coats
In Navy and Black
$39.50

These are women's dressy coats in just the right weight for present cool mornings and evenings, and for Indian summer wear.

They are of kasha, twill bloom and charmeen; and are trimmed with gray squirrel, cocoa squirrel, American broadtail, and in a few instances with fox.

All regular sizes are available, also there are some coats in sizes for large and small women.

Coats of the same fabrics as those named above, in tan and cocoa tones, gray, and soft, unobtrusive shades of green, are priced $25.00.

—Horne's Second Floor—

Pajamas for College Girls

These new ones are of crepe de chine—after all, the very nicest silk for lingerie. As smartly modern as their wearers' daytime clothes with trousers buoyantly wide, pockets neatly finished, and tie belts so "dressed-up looking!" And such an array of likable features—pointed lace inserts, lace yokes, satin ribbon belts, plain square necks and side pleats, or V necks of white georgette on coral crepe!

Prices range from $5.95 to $10.95.

—Horne's, Third Floor—

"Horne Special" Chiffon Stockings

The "Horne Special" is an extra long, full-fashioned stocking that comes well over the knees, of extra sheer woven silk reinforced at garter top and heel and toe for longer wear. It is carried in regular stock and may be had in all the fashionable shades of the season, including tan and gray. $2.00.

—Horne's, Main Floor—

"Fifth Avenue" Bags For General Use

These purses are in the neat pouch style—of pin seal, alligator, grain or patent leathers, and can be had in plain colors or attractively contrasted—the black patent leather with assorted colors—gray with tan—or two tones of one color. Some are fitted. $2.95 and $4.95.

—Horne's, Main Floor—

The Week-End Box of Candy

This week's box contains a pound of assorted chocolates, and one of mixed salted peanuts, chocolate fudge, and gum strings. The TWO POUNDS, $1.00.

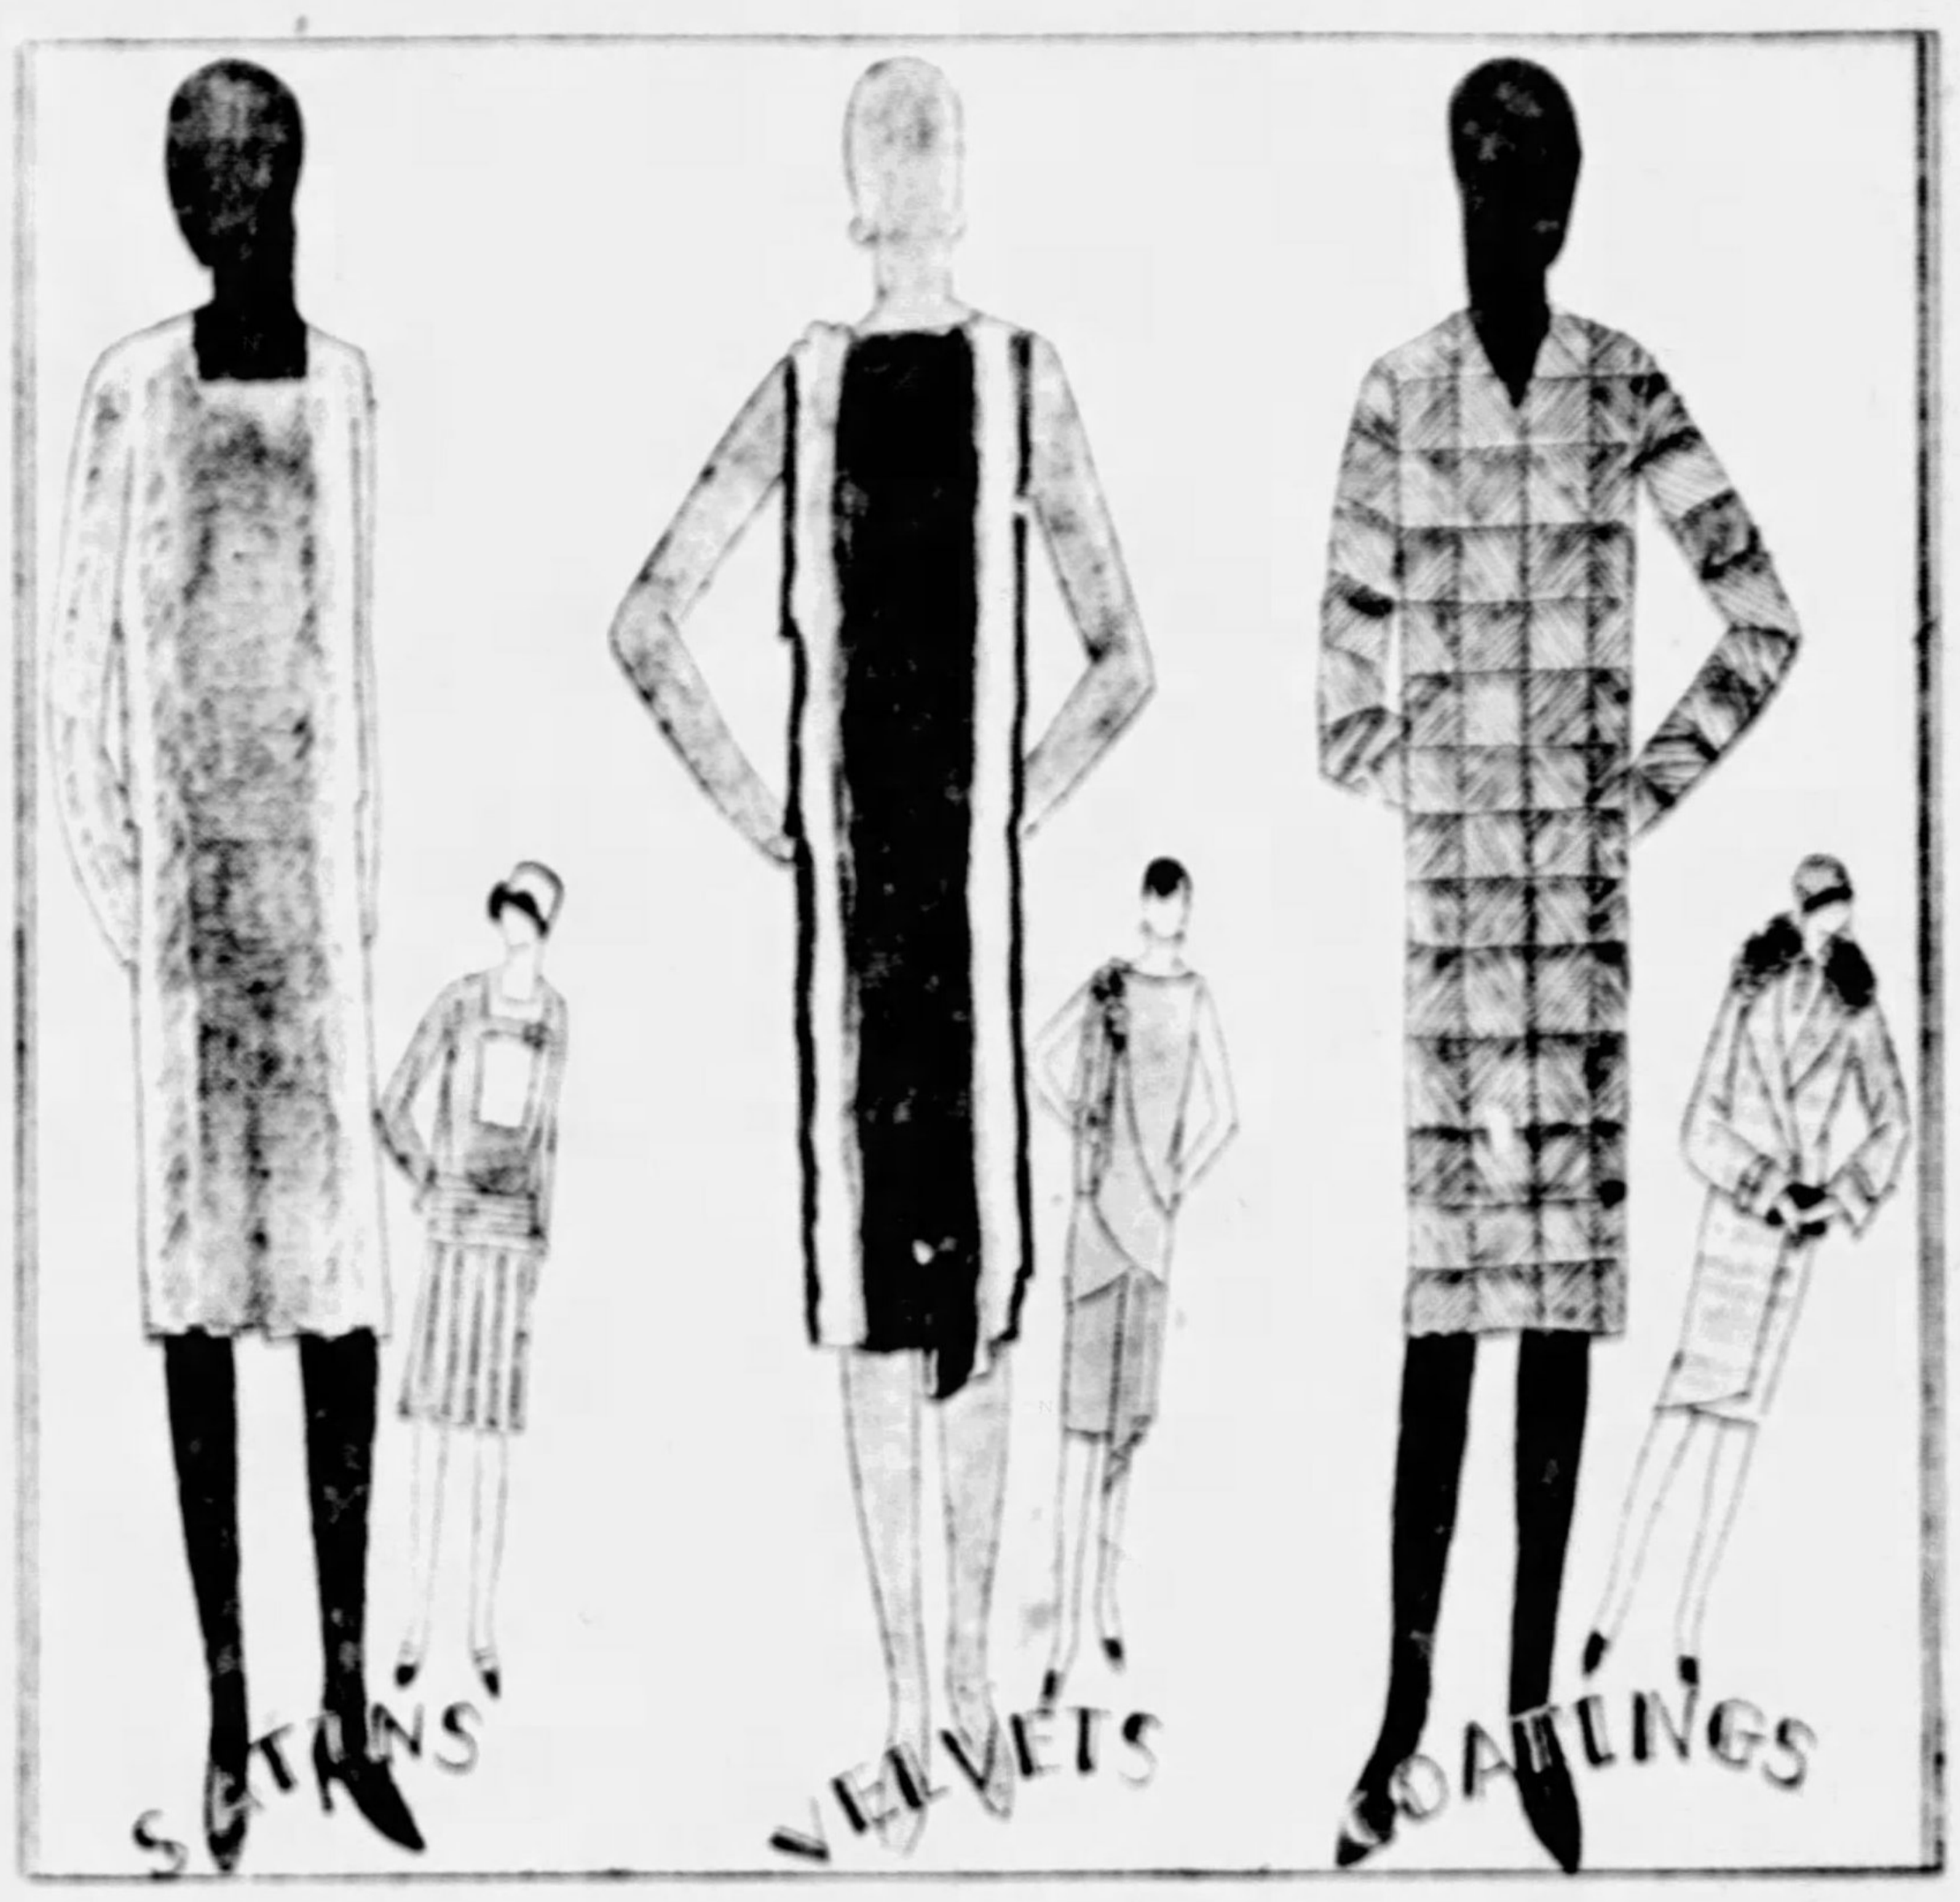
New Black-and-White Umbrellas

—with Nu-shape frames of silvered brass to harmonize with the combination of black covering and the black and white checkered and striped borders. Some are covered with Union silk and have novelty wood handles. $5.00. Others are all silk with composition handles and cords in black and white. $7.50 to $10.00.

Men's umbrellas with rustless frames covered with Gloria (silk-and-cotton) with Prince of Wales' and opera handles. $5.00 and $7.50.

—Horne's, Main Floor—



—Three Leaders in the Fall Fabric Parade

Color, line, and texture—these are the ingredients of style. And a casual inspection of the rich new fabrics will disclose the colors and textures which are to be most smart for fall and winter, and will suggest the lines of the chic silhouette, as well.

Satin Back Crepe
—Featured for daytime frocks, especially. The model sketched (Vogue pattern, S 3149) depends on its svelte line and rich fabric for smartness. Trim enough to wear on the street, it is also dressy enough for almost any day time occasion.

The fabric is perhaps the most versatile and universally flattering of materials, because of its two equally usable surfaces. For fall, the satin side is most often used for the greater part of the dress, with insets and trimmings of crepe. Shown in the new shades of brown, blue and gray, as well as black. 39 inches wide. $2.95 to $6.95 yard.

Transparent Velvet
—Without a doubt, the smartest fabric for evening, especially if it is developed in all black, as in the sketch above. This shows Vogue pattern S 3154, with the moulded hip-line, slight blouse, and soft drapes which are so enthusiastically endorsed by Fashion.

The loveliness of this sheerest-of-velvets can hardly be imagined. It drapes like satin, and has the rich depth of color peculiar to pile fabrics. It is charming for day-time frocks, too, alone or with chiffon. Presented here in a splendid assortment of gorgeous shades, and black and white. 38 inches wide. $12.00 and $13.50 yard.

New Coatings
Sketched is a plain, well-tailored coat of novelty plaid in shades of tan and brown, in which every heavy thread forms an integral part of the design. The pattern is Butterick, 1556, and is suitable for a fall coat or an inter-lined winter one.

This is one of a great many very lovely novelty coatings of the light but warm weight which is equally desirable for fall and winter coats. There are diagonals, right-angle weaves, basket weaves, checks, and plaids, in many of which the designs are softened by a slight but decided down. 54 inches wide. $6.50 to $11.50 yard.

—Horne's, Main Floor—

Perky Fall Hats
$10.00

Little brimmed hats turning abruptly off the face in the manner pictured, or tied back in a piquant way; and turbans cut to reveal one eyebrow, or given height by a self tiara—they are perky models in new $10.00 hats.

They are of felt, of velours, and of felt trimmed with velvet.

—Horne's, Fourth Floor—

Women's Shoes, $3.85

These shoes, representing broken and discontinued lines of timely, wearable numbers, must be hurried out of our stock, regardless of their former prices, and at this figure they should attract hundreds of women, tomorrow.

The large group includes sports oxfords, semi-sports pumps and sandals, sandals and other types for wear with daytime frocks, and opera pumps for street wear and train travel.

A great variety of leathers, and all sizes, will be found in the huge collection.

—Horne's, Second Floor—

Challis All-Day Dresses
$8.95
Sizes 16 to 44

Cooler mornings require a warmer frock than the lace-trimmed voile that was so satisfactory for all-day wear a month ago.

The new All-Day Dresses are of fine French challis which provides additional warmth without additional weight. Four models in colorful prints—blue, green, or lavender on white, tan on blue, brown on tan—as cheerful as the chintz curtains at your kitchen window. Crepe de chine collars, vestees, and belts of the material or of leather.

Dress sketched is gayly blocked in an all-over design. Three box pleats in front. Collar of white crepe de chine and belt of white leather.

—Horne's, Third Floor—

Wool Comforts, $8.50
In the Bedding Sale

A fine Wool Comfort and a splendid value at this price. Filled with clean, soft, white wool, and covered with a pretty and serviceable French cambric. It comes in a small rose-bud design, with plain color sateen border, in rose, blue, lavender and yellow. Scroll-stitched to prevent lumping of wool. Sizes 72x84 inches.

A heavier extra-filled Wool Comfort, covered with flowered sateen, with two band plain color border, in rose, blue, yellow, and lavender; size 72x84 inches. $12.00 each.

—Horne's, Fourth Floor—

Tennis Racquets, $2.95

"Horne Special" tennis racquet, made especially for us, with stout, well-balanced hickory frame, and strung with good quality gut. A special value at this price. A finer Horne racquet, special, $3.45.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS SPREADS IN OHIO

73 Known Cases Since First of Month

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Spreading of infantile paralysis in Ohio has mounted to 73 known cases since the first of the month, and Dr. C. P. Robbins, chief of the division of communicable diseases of the State Health Department, warned parents to keep their children at home in communities where the disease is prevalent.

According to Dr. Robbins the situation is [illegible]. Ordinarily the number of cases would [illegible] be alarming, he said, [illegible] scarcity of the valuable Rosenow serum. Most of the cases are reported in Tuscarawas, Belmont and Hamilton counties.

TOWNSHIP POLLS SHIFTED

After 12 citizens had testified, Judge George V. Moore in Criminal Court today ordered that the Creighton Volunteer Hose Company building be used as the polling place for the First Ward of East Deer township instead of the Municipal building. The hose company building had been abandoned recently after seven years' use in favor of the Municipal building.

NAME NATIONAL FASHION QUEEN TONIGHT

By ALFHILD LARSON,
Pittsburgh's Queen of Fashion.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 18.—One more night—tonight—and we will know who is to be crowned Queen of Fashion. I am holding my breath, for today will be an ordeal.

Yesterday afternoon the judges came to the Forest Park Hotel. We came down in our street clothes, went into a reception room and modeled for them, to give them a chance to see our carriage and ability at closer range than the stage allows.

Afterward we changed into evening clothes. It was shaky business, I don't mind telling you—facing them at such close range. There are seven judges and all are from the South, I believe.

The winner will be announced from the stage tonight. It will not be an enjoyable occasion, I am afraid, even if I do win, for all the girls are so nice I would feel sorry for the other nine.

Too Speedy

ROGER W. KAHN FINED, Roger Wolfe Kahn, son of Otto Kahn, multi-millionaire financier and grand opera patron, who has just turned his attention from jazz orchestras to aviation, was arrested and fined $25 in New York City for speeding.

HEADLIGHT LAW VIOLATORS WARNED

Traffic Inspector B. B. Marshall issued a warning and a suggestion to motorists today. He advised drivers to have their headlights focused at 17 stations he named and warned "road hogs" of a campaign to keep clear the center traffic lines on the downtown boulevards.

The official focus stations are New Allies garage, 3131 Forbes street; Conn Motor garage, South Twenty-first street; Ben H. Werner, 2135 Brownsville road, Carrick; Craft Avenue garage, 248 Craft avenue; Ohio Street garage, Lockhart and East Ohio streets; Sheridan Accessory and Battery Store, 2801 Chartiers avenue; Jones-Zanczek Motor company, 1529 Brownsville road; Johnson's garage, 210 South Highland avenue; Updegraff's garage, 701 Warrington avenue; Auto Laundry, 44 Water street; Merfa Auto Repair company, 1408 Rutherford street, Beechview; O'Neil Motor company, 4816 Second avenue; Preble Avenue Auto Service, 3002 Preble avenue; Maxon Tire Service, 3901 California avenue; South Hills Motor company, 1616 Beechview avenue; Hoevelerr-Zogelman, Brownsville road, Carrick, and the Studebaker Sales, Baum boulevard. With the exception of the Auto Laundry, all the stations will operate during the day. The Auto Laundry station will have day and night service.

LEAVES $35,000 ESTATE

The $35,000 estate of Clyde L. Holland, according to his will filed today, is left to his widow, Katharine E. Holland, of 1732 North Sheridan avenue.

Lemon Juice is Best to Whiten Skin

Prepare It Yourself at Home

The juice of two lemons squeezed into a bottle with Orchard White will soothe sunburn, and clear up freckles, tan, discolored skin quicker than anything you can buy already prepared, and it doesn't cost you near as much.

Any druggist can sell you Orchard White, and it only takes a minute to mix it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have enough to last you all season.

It makes a delightful lotion which you can put on your face, neck, arms or hands at any time, and it will keep them nice and white. Mix a bottle now, so you will have it handy to use should your skin begin to turn dark or rough.

"That Kruschen Feeling"

"Keep your blood young and you'll keep your heart young, too," says Grandpa.

"Two tiny tablets of Kruschen Salts dissolved in your morning coffee (they're tasteless) puts you right with nature. They insure regular, easy and complete elimination of waste matter and keep pure fresh blood pounding through your veins. Get that always fit and fine "Kruschen feeling"—It's the little daily dose that does it.

BLOOMFIELD TRADERS PICNIC -:- FUN AND PERSONALITIES

SAT IT OUT.

All's not food and foot races at a picnic. It can be made a time for quiet discussion of this and that, if you're so inclined. So J. J. Smith and Helen Marshall found at the Bloomfield Board of Trade picnic.

STUCK TOGETHER.

Though you suspect that the boys got mixed in occasionally. These are the girls of the Crazy Age club. The members said the club name was simply a "frank admission." They are: Front row—left to right, Mildred Ciarmarella and Mary De Cara; central row—Mrs. S. De Salvo, Josephine Profeta and Anna De Cara; rear row—Theresa De Salvo, Angeline Casale, Angeline Ciarmella and Sarah De Cara.

SUBSTITUTES.

W. D. Larkin, general chairman of the picnic, had 12 children of his own there, but they left him by himself, so he entertained Mary Jean Steffel, 2, of Perrysville road, West View, and Marion Skoloda, 2, of Edmund street.

HUNTING BEER FLAT, SHOT FOR BURGLAR

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—One man was killed and another captured as they were prowling about [illegible] stairways looking for a beer flat. The man captured was Otto Hadatz. He said he knew his companion only as Shannon. He was shot in the eye by Bernard [illegible] who thought they were burglars attempting to break in his flat. Hadatz said he was looking for a beer flat the exact address of which he did not know.

SOUTH SIDE THIEF GETS MEXICAN GOLD, JEWELRY

One hundred and fifty-five dollars in Mexican gold and [illegible] in American money, two diamond rings valued at $200 each and other jewelry valued at $125 were among the articles stolen from the home of Angelina Leynos, [illegible] Carson street, who reported the robbery to the South Side police. Entrance to the house was gained by use of a pass key, which the thieves left in the keyhole.

LEGIONNAIRES ARRIVE IN FRANCE

CHERBOURG, France, Aug. 18—(AP)—The American Expeditionary Forces' return to France and its battlefields began today when the liner President Harding, first of the official American Legion transports, unloaded half its contingent of "buddies" here for their invasion of Paris.

The other half of the 500 legionnaires remained on the liner for a trip to England before proceeding to Paris for the Legion convention.

The "Marseillaise," "Tipperary" and marching songs came over the water as lighters brought the veterans ashore. Even a few new ones were composed for the occasion.

The cheers and loud laughter on the quay were broken now and then by little cries and tears of joy as French fathers and mothers greeted the war brides who had come back with their American husbands, some of them with babies the grandparents had never seen.

CHECK FUGITIVE CAPTURED

Federal authorities here were advised today of the arrest in Butte, Mont., of George C. McDonald, 29, of Portland, Ore., who, under the name of George C. Carter was said to have had printed in Pittsburgh 100 spurious checks purporting to be those of the Continental Motors Company. The forging and passing of one of the checks in Denver, Col., led to his apprehension in Butte, it was said.

COMMISSION APPROVES INTERURBAN RATE CUT

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 18—The Public Service Commission has approved reductions in rates on the 44-trip and 60-trip commuters' tickets of the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Railway Company and the Pittsburgh, Mars and Butler Railway Company, effective September 1. Reductions in these rates will be effective from all points, except in the first fare zones.

DORMONT MOTORCYCLIST HIT BY AUTO AS HE SKIDS

Ralph Byers, 23, of 1609 Memorial drive, Dormont, is in the South Side Hospital with injuries of the head, suffered last night when he was struck by an automobile after his motorcycle had skidded on the car rails in West Liberty avenue. Dr. Robert Anderson, of 215 Outlook street, Mt. Lebanon, driver of the machine, took Byers to the hospital.

Weather Conditions.

The storm, yesterday morning central over the middle Mississippi Valley and the northern plains states, is centered over Virginia this morning, having caused light to moderate showers generally in the northern plains states and the districts east of the Mississippi river.

An extensive area of high pressure extends from the western part of the Dakotas northward into Canada, to a center over Saskatchewan, 30.38 inches. This high is causing fair and cooler weather in the western plains states, the Rocky Mountain region, and northward into Canada.

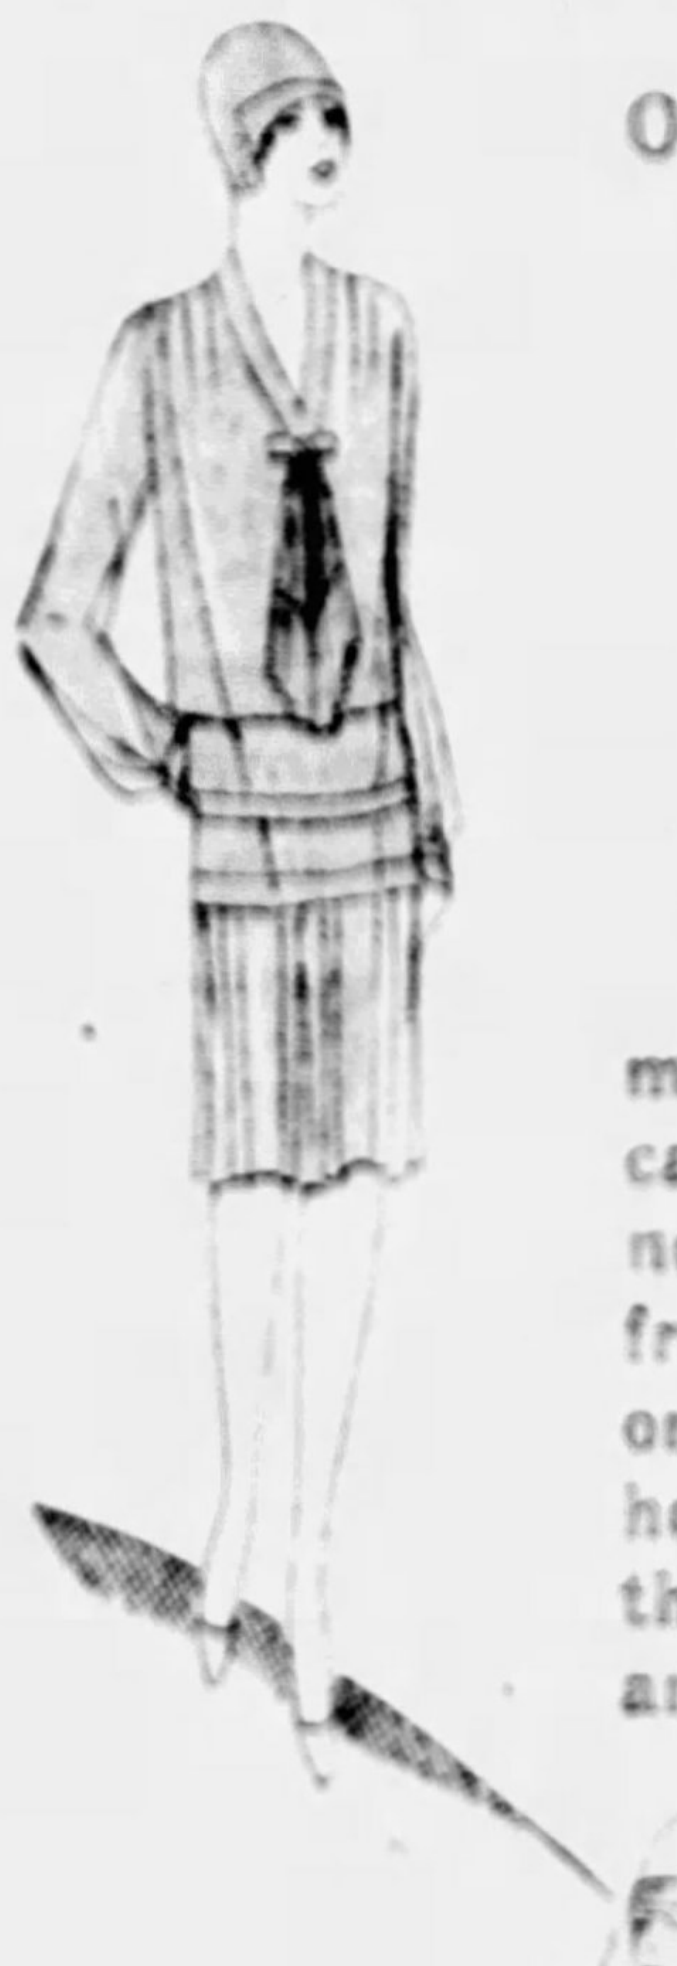
Important Special Purchase of New Autumn

Navy Blue Georgette Frocks



Our Fashion Experts Have Chosen Twenty Chic Modes of Early Autumn and Had Them Specially Interpreted in Heavy Navy Georgette to Sell at the Amazingly Low Price of

Sizes 16 to 48 $10.00

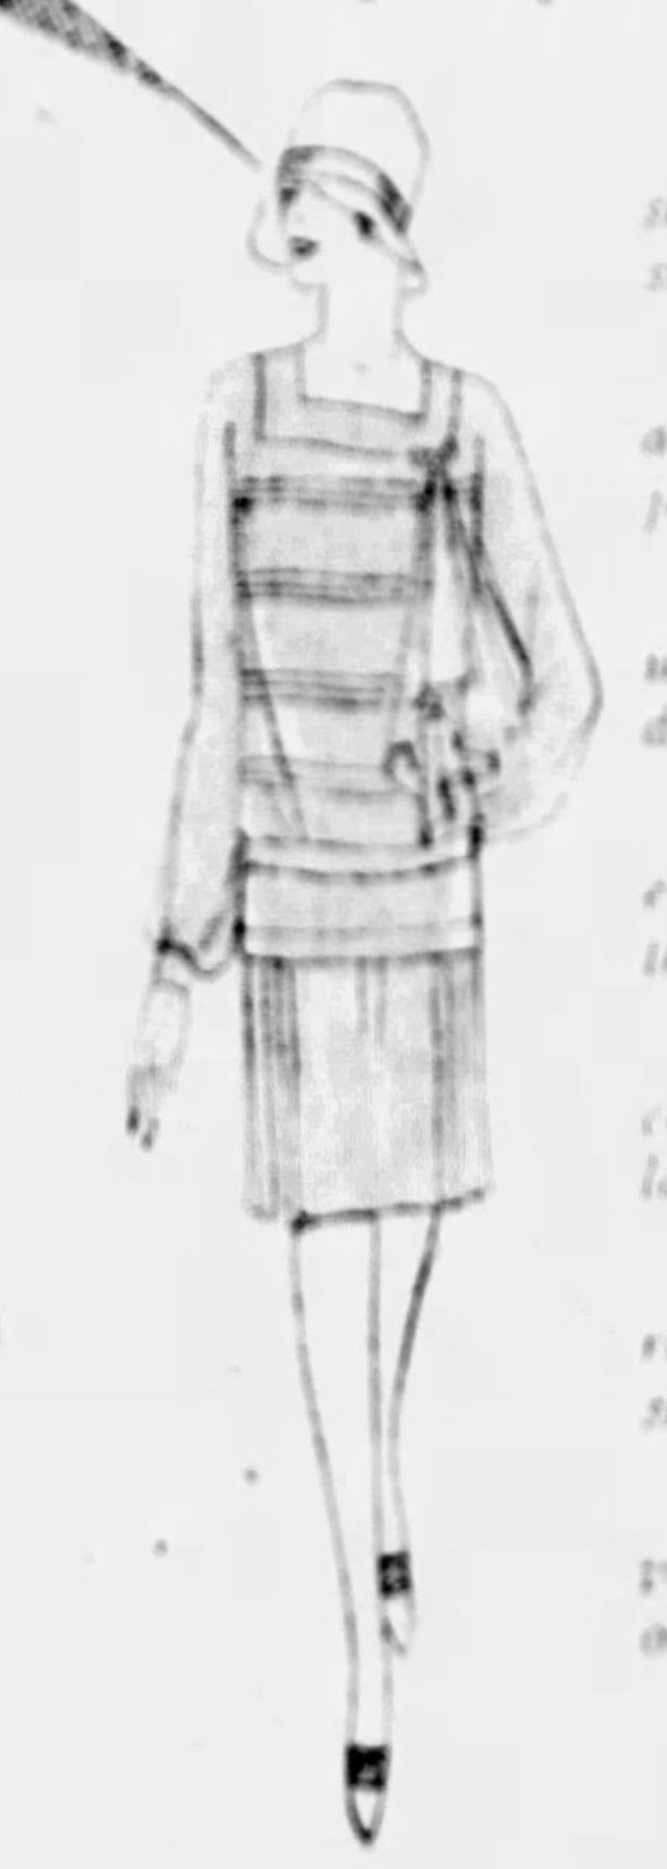
When you see the window displays of these new modes in navy Georgette you'll look twice at the price card to assure yourself that the price is really $10.00 and not far more—for they have decidedly the appearance of frocks far higher in price. When you hurry in to try them on, you'll be surprised again to see how smart the modes, how generously they are fashioned, how firm and rich the quality of the Georgette. Really not $10.00 frocks in any respect but the price ticket!

Choose them for travel, for business for afternoon wear



Two-Piece Frocks with Vionnet-type blouses showing horizontal group tuckings and rippling side jabots of flesh pink and navy.

Slender frocks with V-type necks from which are suspended finely pleated jabots caught with jeweled brooches. Their skirts in group pleats.

Bolero-type frocks with double scalloped motifs piped with navy satin or with cape-like drapes and shoulder corsages.

Tailored-type frocks with hand-fagoted gilet effects and collars that may be worn high after the club manner or rolling.

Two-piece frocks with flesh pink Peter Pan collars, cuffs, jabots and perforated navy blue leather belts.

Finely pleated frocks in two-piece effect with round collars, cuffs and ties edged with fluted shell pink Georgette.

Frocks with finely pleated ecru Georgette vestees or with ecru pipings or with ecru organdie and lace collars.

CLUB ONLY ONE OF KIND IN COUNTRY

Officers of the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club, believed to be the only one of its kind in the United States, met at Congress of Clubs to discuss activities for the coming year. Left to right (above)—Mrs. S. J. Corbett, recording secretary; Mrs. Walter R. Fleming, member of by-laws committee; Mrs. John S. Sloan, life president; Mrs. Carl E. Cosolowsky, honorary member; Mrs. George J. Campbell, treasurer; Mrs. D. Edwin Miller and Mrs. David I. McCahill, vice presidents.

BRIDGE PARTY TO BE HELD FOR SCHOLARSHIP CLUB

For the benefit of the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club, a bridge party will be given at the Wildwood home of Mrs. George J. Campbell on the afternoon of Saturday, September 17. The transportation problem will be solved in a new way, in that every woman selling tickets for the benefit will look after the transportation of those to whom she has sold. Mrs. David I. McCahill has been appointed chairman of transportation; Mrs. W. B. Carson of prizes; Mrs. Walter R. Fleming, Mrs. D. Edwin Miller and Mrs. George W. Hiett are co-chairmen of patronesses, and Mrs. S. J. Corbett and Mrs. W. A. McMasters of cards.

At a luncheon meeting of the officers held yesterday afternoon in the Congress of Clubs with Mrs. John S. Sloan as hostess, it was voted to meet regularly the first Saturday of each month, from September to May inclusive. The annual meeting and election will be held in April.

An interesting article by Matilda Orr Hays entitled "Lend a Hand," which is a plea for help for the blind, especially towards the endowment and furnishing of Torrance House, the new home for blind women, is a leading feature of this month's issue of "The Outlet," official publication of the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. Charles Morris Johnson is also a contributor this month, her name following an article on "Why Worry?" Only three of the regular departments, the fine arts, the literature and the "Within the Portals" are present in the current issue.

FRECKLES WASHED AWAY WITH PLEASANT SOAP

Results Guaranteed

Almost any girl would spend many dollars and endure any sort of treatment to be rid of freckles.

But the best way is the simplest. And the simplest way to get rid of freckles is to wash the face with Stiefel's Freckle Soap and let the freckles fade out while you sleep.

Stiefel's Soap is not a bleach. It is a pleasant, safe soap. Losing your freckles is merely a matter of washing your face with Stiefel's Soap.

The house of J. D. Stiefel has made medicated soaps used and prescribed by physicians for over seventy years. Ask your doctor.

Stiefel's Freckle Soap is sold by local druggists with a guarantee to return your money if your freckles don't quickly disappear. Mailed direct upon receipt of 75 cents to J. D. Stiefel, Inc., 246 Pearl St., N. Y. C.

Should I try to burn Gas in a coal furnace ?

Answer: No! Most emphatically no! Coal furnaces were never meant to burn gas and hence they are very wasteful. Most of the heat goes up the chimney when gas is used in them. And they rarely provide sufficient heat to keep the home warm. If they do, it is at an exorbitant cost.

Question: Why do approved gas furnaces give the best results?

Answer: In the first place, they are designed for burning gas, and are constructed to absorb practically all the heat in the gas before permitting burnt gases to reach the flue.

Question: Why are approved gas furnaces more economical?

Answer: They burn only enough gas to produce the required amount of heat. By automatic control the gas flame is turned low or completely out when a given room temperature is reached. Then the whole furnace is bottled up—much like a vacuum bottle—and no heat is permitted to escape to the chimney, because the draft is automatically closed until the thermostat relights the burners. Thus, no gas is wasted when none is needed.

Question: How can I be sure to choose the right heater for my home?

Answer: Simply call your local agent or write to the address below and ask for a House Heating Engineer to call. He will tell you the size and type you need, explain how economical gas heat can be for your particular home and make any other recommendations which will give you heating satisfaction this winter. His services are absolutely free—no obligation either.

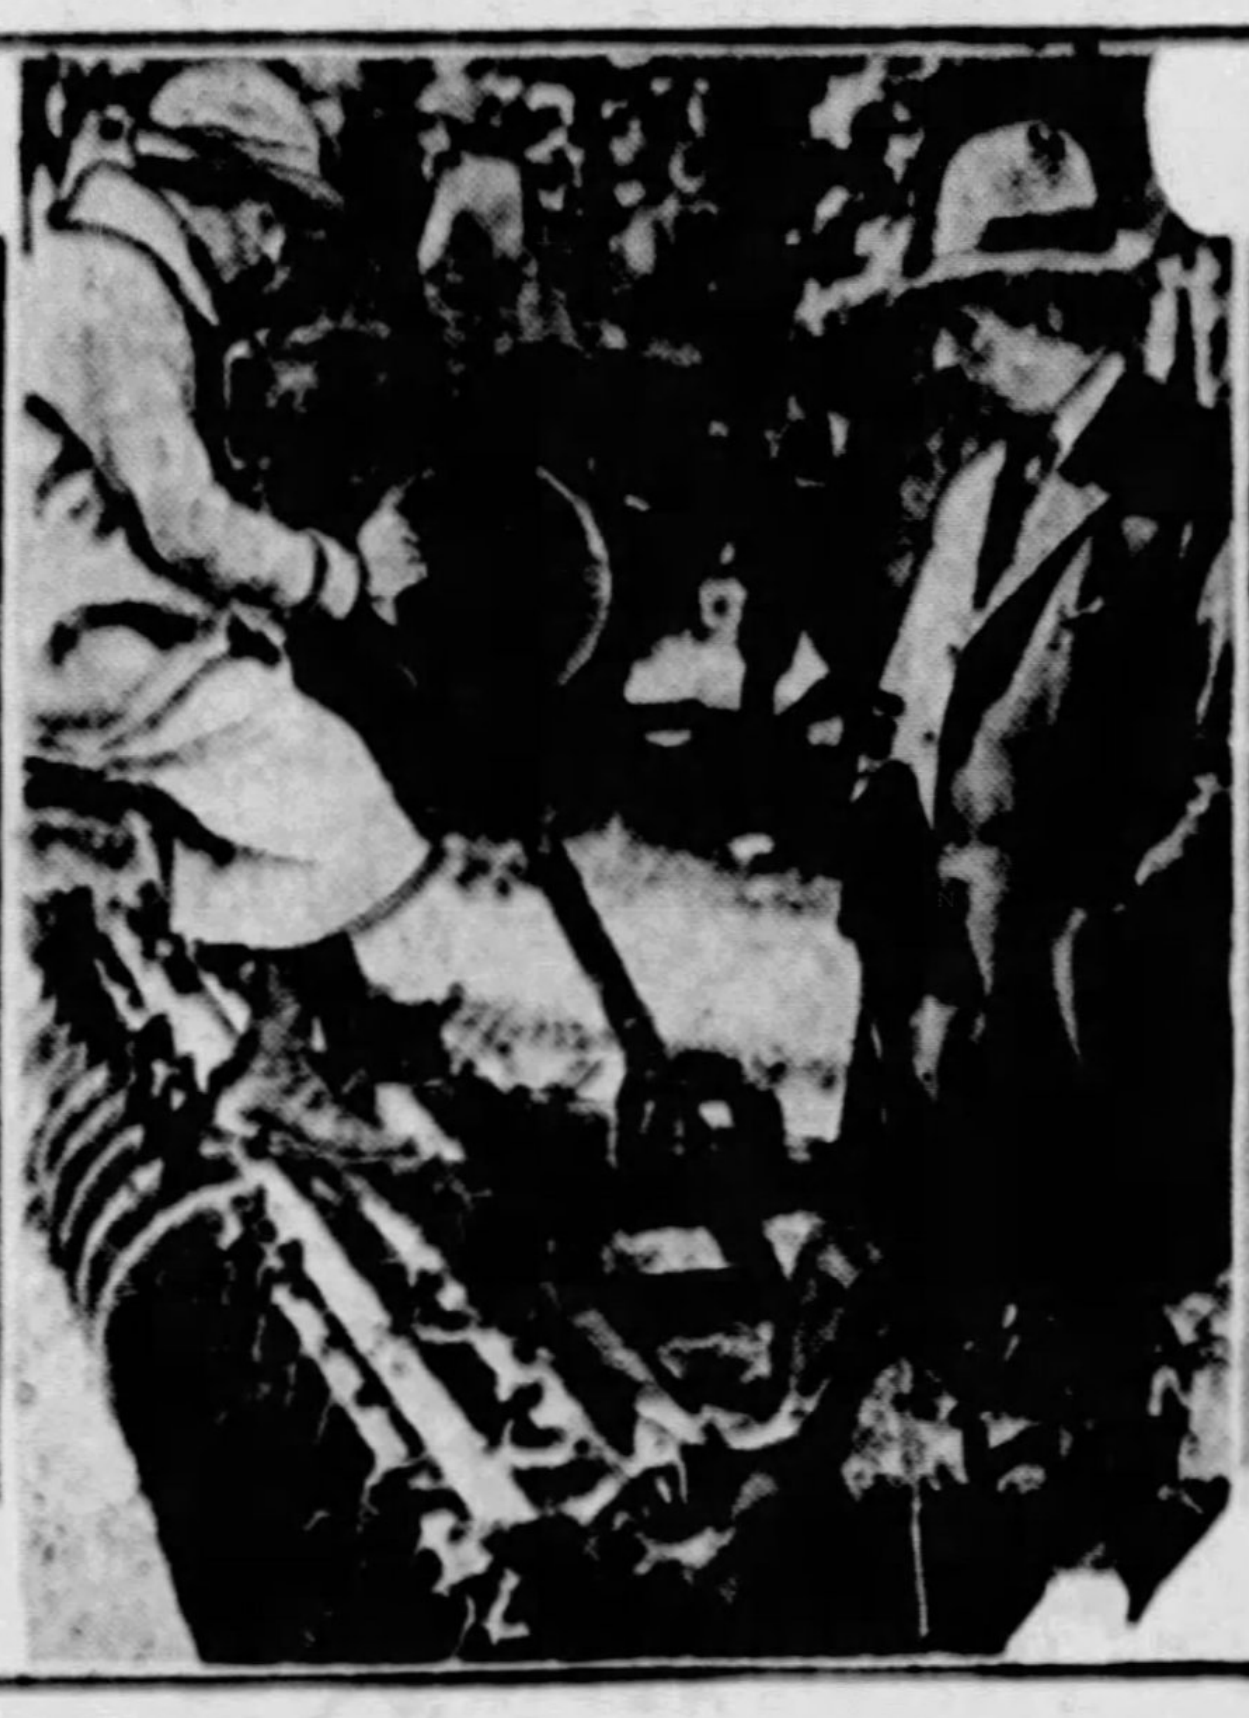
HEIGHT OF CAREER -:- ARMOUR FAMILY AND HOME -:- AT LAKE FOREST

J. OGDEN ARMOUR
Mr. Armour about 10 years ago while he was active head of the giant concern in the Chicago stock yard district.



WAR ACTIVITIES
Inspecting his farm during the war, when production of food was one of the nation's big problems.

RUSHES
Mrs. J. J. Mitchell, Jr., former Lolita Armour, who rushed to father's London deathbed on first word of illness.

MELODY FARM, HOME
Armour delighted in quiet and beauty and sought to surround himself in that manner at all times. This view of his beautiful Lake Forest home is called by friends a clear indication of the character of Mr. Armour.

Sally's Shoulders

ENGROSSING
DRAMATIC

By BEATRICE BURTON

A Broken Heart, Worst of All Ills, Was the Complaint Mrs. Jerome Suffered

What Has Gone Before

SALLY JEROME, 20 and pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who has been separated from her mother for nine years.

The family consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU, who's the apple of his mother's eye, and MILLIE, a young siren, and Sally, herself. Mrs. Jerome is an invalid, so Sally does the housework mornings and works in MR. PEEVEY'S office downtown afternoons.

In the flat just below the Jerome's flat lives young TED SLOAN, who's in love with Sally. Sally, however, has small interest in him except as a dancing partner. She adores dancing.

The only man she is sentimentally interested in is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey's office. She barely knows him, however.

On a hot Monday in August Millie drops into Sally's office with the news that she had to quit another job because another employer tried to make love to her. This is always Sally's story, but Sally knows that the real reason for Millie's quitting is because her employer did NOT make love to her. Beau's best girl, MABEL WILMOT, has told her that Millie "just won't work around an office where there's nobody attractive enough to give her a thrill."

Millie gets a glimpse of young Mr. Nye and decides to run over and ask him if he needs a good stenographer, by any chance. Sally is dreadfully afraid that he will. She hates the thought of the siren, Millie, working for John Nye all day, six days a week.

But later that afternoon Nye tells her that his secretary has been married, and asks her if she knows of a girl who would do for him. Sally unwillingly tells him about Millie and promises to send her down next morning. Millie is out when she gets home for supper. Beau's ill, and Mrs. Jerome is in bed, worn out with the heat. Ted Sloan helps Sally get some food ready for them, and casually ask her to marry him. When Mrs. Jerome hears about it she cries, and Sally promises never to marry Ted.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"OF COURSE she has them!" she was wont to say in her tart way. "My head would ache too if I lived the way she does! Lying around in bed half the time with her nose in a book, and eating herself to death! If she'd get up and stir around she wouldn't have so many aches and pains. She's no more sick than I am. And I certainly am not . . . . She's got the dry rot, that's all!"

There was a good deal of truth in what Aunt Emily had to say on the subject. Mrs. Jerome wasn't half so sick as she was unhappy. She was filled with a deep disgust with life, and had been ever since she had lost her husband.

Now that her children were grown and no longer needed her, she had no interest in life except the books in which she buried her humiliation and her sorrow. Her sickroom was a kind of safe habor from the world. There she hid herself from the people who pitied her, month in and month out, year after year.

She was, as Aunt Emily said, "no more sick than I'm sick." But she was broken-hearted. And that, after all, is the worst of all the ills that we mortals are heir to.

Sally leaned over the bed and kissed her on her soft, cool cheek. "Dear, you'd like some more of that rye bread, wouldn't you?" she asked. "I'll get you some right away."

"I'll have a little of that apple sauce we had last night for supper, too, if there's any of it left," her mother called as she left the darkened room, with its over-powering smell of cologne and camphor.

Ted Sloan was still sitting on the corner of the table when Sally went back into the kitchen for the apple sauce.

"You still here, old thing?" she asked him with light carelessness. "I'm sorry I'm so busy right now. But I am—and after I take this apple sauce to Mother, I've got to get supper for Beau and myself. So if you've anything to do, you'd better not wait for me."

"I've all the time in the world," he answered slowly and deliberately. "I can sit here 'til morning if necessary."

"But it isn't necessary!" Sally's voice was sharp all at once. "And, honestly, I can't do a thing with you sitting there, staring at me like an owl. You make me nervous. . . . Go on home like a nice boy and then I'll go out dancing with you tomorrow night maybe!"

The thing that first had drawn Sally and Ted Sloan was his dancing. She never had liked him very well until one night when he had come upstairs to teach her the "Charleston." That had been two years before, and since then they had danced together once or twice a week. Ted's mother said they were "dancing fools" and sarcastically advised them to get a job on a vaudeville circuit.

He got up now to go downstairs to her. "Well, if I'm going to be kicked out I'd better hit the skids myself," he said, and went, banging the screen door behind him. "See you tomorrow. I want to talk to you—seriously."

Beau came shuffling into the kitchen in a pair of old tennis slippers. His blond hair was rumpled, and his eyes looked as if he needed sleep.

"Thought you were going to get me some chow," he grumbled. "And instead of that, you're out here chewing the fat with Sloan! What's the big idea, anyway?"

"The big idea is that I couldn't get rid of him!" cried Sally, cheerfully, defending herself. She was always explaining herself and making apologies to the family.

"You slice that cold roast beef in the ice-box and I'll make you some sandwiches as soon as I give Mother this apple sauce," she went on. "And I must take her some more bread, too. I almost forgot that."

Beau took a step towards the ice-box. But just at that instant the telephone rang and he rushed to answer it. From the tones of his voice Sally could tell that he was talking to his Mabel.

"Say, listen. Mabel wants to throw a party here," he said to her an hour later, when they had finished their supper and were doing the dishes.

Every now and then Beau would help with the work around the house. And when he did, it always meant that he had an ax to grind—a favor to ask. So Sally was not surprised now.

"When does she want to have it?" she asked, hoping that Mabel wasn't going to "throw" a party in this broiling August heat.

But it seemed that she was.

"Tomorrow night," Beau answered, watching his sister from the corner of his light blue eye. "Not a big party. Just a few people in to have some sandwiches and ice cream, or something. She said you'd know what to order."

"Does she want me to order the food?" asked Sally, scalding the tea cups. "Because I don't know what she wants, or how many people she's going to have. . . I'd better call her up."

"No, you don't have to. She won't have more than ten. She said so," Beau assured her. "I don't see why she doesn't have them at her own place—but she always says you know how to do everything so well."

This was perfectly true. Mabel was always telling Sally what a good housekeeper she was, and how nicely she did things.

"Oh, how sweet your table looks!" she would twitter sometimes when she came to Sunday dinner and found fresh flowers on the clean table, with its shining glass and silver. Or "Oh, what perfectly darling cushions you've made for your porch chairs! Sally Jerome, you smart thing!"

And Sally, like most of us human things, was not flattery-proof.

So now she said: "All right, Beau. I'll get some kind of lunch ready tomorrow night. Only I can't be here. I've a heavy date to go dancing with Teddy."

A swift look of relief passed over Beau's handsome face, but Sally did not se it.

"How about fruit punch instead of ice cream?" she asked, and he said that would be "the cat's whiskers."

Beau was always calling things "the cat's whiskers" or "the cat's pajamas" or "the cat's bathing suit." He would use a slang phrase until it was worn thin and threadbare—until everybody else in the world had forgotten it. But he always said it as if it was something brand new—something that had just popped into his brain.

Mabel, who was as sharp as a needle, called him "Beautiful-but-dumb" to his face.

"You're a simp and a cuckoo, but I love you anyway," she would say to him. "And I'm going to marry you even if I have to keep on working to pay the grocery bills!"

At midnight Millie came home with her hair wind-blown, her eyes misty and dreamy and a large bunch of common white-and-yellow daisies pinned on her breast.

"Picked these in a field along the road," she said sweetly to Sally, who was still awake and reading in bed. "Johnny Davidson took me driving for millions of miles to a roadhouse called 'The Red Mill.' Ever been there?"

Sally shook her head. She barely heard what her sister was saying.

"How pretty she is!" she was thinking, "particularly when she's been out in the air, and the wind has blown some of that rouge and

Dennison Man Watches As Thief Calmly Steals Auto

DENNISON, O., Aug. 18.—S. D. McCoun, proprietor of a music store, knows now what the height of audacity is. Standing in front of his store, McCoun was spellbound to see a stranger stroll up, jump into the McCoun automobile and drive nonchalantly off. When he recovered McCoun notified police. The stranger, however, has neglected to return.

PUT IN HOSPITAL TWICE IN DAY

Twice rushed to the emergency room of the same hospital by the same crew of wagonmen within eight hours, is the record of Henry Rapp, 56, friend of city policemen and detectives for more than 20 years. Rapp was struck by an automobile early this morning at Fifth avenue and Ross street, receiving severe lacerations of the head. He was taken to the Mercy Hospital where his injuries were dressed. Released, Rapp returned to Ross street where he was found wandering in a dazed condition by a patrolman who had him taken to the hospital again in the patrol.

GLASS FIRM.

That report came over from the John Dilworth market at 2200 Sarah street today. When a Swift & Co. truck careened off another and into the corner stone of John Dilworth's store the impact carried rows of bricks intact from the side base to the front of the store and smack against a display window. But the window refused to break. Peter Winovich, 25, of 2828 Larkins way, driver of truck, was arrested along with E. F. Noble, 125 Calhoun avenue, whose machine collided with truck.

$50,000,000 Winner, Durant Will Rest

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—William C. Durant, multi-millionaire automobile magnate and stock market leader, will sail on the Homeric for a seven weeks' vacation to Europe Friday.

Since his short trip abroad last August Mr. Durant has had the most active 12 months of his 65 years. He has added millions to the fortune he cleaned up in his sensational stock market "comeback," and for the last three months has been busily working to put his Star car in a position of prominence.

Mr. Durant has been the outstanding stock market operator in the Coolidge bull market. Since the autumn of 1924 it is estimated his profits in the market are more than $50,000,000.

Three months ago he announced a campaign for pushing the Star output, and since then has been working day and night.

Mr. Durant will journey through France, Switzerland and other countries to rest in preparation for an active winter and spring.

2 DRIVERS FACE CHARGES

Two truck drivers were held for grand jury on charges of man[illegible] coroner's jury today.

Andrew Williams, 26, driver for Al[illegible]ing Company, was held in the death of James Engles, 421 Hill street. For the crash which cost 7-year-old Martha Chernick, of 314 Third avenue, Rankin, her life, a Negro, Ashley Hughes, 24, of 2245 Mahon street, was ordered held.

Engles was toppled off Williams' truck beneath two barrels of oil on Wildwood road near Verona Saturday, and a physician's certificate was produced to show that Williams was intoxicated while driving.

Hughes, according to testimony, was driving recklessly when his truck crashed into the machine driven by the Chernick girl's father at Aiken and Center avenues August 12.

CHARGES GUARDS STOP TRADE

Coal and iron police prevented his delivering groceries to miners, Joe Infantino testified at the hearing of his father's petition for an injunction to restrain the Pittsburgh Coal Company from interfering with his business, in Common Pleas Court.

The coal company contended that the interference was because Charles Infantino, the father, sold liquor to the miners. Joe Infantino, admitting he had twice been fined for selling liquor, denied the charge against his father.

DRY PARTY IS COUNTY'S ONLY HOPE, GARBER SAYS

The people of Allegheny county must look to the Prohibition party for relief "from the wretched civic conditions which have been foisted upon the community," said H. Rea Garber, East End insurance broker, who is a Prohibition candidate for county commissioner. Both Republican and Democratic parties, he said, are dominated by a corrupt ring that is "squandering public money and bartering public morals."

AWARD DAM NO. 6 BEAR TRAP CONTRACT

The Independent Bridge Company was the lowest of five companies bidding for the contract of constructing two sets of bear trap leaves to be installed at Dam No. 6, Ohio River, Maj. Jarvis J. Bain, U. S. district engineer, has announced. The bid was $71,932.95.

HIS LIABILITIES HIGHER THAN ASSETS

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The Herald-Examiner today says that J. Ogden Armour, who once refused $130,000,000 for his interest in Armour and Company, died leaving liabilities that will not be covered by his assets and stated that he owed at the time of his death in the neighborhood of $20,000,000, most of which was due Armour and Company.

The newspaper quoted a close but unnamed financial associate of Mr. Armour as saying the packer owed between $17,500,000 and $22,500,000 as a result of unsuccessful speculation in lands, grains and stocks with post-war deflation as a contributory cause.

Of the purported debts, the papers said between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 was due Armour and Company, but this was understood to be protected by good collateral. The $7,500,000 estimated balance is secured by 36,000 acres of his Sutter Basin land development projekt in California.

The biggest single unincumbered asset of the Armour estate, according to the newspaper account, is the $3,000,000 Mellody Farm in Lake Forest, consisting of 1,000 acres.

The exact riches of Mr. Armour will remain a secret until his last will and testament is removed from a vault in a Chicago bank and probated. At one time the Armour wealth was considered at near $200,000,000.

$138,300 ASKED IN MINE SUIT

The Butte-Elk Park Extension Mining Company, with holdings in Silver Bow county, Montana, through its receiver, the Colonial Trust Company of Pittsburgh, yesterday entered suit in Common Pleas Court for $138,300 against Simon Vujnovich, of 2340 Liberty street, Fair Haven, and George Frankovich, formerly of 1602 Carson street, now said to be living in Florida. The amount is claimed to be due on capital stock payments, on which the defendants are alleged to have defaulted, and on company office rentals.

Lindy Getting Thin, and Will Rogers Blames Banquet Chicken

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 18.—California was awful lonesome yesterday with everybody that is anybody flying to Honolulu. You can't beat those Germans for efficiency. I saw a late picture of Lindbergh. That banquet chicken is slowly getting him.

Stage Star of "So Long Letty" Gets Prominent Role in Drama With Dane and George Arthur

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—The long, lanky Charlotte Greenwood, whose "So Long Letty" sent everyone who saw it into convulsions of laughter, is bringing her eccentricities to the screen in "Baby Mine." Miss Greenwood signed her contract in New York and immediately left for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in Culver City. It is her first visit as a screen actress to movieland.

The gawky Charlotte plays the role of Florence Dunbar—mother by proxy, whose babies multiply so rapidly there is both consternation and hysteria. At least, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer hope the movie audiences will react the same way those who saw "Baby Mine" on the stage did.

"Baby Mine" is one of the first of the George K. Arthur-Karl Dane comedies. George plays the best friend and the awkward Mr. Dane is Miss Greenwood's husband. Lew Lipton will direct. This is Mr. Lipton's first chance at direction.

When they start buying scenarios that have already been filmed, you can guess that the dearth of suitable screen material is no idle jest. "The Foreign Legion," Norman Kerry's next picture for Universal, is none other than "The Red Mirage," by I. A. R. Wylie. Ten years ago, when Lou Tellegen was courting Geraldine Farrar, he was starred in this same mirage, which was then called "The Unknown." If Mr. Kerry knows the history of his next picture he isn't telling. In answer to a query as to what he was going to do next, he replied that it is to be "Sophie Tucker's Revenge," and would be filmed at Reisenweber's, New York. Much better, let me postscript, to remake an old film than to buy new stories that are doubtful.

Wouldn't you say that Mary Philbin is a David Wark Griffith type? Universal's favorite ingenue is certainly a combination of Mary Pickford and Bessie Love, both of them Griffith discoveries. The actual papers loaning Miss Philbin to United Artists for the leading role in "A Romance of Old Spain," the next Griffith picture, was completed this past week. There have been innumerable rumors placing the little Philbin girl in this much-discussed role, but nothing definite. Lupe Velez is out of luck. Her sickness upset all negotiations. Perhaps it is just as well. Miss Philbin and Mr. Griffith should be an excellent combination. So far, the only actual people signed for this picture are Don Alvarado and Miss Philbin.

NEWSREEL FILM OF CANYON OBTAINED

By Universal Service

NEEDLES, Cal., Aug. 18.—Clyde L. Eddy, organizer of the Eddy expedition through the Grand Canyon, and Frank M. Blackwell, M-G-M News cameraman, who accompanied him and obtained the first motion pictures ever made of the roaring, treacherous cataracts, reached here half-starved, covered with bruises and each with several broken bones, after having gone through what they described as "three weeks of veritable hell." Twelve college students, who accompanied them on the perilous expedition, also returned, all more or less incapacitated.

Buffeted about by the raging whirlpools, the Eddy expedition negotiated 456 of the 500 rapids of the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon, establishing a record that probably will stand for all time. Blackwell obtained motion pictures for M-G-M News of the entire trip despite the fact that toward the end he worked with two broken ribs and numerous other minor injuries. It is the first time in history that the rapids of the Grand Canyon, with the sublime and majestic scenery that surrounds them, have ever been photographed.

The expedition, which was organized several months ago, got under way early in July, although it was not until the latter part of the month that the actual start down the treacherous waters of the Colorado River was made. Until the expedition reached Green River, Utah, the river was calm and peaceful. Just below that point is the junction of the Green and Little Colorado, and it was here that the first of the treacherous rapids was encountered. The five boats of the expedition were spun about like tops for they were within a nightmare of roaring cataracts filled with enormous boulders that spelled destruction to every boat that crashed against them. Down upon these treacherous waters, the beautiful fantastic cliff and butte formations smiled knowingly.

Three days after the start was made one of the boats, from which Blackwell was making pictures of Eddy attempting to ride through a particularly swift and dangerous cataract, was dished against a great boulder and reduced to kindling wood. Blackwell continued to grind his camera until he himself was hurled against a boulder and was rendered unconscious. Intuitively he clung to the camera and held on grimly until other members of the expedition rescued him. Twelve hours were spent in getting Blackwell and the camera equipment, containing all of the valuable negative exposed up to that time, to safety.

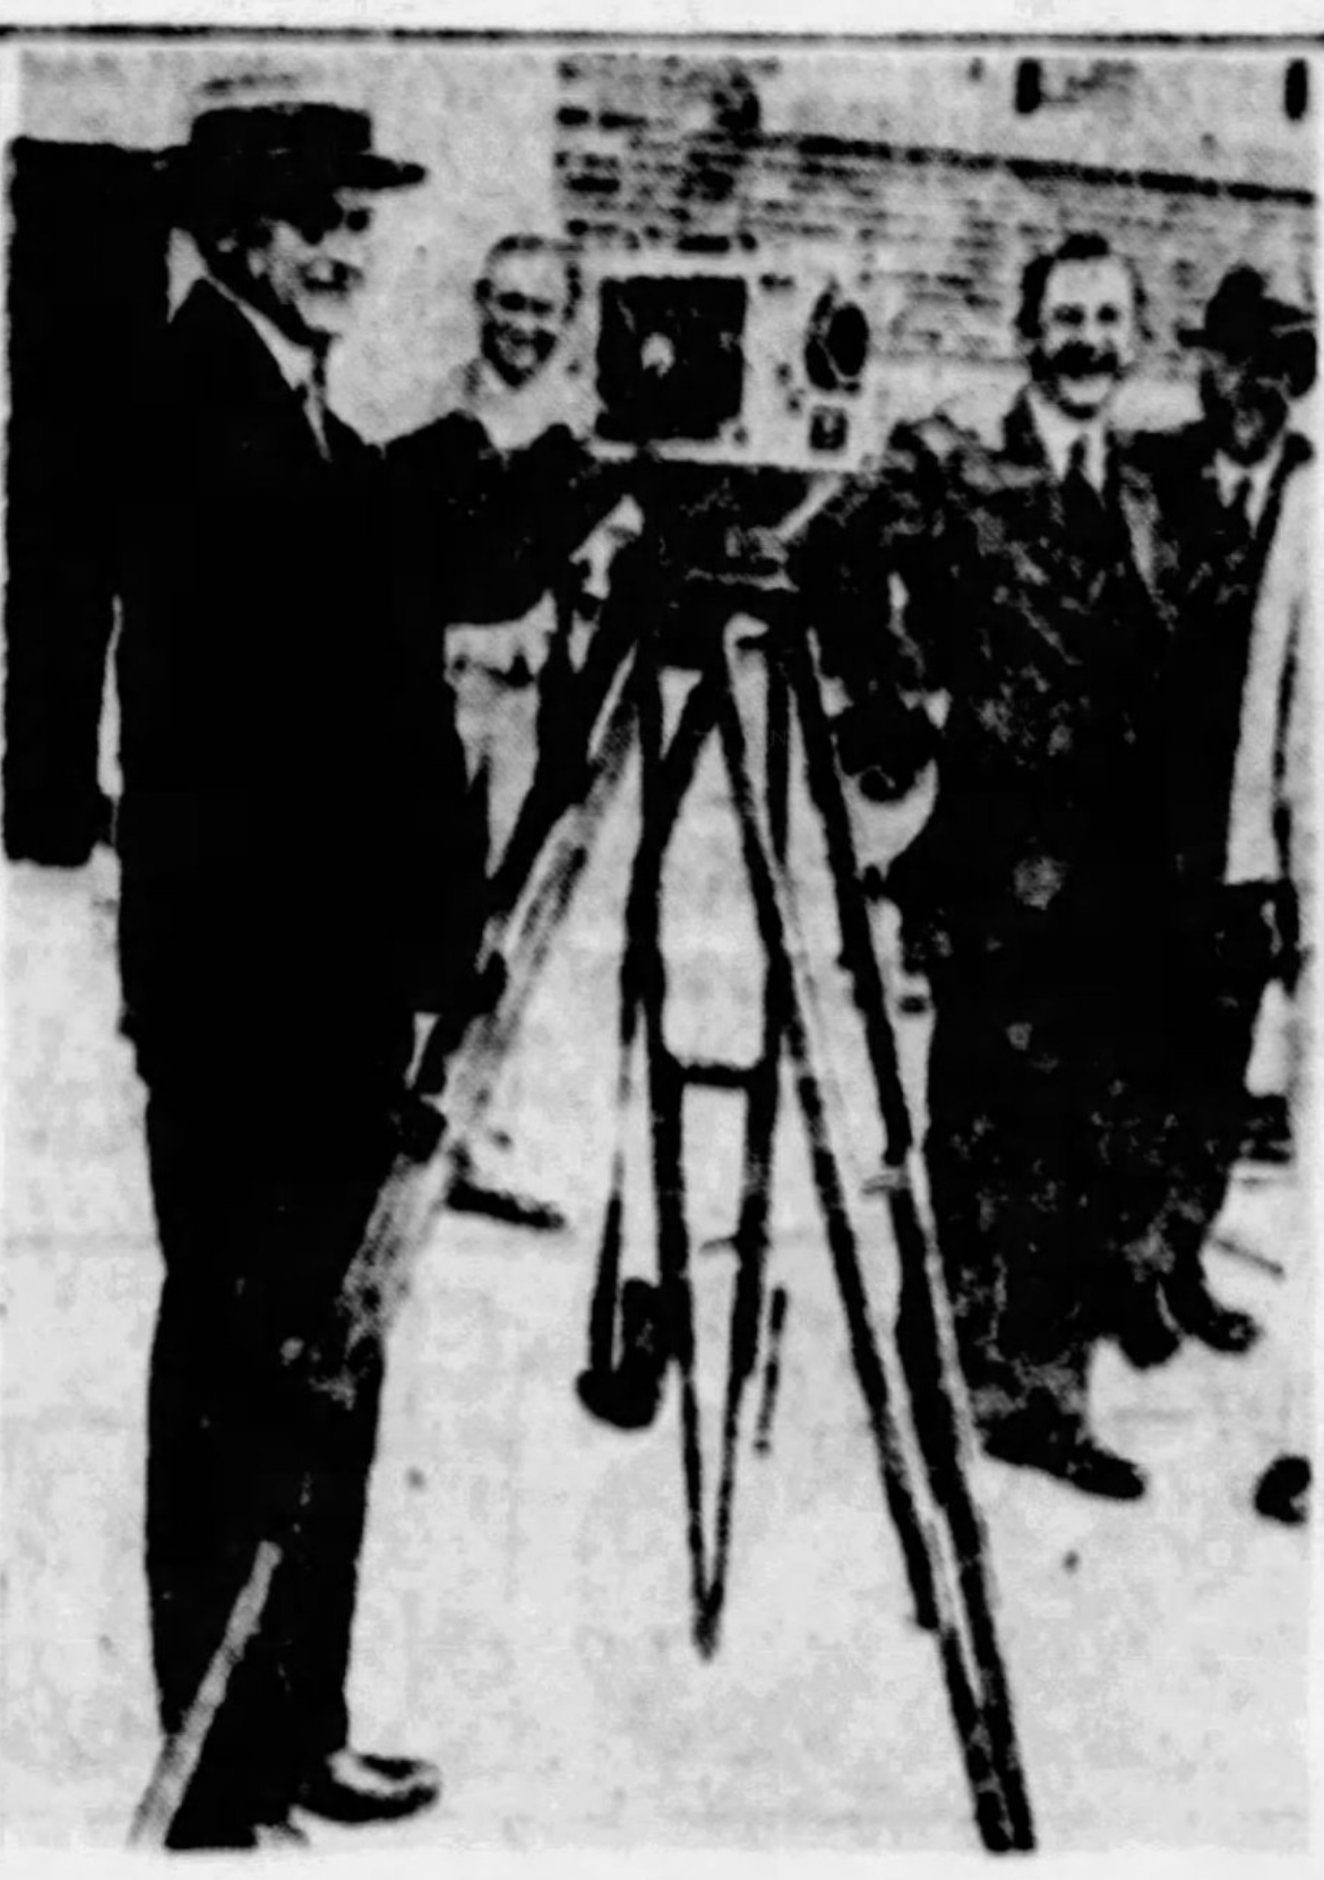
"We spent the next day drying out the equipment," said Blackwell, "and cleaning out the silt that filled every part. I was afraid that the negative had been ruined, but was overjoyed when later I found that practically all of it was usable."

Discouraged almost to the point of giving up the expedition, Blackwell and Eddy were brought face to face with the fact that they were so thoroughly in the clutch of the Canyon, that it would have been impossible for them to discontinue their effort no matter how badly they had wanted to do so. Walled in by the sides of the magnificently colored Canyon, it was utterly impossible to climb the sides. It was equally impossible to attempt to turn back.

Costly Extra -:- Director -:- Our President -:- Takes Flyer

ATMOSPHERE in pictures ordinarily is supplied by extras, but in the case of "The Jazz Singer," a coming film, Dolores Costello serves as background in one scene.

BOBBIE GRICE is not threatening anybody with a whip. That's a baton, Miss Bobbie being director of band coming to Grand.



MR. COOLIDGE is seen here grinding out some of the first film to be used by the M-G-M Newsreel, initial issue. The scene is Sioux Falls, S. D.

CLARA BOW has an important role in "Wings," recently completed. It is a World War picture in which little Miss Bow has a part of an ambulance driver.

Films and Vaudeville For Dormont in New House

Dormont is to have a first-class theater. An agreement between the Harris Amusement Company, on the one hand, and Fred K. Becker on the other, insures this. The Harris Amusement Company has acquired from Mr. Becker a large plot fronting on West Liberty avenue, Dormont avenue and Lima way. Ground will be broken immediately for a modern theater with 1,787 seats. It will be finished in the spring of 1928.

The theater will be the costliest playhouse in any of the suburbs adjacent to Pittsburgh and in every respect will meet the most advanced requirements of modern stagecraft and the demands of the cinema. It will be devoted to photoplay productions and vaudeville, both of high grade.

Because of the large chain of theaters owned and managed by the Harris Amusement Company and the affiliations of the company with the leading vaudeville and pictureplay circuits, the region to be served is assured a class of amusements it has not had.

BIG BOY HAS MEASLES: HOLDS UP PRODUCTION

Universal has had to hold up production for three weeks on one of its comedies, for a reason unique in the movies. The star has the measles. Big Boy, aged 3, came down with this old-fashioned disease and showed such a spotted face that after one look at him, Charles Lamont, the director, called all bets off for three weeks.

ACADEMY'S SEASON TO OPEN SATURDAY

The season of burlesque in the Academy opens with a matinee and a night performance Saturday. The attractions will be booked by the American Burlesque Association. The season covers 40 weeks with a different show every week. The opening attraction will be "Kandy Kids."

Most of the amusing situations of "The Gorilla," next week's offering in the Pitt, center around the stupid antics of a pair of detectives unravelling the mysterious appearances and disappearances of a master criminal known as the Gorilla.

The seat sale for the second week of "Old Ironsides" in the Nixon opens today. Indications point to another capacity week for this picture.

Danny Small and Harry Mays will offer melodies and dancing in the Davis next week. Lloyd and Bryce will present nonsensical moments filled with jests.

"Metropolis," Paramount's "cine-miracle," will be seen in the Grand next week. It is a film version of the play, "R. U. R."

The Merchants' Association of Monongahela City will hold their annual frolic at Kennywood Park today. Black's Bears will perform as a special free attraction. decision about a month later.

STRANGE IRISH BELIEF

It is considered unlucky in Ireland to view a funeral procession while the beholder is under an umbrella.

Ten-Carat Ring Tells Norma Shearer Is Engaged

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—Irving Thalberg, the youngest and one of the most brilliant producing executives in the film colony, and Norma Shearer, popular Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen star, will marry sometime in late October or early November.

While all Hollywood was reasonably certain sooner or later Miss Shearer would become Mrs. Irving Thalberg, a 10-carat ring on the bride-to-be's left hand spoke louder than any mere words.

What girl could or would hide such an engagement ring? The ring is gorgeous, even in picture circles, where a 10-carat stone passes unnoticed. And, besides, Norma and Irving are far too happy to keep their plans secret any longer.

Few romances have been watched with more genuine interest. Five years ago, Norma Shearer was just beginning to be recognized as an actress. Irving Thalberg, while highly regarded by those who had vision, was still to prove the ability that has made him one of the greatest powers in the film industry. Today both stand pre-eminent in their work.

FRIEDA'S FISHING HECKSCHER CHARGES

By Universal Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—In his first public answer since suit was brought against him last year by Frieda Hempel, opera singer, claiming he had defaulted on a contract, whereby she agreed to retire from the concert stage to sing for his charities alone, August Heckscher, millionaire realtor, filed affidavits charging Miss Hempel's entire action as "a fishing expedition" and a "publicity campaign."

The affidavits, submitted in Supreme Court through Attorney George W. Whiteside, deny the existence of any such contract as mentioned by Miss Hempel, and significantly allude to her refusal to define for newspapers what she meant by "valuable considerations" when she filed the suit. The disputed contract, it turned out, comprised the "valuable considerations," but the fact that Miss Hempel had declined to say whether these considerations were "personal" or not is set forth in the affidavits as indicating lack of good faith.

Heckscher's affidavits were filed on a motion to vacate the notice for the examination of himself before trial, and to vacate the supena directing his presence in the Supreme Court for such examination. Hearing will be held August 23.

Miss Hempel's suit charged Heckscher had promised her $18,000 a year for life, and had paid her $12,000 under what the affidavits refers to as "the remarkable agreement."

"Under such an agreement with a normal expectancy of life, plaintiff's claim would amount to over one million dollars," the affidavit stated.

Heckscher denied he ever heard of the contract.

NEW AIR TRUCK TO FLY HERE

What may be expected in the future in the way of commercial deliveries of commodities by air will be witnessed in Pittsburgh next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock when the Royal air truck will deliver a typewriter, by parachute, before making a landing at Rodgers Field, Aspinwall.

The air truck has been put in commission recently and is making a tour of the principal cities to demonstrate the practicability of air freight delivery. The truck will remain at Rodgers Field until Tuesday for public inspection.

Best Cages For Canaries

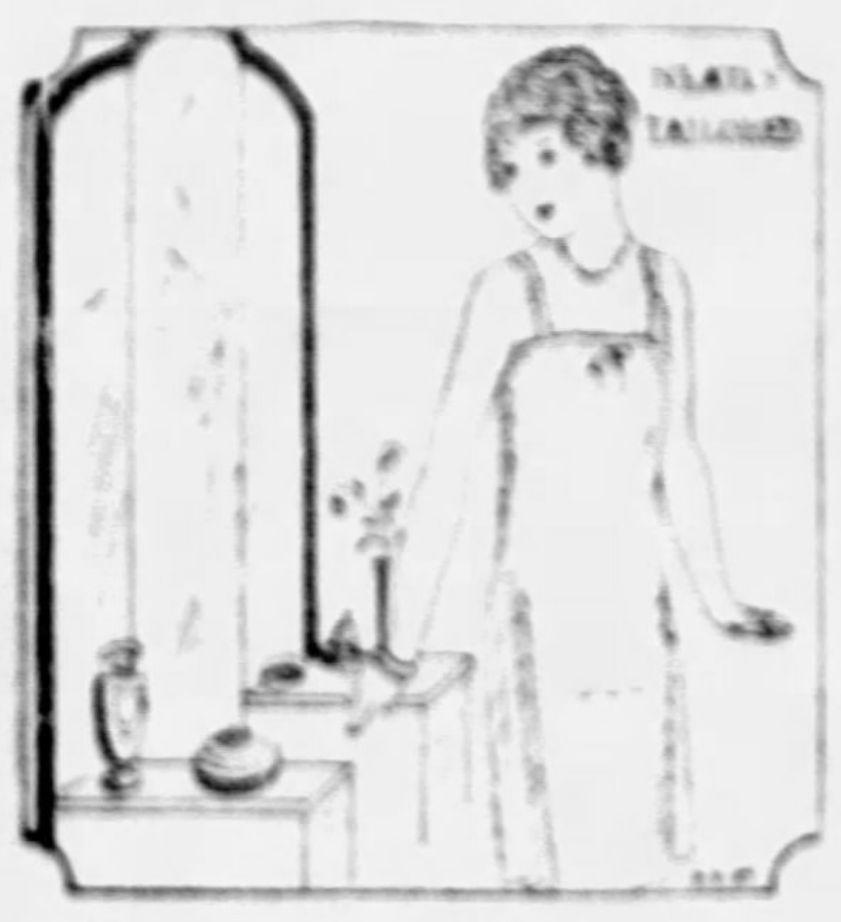
CANARIES should be kept in wooden cages with only a wire front, according to an expert, who says that the usual ornamental cage is too unprotected against cold and draughts.

MILADY BEAUTIFUL

By LOIS LEEDS

SIMPLIFIED GARMENTS.

Women's [illegible] are being simplified, which appears to some critics [illegible] [illegible] point. Not so [illegible] ago the one of our [illegible] would have dreamed of going without [illegible] and petticoat. Now the two have been combined in a single shadow proof slip. Another [illegible] in this simplification is shown in the new step-ins with shadow panels back and front. The back panel is lined with very [illegible] [illegible] silk. Neither petticoat nor slip is needed with this step-in. One may wear a vest brassiere and girdle (or corset) with this type of nether garment or just a hip length brassiere with garters attached if one's hips are firm and slim. Nothing could be simpler and cooler and at the same time modest.



The vogue for combining different undergarments into one is illustrated on every hand. The old-fashioned chemise, which was itself nothing more than a corset cover and short petticoat made in one piece, has evolved into an envelope chemise. Sometimes it is seen with a brassiere top with bloomers attached. One may wear a vest, girdle and slip with it or just a slip and round garters according to the lines of one's figure. The more ample the figure the less freedom it may be allowed.

Some of the cleverest combination garments I have seen recently takes the place of brassiere, vest, girdle and step-ins. A strip of glove silk joins the bottom of the bust confiner with the top of the girdle. A lace-trimmed ruffle of the same silk with a narrow band joining the middle of the front and back edges below makes the lower part of the combination. Of course, there are hose supporters attached. The only other garment needed is a shadow proof slip.

Simplified garments are designed for both slender and stout women. Some of the corselettes are sufficiently stiff and heavily boned to support and confine large, flabby figures. The garments with the inner reducing belt across the abdomen are excellent for this type. The underwear of the heavy woman should not be bulky or unnecessarily voluminous and it should be neatly tailored to take up as little space as possible. Some sort of bust or hip confiner, vest or step-ins or bloomers and a shadow proof slip or petticoat are all that she needs to wear under her frocks.

For the athletic or slender figure there are unboned corselettes some of open-work fabrics that give the desired long lines without interfering with perfect freedom of movement.

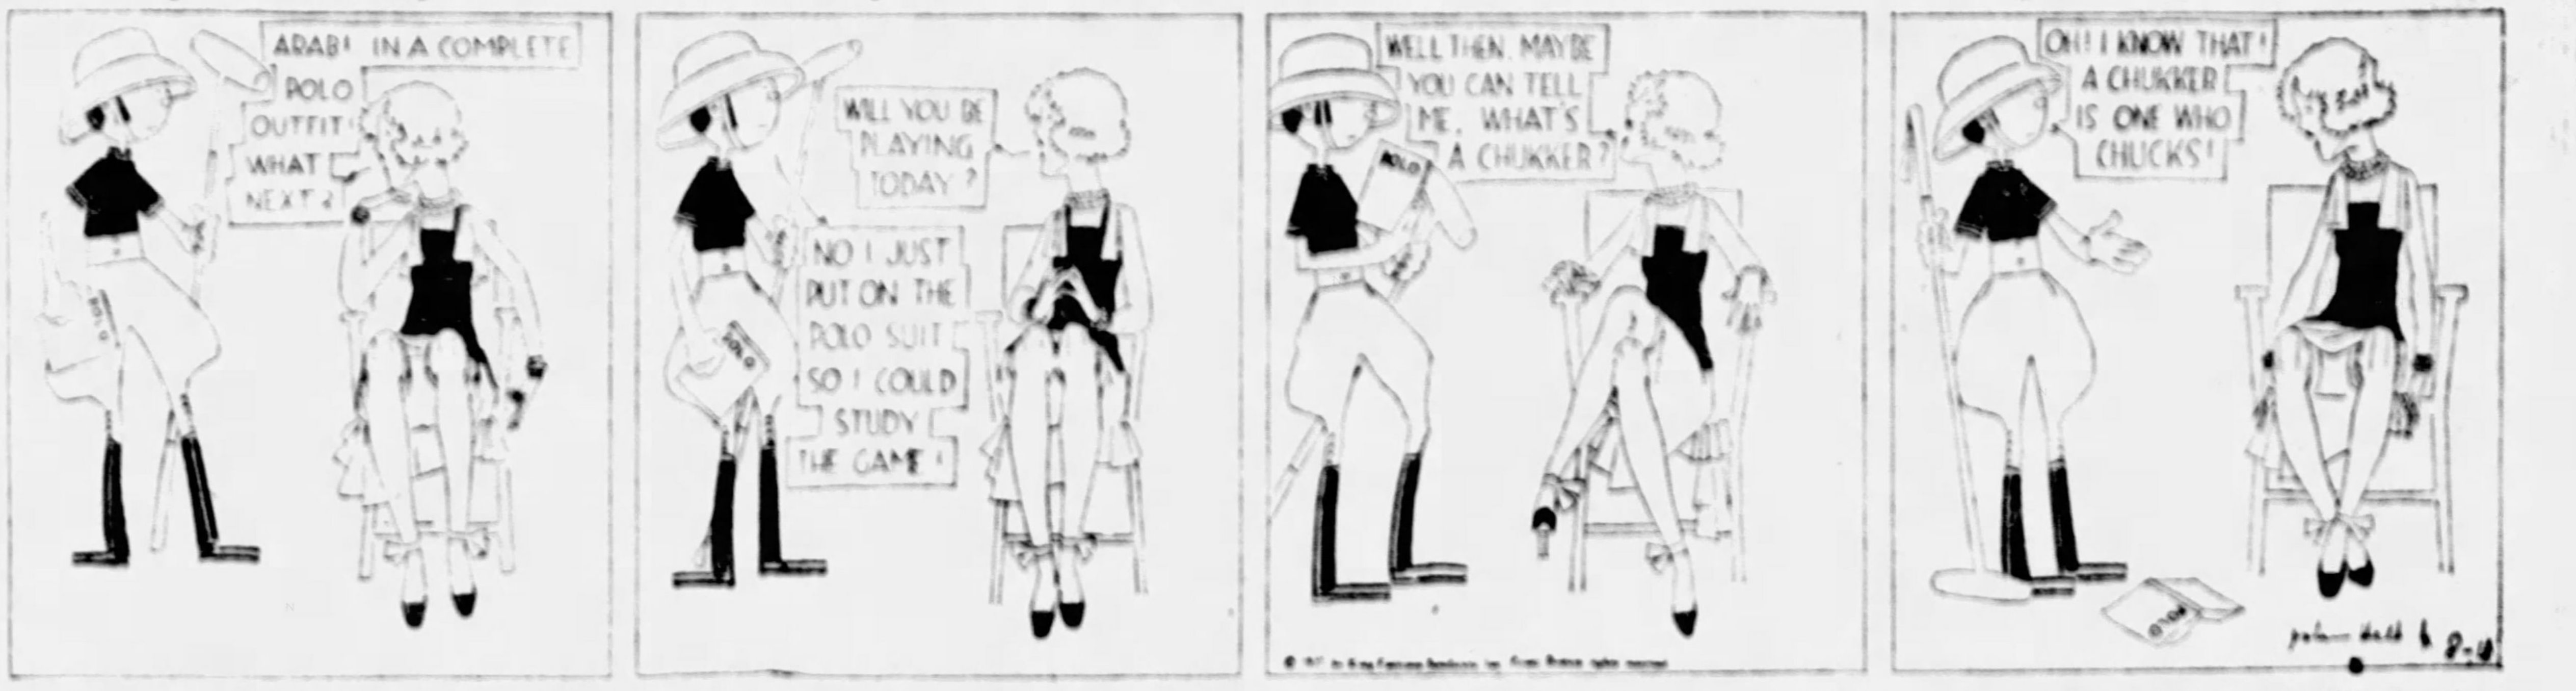
Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



ARAB IN A COMPLETE POLO OUTFIT! WHAT NEXT?
WILL YOU BE PLAYING TODAY?
NO I JUST PUT ON THE POLO SUIT SO I COULD STUDY THE GAME!
WELL THEN, MAYBE YOU CAN TELL ME, WHAT'S A CHUKKER?
OH! I KNOW THAT! A CHUKKER IS ONE WHO CHUCKS!
POLO
John Held Jr.

"Well, my dear, ARab has acquired a POlo outfit at this point—can you BEAR it? And I mean he is HONestly the most luGUBrious SPECtacle in it you have ever beHELD. I mean he ACtually looks TEN times worse than NOIsy in HIS, and, my dear, it is HONestly too perfectly riDIClous, because neither ONE of them has the VAguest iDEA of what this POlo is all aBOUT, do you know what I mean? Because they seem to have the iDEA that to play POlo you simply have to acquire an odd COStume and some large-sized MALlets, have you ever heard of ANYthing so utterly SOBbing? Well, ANYways, ARab has a BOOK which tells you how to PLAY this odd game of POLo, so I guess they will prob'ly start STUDying it Violently at this point. But I mean it is practicably CERtain that they will not get anything except all hot and BOTHered because I mean neither ONE of them has ever been able to learn ANYthing in their LIFE except COCKtail recipes, do you know what I mean? But, my dear, I honestly think it too perfectly SCREAMing because ARab does not even know that a 'CHUKKER' in polo means the MAN who sort of THROWS in the BALL, or something—can you BEAR it, my dear?"

Dorothy Dix Says:

THE IDEAL OF THE MODERN GIRL IS TO LOOK AND ACT AS MANNISH AS POSSIBLE.

IF there is one individual who has my profound sympathy it is the modern girl who has courageously—not to say foolhardily—undertaken the task of making the world accept a new type of woman. And that is some job, believe me.

To begin with, she is trying to change the ideal of feminine pulchritude that has obtained since the beginning of time. The beauty that artists have painted, and that men have worshiped since the cave-man days has been a woman with softly rounded contours and gracious curves, with a wealth of glorious hair in which a man could tangle his heart and with a complexion that was as fresh and fair and natural as the petal of a rose.

The modern girl decides that type of beauty. She starves herself to emaciation so that she is a mere bag of bones. She plucks out her eyebrows until there are only a few scattering hairs left. She shears her head like a convict. She calcimines her face and daubs red paint on her lips until they present the appearance of a cut of butcher's meat, and then she looks into the mirror of her vanity case and calls upon the world to join in her admiration of herself.

Twenty years ago the scrawny, bob-haired, painted-up little flapper of today would have been considered a caricature. We should have laughed at her and wondered why any girl would be willing to disfigure herself that way. But we are being taught to accept her as belonging to the impressionistic school of art, and perhaps we shall even come some day to admiring her when our education has progressed a little farther.

In the past we have held to the theory that "when male and female He created them," God knew what He was about, and that if He hadn't intended men and women to be different and to look different He wouldn't have bothered to make both of them.

The modern girl is doing her utmost to try to prove what a foolish blunder this was on the part of the Almighty and is endeavoring to the best of her ability to wipe out the sex line. She has achieved an outward triumph to the extent that you can only tell a girl and a boy apart at first sight by the fact that the boy has two legs to his trousers while the girl generally has only one. Also that the girl's trouser leg is cut off above her knees, while the boy's comes down to the ground.

But the ideal of every girl is to look as much like a boy as possible. She has a boyish bob. She shaves the back of her neck. She strives to attain a boyish figure. She smokes like a boy and curses like a boy and drinks out of a flask with the boys, and the highest compliment you can pay her is to say that she plays golf like a man, or has a virile style in writing.

It used to be thought that what attracted men to women was the essentially feminine qualities—that men liked women who were gentle and sweet in manner, who were ruffly and lacy and fru-fru as to clothes and who had dainty little soft hands.

Perhaps the reason of the decline in matrimony is because men have not yet been educated up to the point where they see anything alluring in a girl who looks like an understudy of their little brother, nor do they find any particular thrill in holding a big, muscular hand that has corns on it from playing golf. Indeed, old ideals die hard, especially among men, who are really more conventional than women, and I often wonder if any man ever popped the question to a woman in pants.

The modern girl has cast all of the old traditional virtues of her sex into the discard. Time was when we boasted of the purity and innocence of a young girl. We made her ignorance of the world a merit, and we compared her to a lily, or a rose with the dew upon it. And we spoke of women's tenderness and their sympathy and their patience and steadfastness.

The modern young girl prides herself on being hard-boiled, and of knowing all there is to tell and a few things more. She is a wise Jane that nobody can take in with any tale of sorrow or suffering, and she hasn't a tear in her whole system. Her heart is just a useful blood pump, not a fountain overflowing with pity for the woes of the troubled and afflicted.

She has not eliminated love and marriage and home as yet, because they are all interesting experiences and she doesn't want to miss anything, but she has made love an experiment, marriage a temporary expedient and home a transient hotel where you check out if you don't like the service or the company.

For the modern girl's philosophy is that we get out of life only what we grab off, and it remains to be seen whether she will get more than those older women who, perhaps, had more heart than head, who loved greatly, who had the sacred gift of tears, and who were invincible just through their gentleness and softness and womanliness.

The modern girl is exploiting a new code of conduct for women. Why should men have a monopoly on the sowing of wild oats, she asks? What is the justice in a double standard of morals? Why should a girl keep herself pure in order to marry a man who has perhaps a hectic past?

And so she snaps her fingers in Mrs. Grundy's face and goes on wild parties and gets drunk and pets and kisses every Tom, Dick and Harry who takes her to the movies, or buys her an ice cream soda. And justifies her escapades by saying that men have always done that way, and that what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

And one wonders if men will accept this new code, if they will no longer demand that the girls they marry be no better than they are, and if women themselves will be happier when they have no longer any ideal of chastity and modesty to live up to.

But, at any rate, the most interesting thing in this interesting old world of ours is the modern girl and the things she is trying to do to us.

Crab Meat a la King

Either fresh or canned crab meat may be used. One sweet green pepper, 1 sweet red one or pimento chopped fine; let simmer in large tablespoon butter. When tender (not brown) add 1 tablespoon flour, then slowly 1 cup milk or enough to make sauce desired thickness. Little sweet cream may be used, or evaporated milk, diluted one-half. When sauce is cooked and seasoned, add flaked crab meat; heat well and serve.

My Son's Sweethearts

By IDA McG. GIBSON.

Lyra's voice stopped for a moment. It was almost as though she could not go on, and then she seemed to take strength from a sudden resolve.

"Philip, you are young, very young, and I am old, very old. Much older than my years, and you are much younger than yours. The fact that you are dramatizing yourself so tragically at this minute is proof of that."

Again the boy had risen, but Lyra laid a detaining hand upon his arm.

"Your whole birthright, environment and education have made you selfish. The very smile upon your lips has always brought you everything you wished. You have never desired to give—you have only desired to take. You have a great work in this world, Phil, and to do it you must marry some girl who will help you. You must have children.

"Oh, God, Philip, if you only knew how I've wanted children! I pray that you will never know that longing and realize its burning torture. Only a son to whom you can give all the things you wanted most—a son in whom you hope to see the virtues that you were too weak to make yours will crush out that longing.

"Philip, strange as it may seem, all that has gone before in my life, I do not regret. It was another and stronger soul that took possession of me, but tonight I had to tell you this, for you asked from me something I could not give—something which has always been in the keeping of another man—I gave to him my love when I married him."

Philip again stood up. The full moon looked in at the big picture window and threw him into silhouette with a backing of silver.

"Goodby, Lyra, I'm going. You have made me understand."

He strode out of the room. Running to the window, she watched him drive away, knowing she would never see him again.

Then she went over to the mantel and picked up a large photograph of her husband. He was bald, his cheeks hung down in pendulous jowls, his small eyes were almost closed by the puffs of flesh that hung under them.

Lyra Hilliard's face was that of a fury. With a hysterical gesture she tore the photograph through its smirking mouth.

"You old, fat pig. I hate you! I've always hated you. Wynne, Wynne—you'll never know how I love you," and with a passion of sobs and tears she sank to the floor.

QUICKSANDS OF LOVE

A New Phase of "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

NOEL VERITZEN lost no time in asking my permission to call upon Mary. Unobtrusively he stepped from the girl's side to mine, and even as the elevator stopped at the floor he made his low-toned request.

"May I come to see you—and Miss Harrison?" he asked boyishly, but there was an odd tenseness in his tone that puzzled me, it seemed so out of proportion to the innocuous query.

"Of course," I returned, heartily. "We shall be glad to see you any Friday or Saturday evening. Also, I shall soon remind you of your promise to come to us for dinner."

"I shall not need a strong reminder," he told me, as he stepped back to permit my entrance into the elevator.

That Mary's headache was a real one, I saw, for the moment we were out of sight of Lillian and young Veritzen, her animation fled and it was a silent and fatigued girl whom we escorted home. I was watchfully ready to forestall any jesting on Dick's part concerning Noel Veritzen's very patent attraction toward her. But there was no need for my concern, for Dicky also was unusually silent upon the journey home. I saw my father look uneasily at him several times, and knew that he was again worrying over the state of my husband's health. Indeed, almost his last words to me before he went on board the ship the next morning were an injunction to look after Dicky.

"He has promised to see a physician," I told him, and his face lightened at the assurance.

Dicky did not accompany us to the pier, pleading the necessity of getting at the work which had piled up during his absence from the city. Hugh Grantland and Lee Chow were there, however, both so intent upon what I guessed to be an important last brief conference with my father, that they gave me but the briefest of salutations. But when the ship had pulled away from the dock, and I could no longer distinguish my father's face at the rail, partly because of the distance, but more because of the tears which I would not let my father see, but which I could no longer keep back, I felt Hugh Grantland's firm clasp upon my elbow.

"My car is right here," he said. "You will let me take you home."

It was not a request, but an announcement, one, however, with which I had no wish to quarrel. But when I was seated in the luxurious limousine with Hugh and Lee Chow, I broke a rule which I had made for myself years before and always kept inviolably—that of never putting a query concerning my father's work. I was too unnerved, however, to endure the fear for his safety which was mine.

"Why are you here, today?" I asked.

"Did you not say when you came to our apartment the other day that your movements were watched?"

"They were and are," Hugh Grantland replied. "But did you ever hear of the process known as 'drawing a red herring across a trail?'"

I nodded, comforted already by the cheerfulness and confidence of his manner.

"I must not tell you much now," he said, "but you may rest assured that we wished certain people to see him depart on that boat today and to note our presence there. And—please believe that there will be safeguards thrown around him wherever he goes. His is too valuable a personality to risk. Now, will you tell me in what way Lee Chow and I can serve you? We promised to come Monday, for your instructions, but we find that you must leave the city tonight for several days. In the intervening hours, however, we can—"

"No," I said firmly. "Not till you come back. Since I spoke to you, I have found that the thing for which I wished your aid is not the emergency I feared. When you return it will be plenty of time."

There is just one right way to keep the skin clear and smooth

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 137 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

This simple daily rule for guarding their schoolgirl complexion

By NORMA SHEARER

THERE is no harm in rouge and powder, make-up of any kind, beauty experts today agree.

But never fail to take them off each night at bedtime if you would avoid clogged pores and blackheads, other imperfections.

That schoolgirl complexion comes from one simple but important rule. And millions follow it each night in gaining clear and radiant skins.

Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be naturally dry, apply a little good cold cream. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

But be sure you get the real Palmolive. A soap made solely for one purpose: to safeguard your skin. Sixty years of soap study stand behind it.

Get 10c Palmolive now. Use no other on your face. Experimenting with unproved soaps is a folly. Good complexions are too priceless for that. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

Want to see a whiter wash?

without scrubbing—without boiling?

IN washing machine or tub, use the soap that soaks out dirt! It saves hours of work, and gets clothes so much whiter.

The makers of 30 leading washers urge the use of Rinso for safety, and for a brighter wash.

Millions use Rinso for tub washing because it gets clothes whiter without a washboard, even without boiling.

This amazing soap gives thick suds in hard water or soft. It's all you need. So economical! It saves your hands, too.

If you want to see a whiter wash, just try Rinso next Monday morning.

What is the first big advantage in heating my home with GAS?

Answer: Undoubtedly the first advantage of gas heat is health protection. Your family will be less exposed to colds, influenza, pneumonia, because, with the automatic control, your gas furnace keeps your home at the same temperature at all times. Hand-stoked furnaces can not produce uniform heat with the result that the house is either too hot or too cold.

Question: Is it much trouble to change over my present heating system to a gas-fired one?

Answer: Usually very little. Simply replace your coal boiler or warm air furnace with a gas-fired boiler or warm air gas furnace of approved design. The gas boiler or furnace can also be placed alongside of your present coal boiler so that you can use either or the coal boiler can be used to burn paper, refuse etc.

Question: Why should I consider only the approved appliances?

Answer: Boilers, furnaces and other gas-burning appliances approved by our Heating and Appliance Dept. will give the most satisfaction and render the most economical service. Appliances that have our approval are tested rigidly and when we recommend them, we stand behind our recommendations. Approved appliances are safe and efficient appliances.

Question: Who can tell me more about gas heat?

Answer: Our Home Heating Engineers will be glad to explain gas heat for your home. There is no charge for calling them in to look over your present heating system or for any recommendations they make. Simply 'phone your local gas agent or write direct to powder off her face. John Nye is sure to fall in love with her. Sure to! Sure as fate."

Aloud she said: "Millie, I know where there's a good job that you can have if you want it."

She began to tell her about John Nye and the position in John Nye's office.

CHAPTER VI.

MILLIE was pleased as Punch at the prospect of going to work for John Nye. But because she was pleased, she pretended not to be. She was full of such tricks.

She stood before her toilet glass, seemingly in deep, dark thought, while she wiped the "Chinese black" from her eyelashes and brows with a wad of wet cotton.

She wasn't half so pretty by the time she had finished. For her lashes and brows were even lighter than her hair, naturally, and gave her an insipid look.

"We—ell," she began doubtfully, "I'm not so sure that I want to work for your good-looking friend, Nye, now that I have the chance to. For one thing, I don't know how much he pays a girl. I certainly am not going to work for a cent less than thirty smackers a week, and that's THAT!"

"Shall I tell him so?" Sally asked, with a twinkle in her eyes. She knew that nothing could keep Millie from taking that job.

Millie shook her head with its mop of honey-gold curls.

"You needn't bother. I'll go and see him myself, in the morning," she said with a great show of indifference. She yawned lazily. "Of course, I hate to work in a little one-horse office. I'd rather be in a big place like Bursall's where there are a lot of girls. It's more fun."

Sally knew that this was not true. She knew perfectly well that Millie could have more "fun" in an office containing one good-looking man than in a hundred offices filled with girls. Millie had no interest in girl-friends. She was a man's woman, pure and simple.

"Well, then, why didn't you stay on at Bursall's?" Sally asked quietly.

"You know why I didn't stay!" Millie snapped out at her, all the lazy sweet drawl gone from her voice. "Haven't I told you a dozen times how old Bursall tried to get gay with me, the fresh old bird?—You think this Nye will behave himself, don't you?"

Sally did not answer. She wondered if John Nye would want to behave himself with Millie in the office. Millie, who was all allure and invitation from the golden crown of her head to the soles of her little satin-shod feet. Would any man want to behave himself with Millie? Especially if Millie didn't want him to behave himself?

"Well, it all depends on what you mean by 'behaving' himself," she answered slowly. "I think he's going to fall in love with you, if that's what you're talking about."

She was sure that John Nye would fall in love with her, and she fell asleep an hour later with a very heavy heart.

The next morning Sally was up with the early sun. She hurried with her work, feet flying, fingers flying. Breakfast over and out of the way. Dishes done. Beds made. Furniture dusted. Ferns and geraniums watered. Beau's ties pressed.

At ten o'clock Sally dressed herself in her plain little blue linen business dress, and went down to Porter Street market to get things for Mabel's party that night. Sandwich bread, sweet butter, boiled ham, and fruit for the punch.

When she got home Millie was gone to keep her appointment with John Nye. Her nightgown lay where she had stepped out of it on the bedroom floor. Her bed was unmade, and her dressing-table was littered with flesh-colored powder, open rouge boxes, combings, and soiled handkerchief. The tiny bottle of "Chinese black" had tipped over and there was a large stain of it on the white linen cover.

"Pete's sake!" said Sally under her breath, whipping off the cover and putting the stopper in the little bottle.

She thought of Millie, rolling her black eyes with their fringe of blackened lashes at John Nye by this time no doubt. Smiling at him with the soft scarlet bow of her mouth. Talking to him in that silky slow voice of hers.

"Oh, misery!" said Sally aloud, and there was very real misery in the sound of her voice.

She went out into the kitchen to squeeze lemons and oranges for Mabel's punch, and the feet that were usually so light and swift dragged a little.

That noon when Sally reached the top floor of the Nye-Naylor Building, she went straight to the door of John Nye's office and turned the knob.

It did not open. It was locked.

"Well, of all things!" Sally said it aloud, and then knocked smartly on the door.

There was no answer.

She knocked again. Still no answer.

Then, as Sally was turning away to go into Mr. Peevey's little room, a sudden illuminating thought came to her.

John Nye and Millie had gone out to lunch together! That must be why the door was locked and the office empty. That must be why——

"Good morning," she said to Mr. Peevey so spiritlessly that he looked up at her in alarm, thinking that she must be ill. But he didn't ask her if she was. He didn't believe in petting the people who worked for him . . . asking after their health and giving them raises in their salary and such fool things! Not he!

There was more work than usual that afternoon, as it happened, and the shadows were long and blue before Sally started home at seven.

As she opened the door of the flat with her latch-key and stepped into the hall she could hear Beau talking on the telephone.

His voice was loud and deep, and it resounded through the small rooms. "Yeah, and bring along a corkscrew," he was saying joyfully. "It's going to be that kind of a party. Get me?"

"Oh, Beau, I hope you're not going to have anything to drink tonight," she said to him when he hung up the receiver.

He laughed down at her from his height. "Hello, Katy Kill-joy!" was all he said in answer to that. Then he went on:

"Ted Sloan was up here a minute ago to tell you that he couldn't keep some date or other he had with you tonight."

"Yes, and let me tell you what your friend, Nye, pulled on me today!" added Millie, coming out of her mother's bedroom in a flowing cotton kimono and house-slippers. "I went down to see him bright and early, and he was just locking up his office. It seems his mother's been taken sick at some resort or other where she's spending the summer, and he had about two seconds to make his train. He was going to her, he said, and didn't know when he'd be back. He was awfully sorry—but I told him I'd wait 'til he came back to town. I need a rest, anyway, for a coupla weeks in this awful weather."

Millie was always taking little rests and vacations.

"Well, I'm glad I don't have to go out with Ted, anyway, tonight," sighed Sally thankfully. She followed Millie into their bedroom and got into her own house-slippers and her pink calico apron.

"We'll have just a pick-up supper," she decided, "because I've got to make all those sandwiches and the punch for the party. . . . Beau, PLEASE don't put any liquor into the punch. You know mother won't like it."

But Beau, struggling with a new collar and a too-thick necktie before the chiffrobe in his room, pretended not to hear.

The party was a noisy affair. Sally, lying in bed with a book, could hear bursts of shrill wild laughter every now and then above the music of the phonograph. Once Millie screamed at the top of her voice, and there came the distant sound of a glass cracking to pieces on the kitchen floor.

"There's fifty cents gone for good!" thought Sally, who had to pay for these things usually. "Oh, dear, I hope they're not drinking! They shouldn't—"

But she fell asleep soon after 10 o'clock with all the noise and clamor at its height around her. She had been up for 16 hours, and she was worn out.

She didn't know what time it was when a sudden flood of bright light woke her up. Blinking and confused, she opened her eyes.

Beau's girl, Mabel, had come into the room and was leaning over her.

"Time to say goodnight, darling," she said thickly, and as she spoke Sally caught the odor of gin on her breath. "Too bad you were too tired to come to the party, and thanks for a beautiful time. The punch and the sandwiches were wonderful."

Sally was wide-awake now. "That reminds me," she said clearly. "I kept the grocer's bill so I could show you how much I spent. It's right here in my purse—"

"Oh, don't bother me with it, ple-ease!" begged Mabel prettily. "Beau will pay you. He said he would—" And she danced out of the room rather unsteadily, banging herself against the edge of the door as she went.

"Wait a minute! Mabel, wait a minute!" Sally called to her in distress. "Wait a minute, Mabel! I've got to see you!"

Didn't Mabel know that Beau never paid for anything? Not even his laundry?

But Mabel was gone. The sound of her gay voice chattering to Beau, died away as she left the little flat and went down the stairs that led to the street.

CHAPTER VII.

IT was Sally's habit to get up at 6 o'clock every morning of the year, winter and summer. It gave her a full hour to herself before it was time to put the coffee on to boil and to cut the bread for breakfast.

That hour was the pleasantest time of the whole day for her. She took a leisurely bath, did her "upsetting" exercises, manicured her nails, brushed her hair until it shone like blue-black satin, and set her room to rights.

It belonged to her—that hushed hour before the rest of the family was up and stirring. Before the day with its endless jobs for Mrs. Jerome and the twins, for Mr. Peevey, engulfed her.

But on the morning after Mabel's party Sally woke up long before 6 o'clock. The dawn was still pearly-white outside the windows and a cool breeze shook the ruffled curtains of the room.

She spoke with the memory of a dream still hazy in her mind—a dream about John Nye!

"Now, why under the sun should I be dreaming about him?" Sally asked herself as the dream came back to her, bit by bit, like the parts of a puzzle-picture.

CHIC CHERIE ∴ One Way or Another It's Fall ∴ LATEST FASHIONS

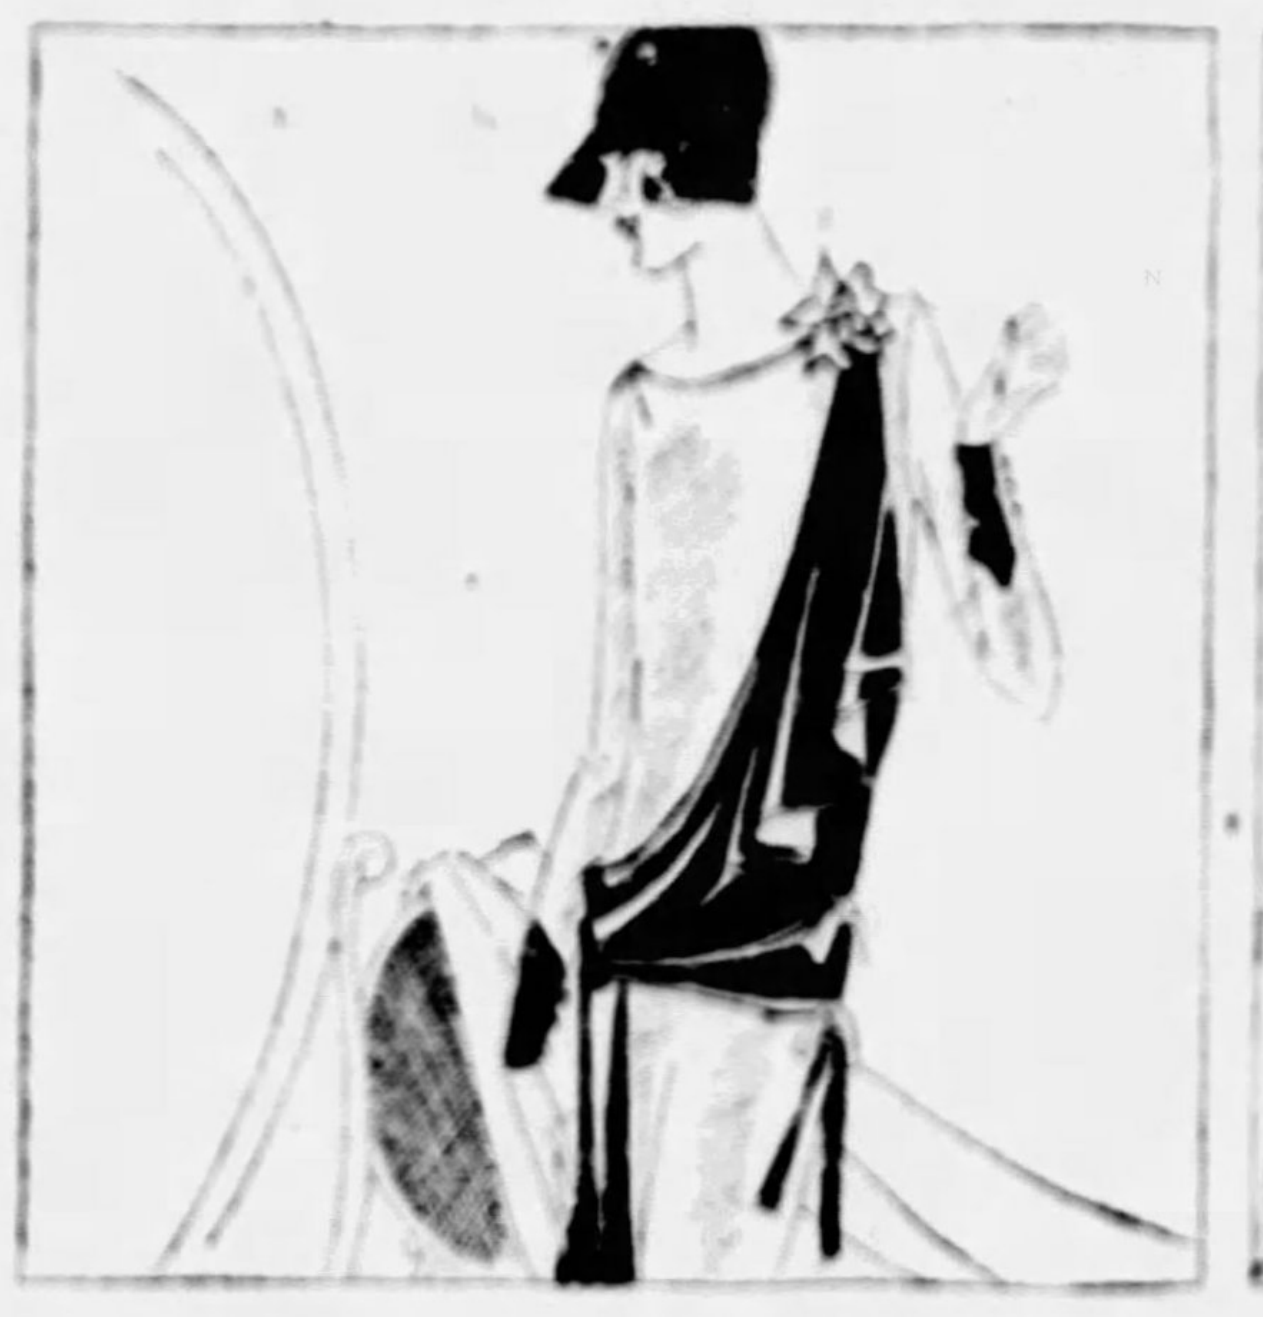
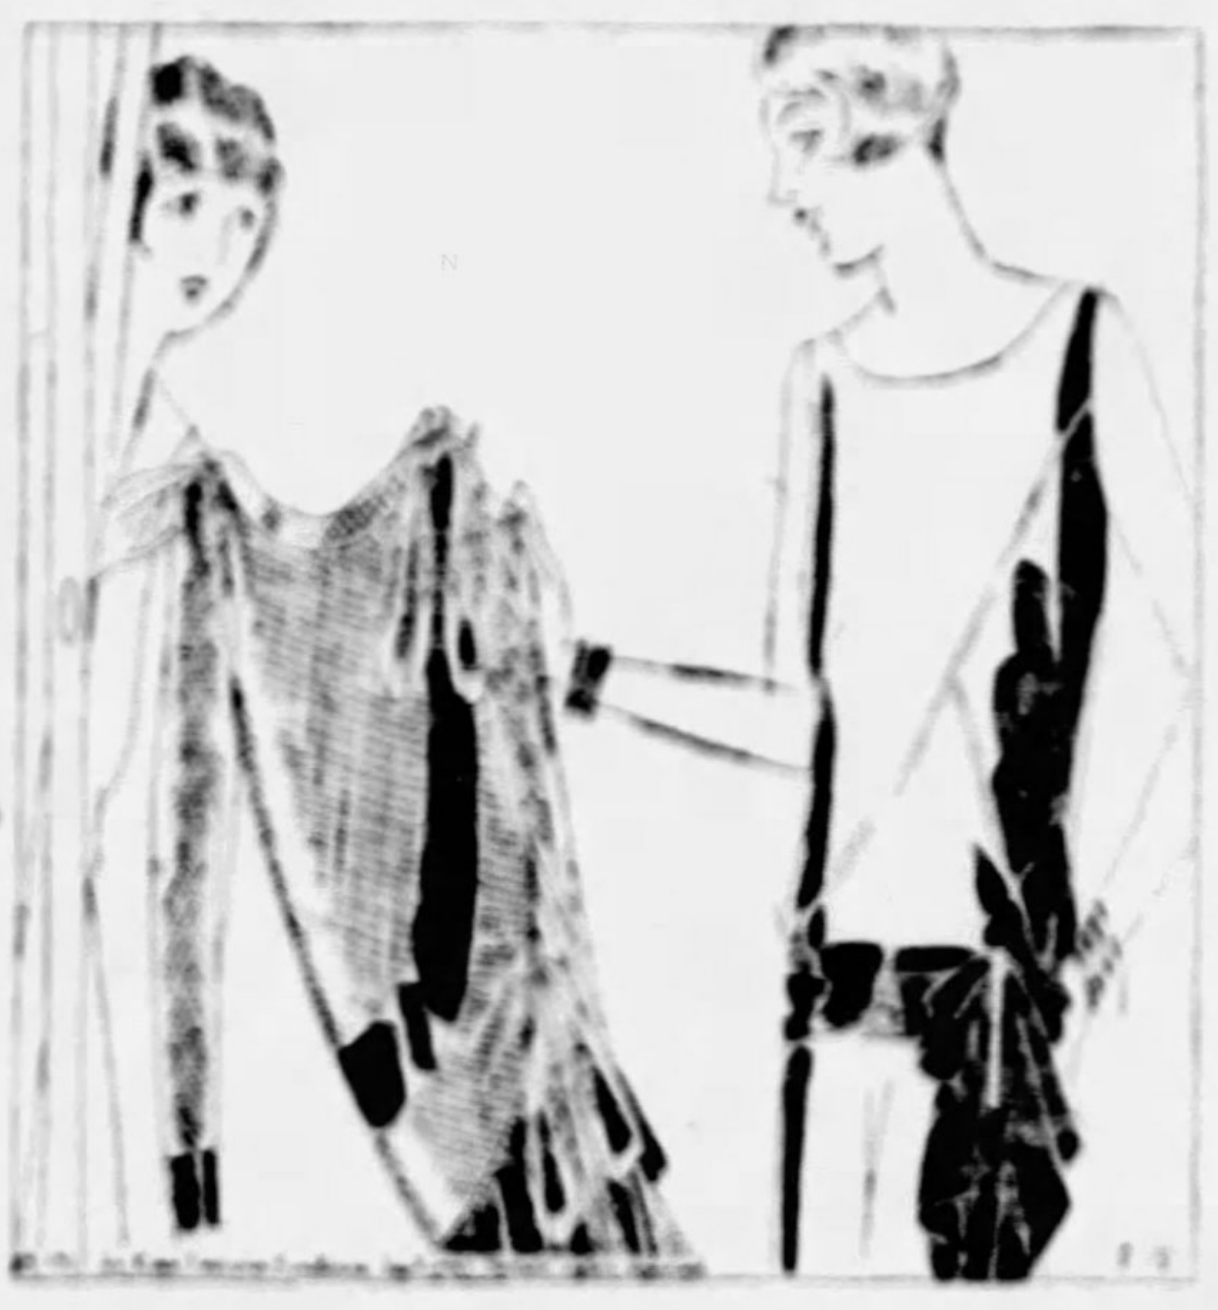
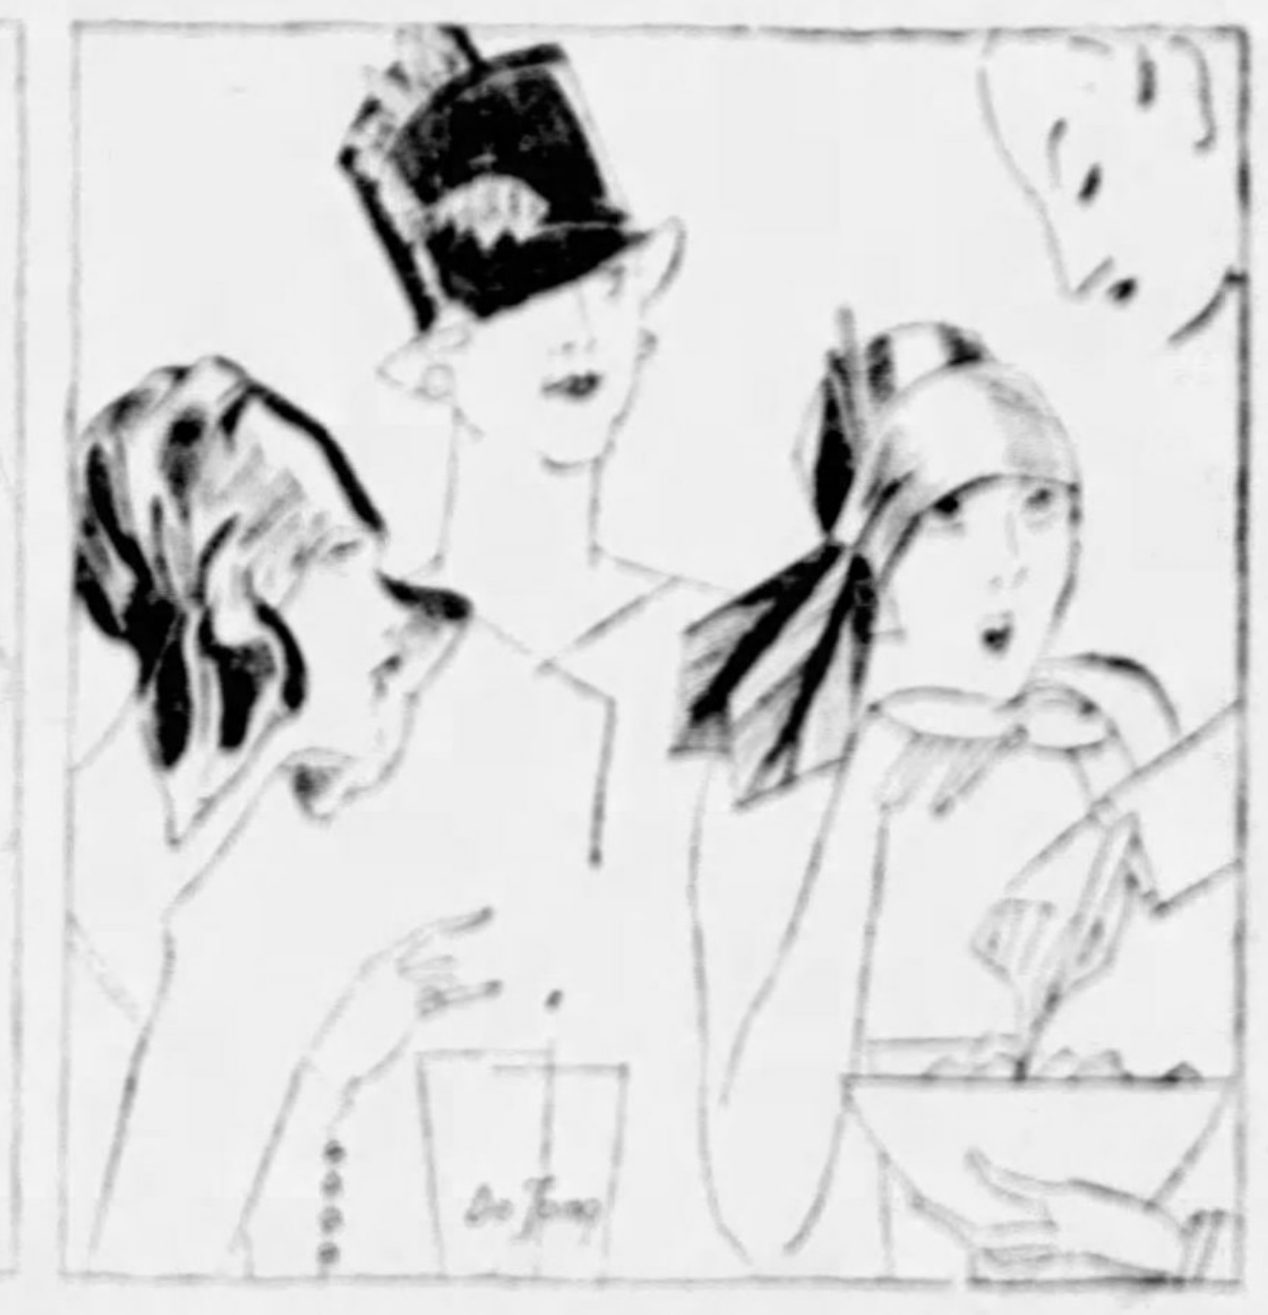
Aunt Em is being encouraged to buy this Fall frock of flat black crepe. The cascading drapes—down one side in front and down the other in back—are enough to mark it new and fashionable, but the tucked waistline, the tucks at the neck and the ragged shoulder flower should certainly settle it.



Dina thinks the one-sided effects that are being shown in the advance Fall dresses are delightfully odd and becoming. This dress is of satin crepe with the satin side forming the shoulder drape and swathed girdle. Godets in the skirt (only on one side) also turn shining satin breadths to the world.



There would be no escaping one-sided effects even if one wanted to. Cherie is one that doesn't. In fact she likes them so much that she can't decide whether the dress with the one-sided bolero (in the hand) or the frock with the dripping drapery (on the figure) is the more desirable or becoming.



The three heads in the three Fall hats are discussing Fall fashions. Cherie's hat has wings (or rabbit's ears) of satin. Aunt Em's is velvet and satin and manages to be dashing and dignified at the same time. Dina's is felt with quills. It's Fall by the fashions—but, please, more ice for tea at once!

Building and Flying Model Airplanes

Assembling and Flying the Model

TO PUT the various parts of the model together, take the frame and make sure that the propellers are so placed that when the point is directed away from you as in the above illustration the right hand propeller will have to turn to the right to push the wind back to you, and the left propeller must rotate left to push. The large wing is fastened between the openings of the rear X-brace with two thin long rubber bands, which are placed under each stick and the two loops opened above the stick, and the wing passed under these loops, which when carefully released onto the wing surface will hold it in place. The elevator is fastened in a similar manner about three inches from the point. Both of these surfaces should be placed with the point of highest curvature toward the nose of the model.

A contestant may enter any number of models in any or all classifications. Check the following classification in which you are entering models.

1. Gliders—without power of any kind. Not over 18 inches in length or span, hand launched. Judged on general flying efficiency.
2. Scientific model (built to fly but not necessarily to resemble an airplane). Any kind of power, launched in any manner—hand, ground or water. Not over 18 inches in length or span. Judged on general flying efficiency, distance, duration and weight carrying ability.
3. Scale model (built to resemble a real airplane). Any kind of power, launched in any manner. Not over 48 inches in length or span. Judged on general flying ability.
4. Scale model for exhibit only. Ability to fly not considered. No restrictions on size or type. Judged on scale, detail and workmanship.

I hereby certify that any model or models to be entered by me have been or will be constructed exclusively by myself.

Entries may be made with your playground director or sent to the Aircraft Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

To be eligible for the National Tournament, entry must be in by August 15th, 1927.

The wings must now be lined up to be at right angles to the center line of the frame, and not twisted in regard to each other. It is assumed that the rubber motors were placed on the frame when the power plant was described in Article 10; therefore all is now together. It will be noticed that because of the formation of the elevator the front edge is higher than the rear edge, thus no elevating blocks are needed.

To balance the model, glide it several times before launching it under power. Thrust it from you gently while holding it by the propellers on a line with your eyes, and if it climbs or dives move the elevator back or front, respectively, to correct that tendency. In cases of extreme need for adjustment the wing may be similarly moved. When all is in perfect balance the model is ready for flight.

A large field, with no obstructions, is required. It should be at least half a mile square, and beyond it should be clear country, so that the model will have plenty of chance to go as far as it can without interruption. For the first flights a rather calm day is preferred. Allow an assistant to hold the propellers while you go to the nose of the model and attach the "S" hooks to your geared winder. Stretch the rubbers at least twice their length and wind the propellers about 200 turns of the winder, in the direction necessary to impart correct rotation to the propellers. As you wind the rubbers, come in toward the nose so that when you finish you will be right at the nose hook and can attach the "S" hooks there. Now take the propellers one in each hand, sight along the model for a final assurance that all is correct for flight, stoop down as shown in the picture and face the wind. Careful handling is very necessary throughout this stage of the preparations, as the frame is under great strain from the rubber motors' pull and any unusual twisting may cause it to break. Therefore, from this crouching position carefully rise and as you do so launch the model at the angle shown. Do not thrust it much; just give it a gentle placing on the air. The model should climb rapidly against the wind, then turn and fly with the wind. If it climbs or dives, correct it as for the glides. If it turns to one side, move the wing slightly to one side and test again. When perfect flights are obtained, carefully mark the position of the surfaces in order that the model may always be placed in the best condition.

It is hard to predict the flight possible with this model, but it can safely be said that if the model has been carefully constructed in accordance with this series of articles it should fly at least for a distance of 2,000 feet and a duration of a minute and a half. It is well within possibility that those figures may be doubled or even tripled, depending on the workmanship and lightness of the model. In the next article will be described a few features which will enable you to make your model even lighter and thus go after world records.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

FRIDAY, AUG. 19.

EARLY hours today should be fairly fortunate, according to astrology, which finds that, while benefic aspects are strong, later there are certain adverse influences.

There is a fair sign for those who bear public responsibilities and desire to push the business of the people.

Campaigns to overcome laxity regarding marriage and divorce will be bitterly fought before the end of the year, it is prognosticated.

Under this rule engineers, contractors and persons interested in constructive or creative work should benefit.

The planetary government favors those who develop wealth through manufactures or through agriculture rather than those who are mere traders.

The rule of the stars is not favorable to merchants, and there may be some temporary difficulty affecting our expanding commerce.

Persons whose birthdate it is will do well to appreciate the love that may appear tiresome or unwelcome.

Children born on this day may have many adventures in their careers. Both boys and girls probably will participate in real life dramas.

Accept 10-Day Test of This New Way That $100,000 Movie Stars Use and Dentists Widely Urge

DON'T believe your teeth are naturally "off color." You can restore them quickly to dazzling whiteness; your gums to healthy coral color.

There is a new way. A scientific dentifrice called Pepsodent that dentists widely urge. It clears off the dingy film that coats and dulls your teeth. The film that absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. That invites germ growth, tooth decay and gum troubles.

You can feel that film with your tongue. A slippery coating on your teeth. Old-time dentifrices don't remove it successfully. That's why brushing thus far has failed you.

Gleaming, glorious teeth are beneath that film. Clearing it off will change your whole appearance.

The runner plans to cover 40 miles a day and sleep nights at Elks club lodges along the route. His manager will follow him in an automobile.

After completing the grand Busch plans to rest up for the C. C. Pyle cross-country race, which begins March 15, and which he hopes to win. If successful, he will turn professional. At present he is a registered A. A. U. athlete.

Young Busch had not seen his father for almost a year when he greeted him this morning. He plans to spend some time with his folks after completing his present jaunt.

Godfrey clipped the Bostonian a left hook to the chin. It knocked Maloney over the ropes, and Godfrey reached out and grabbed him, but Edward James slumped out of the huge black arms and fell to the floor.

Big Dan Carroll, Maloney's manager, says that in the mixup on the ropes Godfrey's knee struck Maloney in the stomach and bumped the wind out of the Boston boy. In any event, the battle caused such a fuss that the pair will probably be rematched for the night of September 22 in Philadelphia, at which time Mr. Dempsey and Mr. Tunney will be having their troubles out in Chicago.

IT was Mr. George (Tex) Rickard who first demonstrated that Philadelphia is a first-class fight town for the big boys, although up to his advent the Quaker City claimed the distinction of having buried nearly every heavyweight in the business over its walls.

The Messrs. Guinness and Taylor drew $[illegible] at Shibe Park Monday night, and outside of the gladiators in the main event, the card was made up of strangers to the city. The promoters were trying an experiment. They had been told so often that the local ringworms were tired of seeing old faces that they thought they would see if this were true.

I believe their success is considered rather a remarkable accomplishment, and besides making a profit for themselves they developed several new drawing cards. The other promoters were marching in a body today on the barony of Leiperville, out of which came Godfrey and Warner to astonish the natives.

I thought the punch that clipped Maloney was in the nature of a very lucky punch, and the Bostonian did not get a chance to get fully started, whether he was "kneed" by Godfrey or not. I never saw more action between big men crowded into a minute. It was a whale of a fight.

EDWARD JAMES MALONEY, in spite of the knockout, looked far better than he did against the terrible Sharkey man in New York. He was up and tearing in his old style, and but for that unexpected clout on the chin, and the possible "kneeing," the folks would have seen a shindig that would have rocked the rafters.

It was Maloney's attack that made it a battle. The Black Shadow does not care much about leading. He is a superb boxer on defense, somewhat reminiscent of the man under whom he learned his trade, old John Arthur Johnson, but if an opponent waits on him, the Shadow will also wait, and keep on waiting.

That he is vastly improved over anything he has ever before shown in the East there is no doubt, but I would like to see him in a longer struggle against Maloney, or any other opponent, before pronouncing the improvement permanent. Had Edward James stood off and boxed the Black Shadow, Godfrey might not have looked so tremendous.

Godfrey is now around 27 years old, and has been boxing since the war. He served under old Sam Langford, John Arthur Johnson and Jack Dempsey, and he ought to know about all there is to be known about boxing. Out on the West coast they think he is unbeatable, but up to last night he was not regarded as extra formidable in the East.

Now it looks as if he will succeed old Har' Wills as the new black menace, unless Maloney unmenaces him in their next meeting.

TYPOS TO HOLD MEET HERE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Boston was selected yesterday as the scene of the eighteenth annual Union Printers international baseball and golf tournament which will be held in August, 1928. Pittsburgh was named as the winter meeting place of the International Typographical Union. The convention will open sometime in January.

With the field narrowed down to four aspirants for championship honors, the baseball tourney of the Union Printers enters the semi-final round here today. St. Louis meets Boston and Chicago faces Washington.

The Pittsburgh team was eliminated yesterday when it suffered its second defeat at the hands of Boston, 11 to 2.

Holding a lead of 28 strokes in front of his nearest rival, Ralph Love, Cincinnati, is assured the championship trophy in the seventeenth annual Union Printers' golf tourney which enters the final round here today.

Lew Massey, southpaw junior lightweight of Baltimore, and Babe Ruth of Philadelphia meet in the main bout of a show at the Elks' Park, Philadelphia, tonight.

NOTES of the BOXERS

TOMMY CROWLEY has resigned the local featherweight championship without a struggle and in the future will appear in the ring as a junior lightweight. He will make his debut in the new division against Maxie Holub in a 10-round bout at 132 pounds at Canton Monday night, according to his manager, Bill Heckman. Heckman has Monte Sirko, pride of Oakland, ready to step into Crowley's featherweight shoes and announces Monte is prepared to box Kid Carpentier, Andy Staburs or any of the other 126-pounders in this section.

Tommy Freeman and Harry Mason, the British lightweight champion, will meet in the main bout of a show in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight. Georgie Levine and Farmer Joe Cooper are down for the semi-final. Jimmy Finley and Billy Alger will meet in the second 10 and Clyde Hull and Irish Tommy Jordan will punch it out in the opener.

Promoter Jules Beck of Duquesne has completed his card for the show he will hold at the Duquesne baseball park a week from next Monday night. Cuddy DeMarco of McKeesport and Johnny Mellon of Detroit will appear in the 10-round main bout and Young Rudy of Charleroi and Teddy Welch of McKeesport are paired for the six-round semi-final. Bobby Young of Duquesne and Ralph Martin of Bloomfield will meet in the second bout and the opener will be between Jimmy Belmont of Braddock and Tommy Ward of the South Side.

AL AVETTA WINS AT BEDFORD

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., Aug. 18.—The second round of the Bedford Springs amateur golf tournament proved to be one of many upsets. A. J. Avetta, Chartiers Heights golfer, defeated the medalist, Ken Smith, of Latrobe, 1 up, on the eighteenth hole. Smith had been regarded as a possible winner of the tournament and Avetta as just a golfer who had entered for whatever he could glean.

He turned the tables, however, and yesterday afternoon turned in a card of 79 that bettered Smith's repetition of his medal score of 80 by one stroke. Avetta's card follows:

Out 4 3 6 3 5 5 5 4 5—40
In 4 5 2 5 3 6 6 4 4—39

Schmertz, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, played Smith yesterday morning and was eliminated in a match that went 19 holes. The one remaining Pittsburgh representative now is Avetta, who should go to the final. Yesterday morning Avetta eliminated Ray Longnecker, Bedford Springs star, 1 up.

TUBERS DEFEAT GRAYS

A home run over the center field fence by Ollie Carnegie gave the McKeesport club a 1-0 victory over the Homestead Grays at McKeesport last evening. The blow came in the seventh and last scheduled inning.

"Not Likely to Win," Bobby (Alone) Says

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Bobby Jones, arriving in Minneapolis for the national amateur golf championship next week, announced that he didn't expect to win. That almost made two of us. I say almost because I meant not quite. Jones must be expected to win any tournament until he loses it. The writer, therefore, will content himself with saying that, when and if Jones loses this tournament he, the writer, will be surprised only in moderation, which is neither here nor elsewhere.

Anyhow, the percentage is against Jones. So, of course, is the field. That leaves only Jones against both, and it is pretty much of a stand-off at that. If the young man is playing golf next week, the rest of the stuff can run hurriedly for Michael Francis Sweeney.

The trouble with Jones against the field in a national amateur championship is that he must beat at least one man every day. For that reason, we can be justified in throwing out of consideration here his victories in the American open championships of 1923 and 1926 and his British open titles of 1926 and 1927. In each of these there was at least one man in the field playing better golf than Jones over certain intervals of 24 hours.

But he didn't have to beat that particular man that particular day. All he had to do was to head him at the end of the week, which he thoroughly did.

In other words, the 24-hour menace of the individual golfer, suddenly bereft of all control and shooting like a gunman, is reduced to a minimum in an open championship; but it is elevated to a maximum in the amateur event, where daily match play prevails.

Bobby Jones and George Von Elm, past and present champions, respectively, naturally are the stand-out candidates in the field of 170. This is true of Jones because he is a stand-out anywhere. It is true of Von Elm because he is the only man to beat Jones since 1922, and, conversely, Jones is the only man to gain a decision over him during the same period.

Yep, the War Was a Fake!

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

THE RECENT World War must have been a fake.

That's the only conclusion we can reach after digesting the contents of a letter from a reader which is too lengthy to reprint here, but which says without qualification that everything is crooked these days and the newspapers know it, but are afraid to print the truth.

The writer of the missive, who appends only the initials, J. S. J., to his letter, starts out by asking if we'll pick Tunney to defeat Dempsey again in their return bout, and warns us to beware.

"YOU PULLED one last year when you picked Tunney to win well in advance of the bout," our correspondent writes, "and I thought you had the right dope when you also picked Sharkey to defeat Dempsey recently, but I notice you fell down on that one. Take a tip from me and watch your step on the second Tunney-Dempsey thing. Take Jack this time, for all the signs point to a victory for him. Tunney should win, but he won't. The big money behind boxing will see that Dempsey, the big gate man, wins this time, and there'll be a third battle between the pair next year and Tunney will win that one. I have said that I also thought Sharkey would whip Dempsey, but the big dough wouldn't have it that way. Things certainly worked out just to Tex Rickard's liking that night. If Sharkey had won, what would have happened to Tex's swell plans for the Chicago cleanup? Wise up, bo, wise up!

"I like to read your fight dope and believe you have a pretty good line on the ability of most of the prominent men in the ring—but, brother, it would take a fortune teller to figure out what is going on behind the scenes.

"AND BOXING isn't the only sport that is dominated by big money. Nobody can tell me any different but that it's all fixed for the Cubs to win the pennant in the National League and that the home run race between Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig is a frameup, with the pitchers grooving 'em for the pair to keep up interest with the Yankees so far out in front that the pennant race is a joke.

"The horse-racing racket is just as bad, and the so-called amateur sports such as golf and tennis are just as commercial as the others, only there are not so many people in on the split. Say, the next thing we know, they'll be fixing the college boys to throw football games.

"No kidding, I'm serious about all of this. My main reason for writing you, though, is to tip you off that form and condition won't mean anything in the coming Dempsey-Tunney battle. It's in the cards for Dempsey to win, and I'd hate to see you muff it by making the mistake of thinking the boys are going to level."

Yes, sir, the World War certainly MUST have been a fake. How else could anyone's faith in mankind have been so rudely shattered?

WE'VE just been wondering what was said and done before and after Kiki Cuyler was put in as a pinch-hitter in the ninth inning of the Pirates' first game with the Giants at the Polo Grounds the other day with Jewel Ens acting as manager in the absence of Manager Donie Bush, who had been ejected from the field by the umpire in the first inning. Cuyler had been benched by Manager Bush a week before and it was understood he would be kept on the bench. Yet as soon as Bush was out of the picture, Cuyler was sent in and delivered a hit. Bush later was fined $100 for his run-in with the umps, which was just twice what he had fined Cuyler for failing to slide into second base on the play which also resulted in the loss of Kiki's position as a regular in the lineup.

Was Cuyler put back into the game on orders from Bush, or did Ens take matters into his own hands? And, if so, how, why, what and when about it? It's an interesting situation, with many ramifications.

THROUGH the SPORT LENS by HAVEY BOYLE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—At last the Benny Bass-Red Chapman featherweight championship bout has been arranged. It will be held in Philadelphia at the scene of the Dempsey-Tunney bout of 1926, in the Sesqui Stadium, September 12. The promoters, the stout Robert Gunness and the lean Hoiman Taylor, will be the promoters. A gate of $100,000 is expected.

Havey J. Boyle.

YOU may be interested to know that Red Chapman, one of the participants in the championship bout, is a former Pittsburgh boy, he lived when a boy in the Center avenue section, close to Dinwiddie street. As a kid he sold newspapers downtown.

His real name is Morris Kaplan. His father Abraham Kaplan was a glazer in the Herron Hill sector. He has two brothers, Sam and Joe, now in the hotel business in Homestead, home of militant Jack Cavanaugh, the burgess.

CHAPMAN left Pittsburgh when quite young to seek the elevating influences of New England, capital of American culture. He had no thought of engaging in the fight racket when he left Pittsburgh, but while in Boston he was impressed with the possibilities of the boxing racket and quickly deserted the commercial sphere to engage in boxing. He is a red-haired boy, bearing a badge of the ring, a fat nose, made stout by persistent antagonists who had an inclination to tap Red on the beezer. He has missed the cauliflower ear. He is 26 years old, weighs now about 130, but will experience no difficulty in making 126 for the title bout.

THIS is Chapman's biggest shot in a financial way. He is to get $12,000 guarantee with a privilege of 20 per cent, while his foe, Bass, is content with 22½ per cent of the gross receipts with no guarantee.

The reason why the gate will be a large one, aside from the championship, is that both Bass and Chapman are Jewish boys with Bass owning a great following here, and with his manager, Phil Glassman, boasting of large throngs which turn out for the pleasure of seeing Glassman's men defeated.

THE boys have met before. Last year in New York, Bass was awarded a victory on a foul. The New York Commission, however, still liked Chapman as a contender and decreed that if Pennsyl-

TEX, FLYNN, GETZ HEAD RECEPTION SQUAD

CHICAGO, Aug. 18—(AP.)—The first choice morsel of Chicago's long waited boxing feast, a heavyweight championship battle, was spread before the fight fans today with the arrival of Jack Dempsey to start training.

For a day or two the public will have its look at Dempsey and then he will withdraw to the seclusion of Lincoln Fields race course, with none but sports writers privileged to watch him prepare for his comeback struggle against champion Gene Tunney, September 22, at Soldiers Field.

Jack will have the spotlight alone here for a fortnight as Tunney does not plan to open his Lake Villa camp until about September 1. He is training now at Speculator, N. Y., the quarters he regards as the best training location in the country.

Tex Rickard, the promoter, George Getz, the millionaire coal man who is Rickard's legal sponsor under the Illinois boxing law, and Manager Leo P. Flynn were to form the nucleus of Dempsey's reception committee when the Dempsey train arrived at noon, but Jack's early day battles around Chicago have made him thousands of friends here who will swell the crowd of greeters.

PROCESS SERVERS ACTIVE

Many of Dempsey's visits here have been disturbed by process servers, and this one is no exception. The shadow of an old contract to fight Harry Wills is being brought to life again by B. C. Clements, but his attorney has taken no action yet to bring Dempsey into court.

Detective Sergeant Fred Tapscott, the personal bodyguard of Dempsey on many occasions, will take the former champion in tow again as soon as he lands, and guard him for the five weeks remaining before the battle.

Dempsey's training ring on the clubhouse lawn at Lincoln Fields is ready for the shuffle of his feet, and some of his sparring partners are already on hand, but he probably will not begin his work at the track until Monday. If the weather is severe, there is ample space on the ground floor of the clubhouse for an indoor ring, or any other indoor workouts with bags and weights that Manager Flynn directs.

QUARTERS PREPARED.

The quarters where the jockeys stay during the racing season have been prepared for Dempsey's sparring partners and, if they wish, visiting newspapermen.

The third floor suite of the clubhouse designed for the use of Col. Matt J. Winn, general manager of the track, has been made ready for Dempsey, with a similar suite at the opposite end of the big brick building for Jack's chief advisers and intimate friends.

Mrs. Dempsey has never seen her husband in the ring.

WELCH ENTERS POLICE PENSION FUND MEET

Wendell Welch, Ford City High School, and one of the star track men of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League, is entered in the annual police meet at the Pitt Stadium Saturday afternoon of next week.

He will compete in the 440 and 880-yard handicaps. Welch won the half mile at the W. P. I. A. L. meet, was third in the same event at the state scholastic games and first in the 440 at the county meet. He has run the quarter in 56 seconds and the half in 2 minutes 2 seconds.

The Inside Story of DEMPSEY'S 'COMEBACK'

(COPYRIGHT, 1927, BY UNIVERSAL SERVICE.)

CHAPTER II.

I KNEW two months before Jack Dempsey arrived in New York that I had been chosen to direct his training. There were only three of us in on the secret—Dempsey, Tex Rickard and myself.

I suppose actually there were six. I am sure that Mrs. Dempsey knew about it, and I'll take it for granted that Mrs. Rickard did, too. I know if I tried to surprise my Kate with a deal like that I would be running yet. My Kate seems to have very set notions about my business secrets.

Some of the gentlemen in the fight world were quite dismayed when the news became known. I know there were quite a number who were prayerfully hoping that the lightning would strike them. They could not understand how Dempsey and I had arranged such an important deal without a personal meeting.

They forget that Dave Shade had been trouping on the Pacific Coast at about the same time that Dempsey began training at Ojai. Shade is under my management and he always has given me a lot of respect since the night he knocked out Jimmy Slattery. Shade and I are pretty close. It was Shade and Dempsey who cooked up the deal. They arranged it between them and told me about it afterward.

Did I want the job? What a foolish question! I would like to have seen anyone keep me from it once I learned that Dempsey really wanted me.

I had been trying to find a champion for 30 long years. I had managed hundreds of fighters, but there were hundreds of others just like them. It didn't seem in the cards for Leo Peter Flynn to have a champion of his own.

DELIGHTED AT PROSPECT.

I'm human, like any other man in any other business. I had dreamed of the day when one of my boys would rule a division. The vision had not materialized. I almost got there with Bill Brennan against Dempsey, and I came close with Shade against Mickey Walker. But close does not count. There is no second money in boxing.

So it should not be hard to picture my delight when I heard that Dempsey had picked me. I was like a man who never had owned anything better than a second-hand four-cylinder car, suddenly I found myself presented a Rolls-Royce, slightly used, to be sure, but still a Rolls-Royce. The body was sound and the motor was good, so what did I care about the paint?

After all that was to be my job. I was to be a body renovator.

To me the job of renovating Dempsey was an opportunity to invest the education of a lifetime in the most alluring gamble that ever could come to a boxing man. It was a chance to do something that almost everyone said could not be done.

Any man with red blood would thrill to a challenge like that. I know it stirred me right down to my heels.

I had watched Dempsey through all the years he held the championship. I had studied him as all other managers had. I always thought that some day I would find the man who would fight him for his title, and I wanted to be ready. I had my own ideas of what could be done to improve Dempsey and I ached for a chance to put them to the test.

DISAPPOINTED IN CONDITION.

It finally came. I went to the Belmont Hotel on June 23 to meet Dempsey and his attorney. The contract between us was ready, awaiting our signatures. The agreement provided that I was to handle Dempsey for his bout with Sharkey and if he won I was to continue in charge of his camp for the Tunney match.

My first glimpse of Dempsey gave me a fright. He looked like a man on the verge of a breakdown, instead of

MISS BEJACH, MRS. RILEY IN FINAL

Mrs. L. G. Riley, the defending champion, and Miss E. Lucille Bejach emerged victors in semi-final round matches in the annual women's city golf championship at the Schenley Park course yesterday afternoon. They will clash for the title tomorrow.

The victims were Mrs. Albert McBride, wife of the Schenley professional, and Mrs. Boris Robinoff. The Miss Bejach-Mrs. McBride match was the feature contest of the day, the former winning, 1 up, in 19 holes. Mrs. Riley eliminated Mrs. Robinoff, 4 and 3.

MOSTIL JOINS WHITE SOX; EAGER TO GET IN GAME

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Although the White Sox, and six other American League teams, are out of the pennant race, the Sox may be strengthened within a fortnight by the addition of Johnny Mostil, their star outfielder, who ruined himself for this season's play in a fit of despondency at the spring training camp.

Mostil was given a noisy greeting when he came out for batting practice at Sox park yesterday, and his hitting, fielding and throwing seemed to be almost equal to his former efforts which made him last year the best outfielder in the league.

He wore a kid glove on his left hand, even at bat, and inside his playing mitt. He said he was determined to play some league baseball before the season was over, and he looked ready for regular duty if his slashed hand will stand the strain. He declared it would.

TWO BILLS, WILLIAMS, HUNTER CHOSEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The American Davis cup team to defend the trophy in matches at Germantown, Pa., next month will consist of William T. Tilden II of Philadelphia, William M. Johnston of San Francisco, Richard N. Williams II of Philadelphia and Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., the U. S. Davis cup selections committee announced today.

John Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal., and George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, were selected as alternates. They are eligible to be named as active members of the team up to within 10 days of the matches, which will be held September 8, 9 and 10.

Hunter gained the regular place on the team over Lott and Doeg, partly as a result of his showing in the trials at Forest Hills yesterday.

The personnel of the team, with the exception of Hunter, is the same as that of last year. Hunter assumes the vacancy created by Vincent Richards, who is now in the professional ranks.

The selection committee consisted of Chairman Charles S. Garland, non-playing captain of the team; Holcombe Ward, Dean Mathey, Harold ... Hackett and Carl H. Behr, with Julian S. Myrick, James W. Mersereau and Bernon S. Prentice, serving as ex-officio members.

Tilden and Johnston have played in seven previous challenge rounds and Williams six. Hunter, the newcomer, is a former Cornell star, whose game this season has risen to new heights. He has held several doubles titles with Tilden and Richards.

While Tilden and Johnston are expected to bear the brunt of the singles attack, the make-up of the doubles team still is in doubt. Either Johnston, Williams or Hunter may pair with Big Bill Tilden. Tilden won the Wimbledon championship teamed with Hunter this season.

Although the lanky Philadelphian has expressed a desire to play either with Johnston, his Davis Cup doubles partner in 1920 and 1924, or Hunter, officials are believed to favor Williams. Tilden teamed with his former captain in 1923.

DAMON RUNYON SAYS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—The ringworms of the dear old Quaker City are still gasping over the flurry of fistic events at Shibe Park Monday night that wound up two bouts in one minute and 37 seconds of actual ring activity.

DAMON RUNYON.

This is probably a world's record for speed in two bouts, and the home boys are claiming the record for one bout on the time that it took Wyoming Warner of Cheyenne to belt out Mike Russo in the semi-windup to the Maloney-Godfrey affair.

I believe that the local timers clocked this at 11 seconds from the opening bell. Incidentally out of this bout comes an echo of the unpleasantness between Mr. Tunney and Mr. Dempsey in this fair city last September, because the referee last night was none other than Tommy Reilley, who was the third man in the ring at the Sesqui-Centennial stadium, and a system he adopted then, and used with Warner and Russo, is causing something of an argument hereabouts.

It seems that Tommy Reilley, who is accounted one of the best of the Pennsylvania referees, gave Mr. Dempsey and Mr. Tunney their instructions in their dressing rooms, and they shook hands there, so that when they entered the ring there was no preamble before the fighting began.

Reilley did this same thing to the Wyoming collegian and Russo Monday night, but the unusual procedure left the boys somewhat confused. They were standing in their corners awaiting the call to the center of the ring when the bell rang. They both hesitated, and Reilley had to tell them to commence fighting.

WARNER went snaking across the ring with amazing speed and ripped a left hook to Russo's body and the fight was over. Russo was out so long as to cause the folks no little uneasiness. When he revived he said he was looking for the usual handshake and was caught unawares.

The exact time was whatever time it took the Wyoming youth to slide across the ring. He had his left hook under way as he moved. The hesitation in the corners took several seconds off what you might call the elapsed time. The big crowd was still throbbing over this startling event, when it suddenly discovered Edward James Maloney of Boston flat on the canvas, with burly George Godfrey standing over him.

Maloney walked into "the Black Shadow of Leiperville" at the bell, and nailed him with a right-hand smash to the chin that woke up all the neighbors. They roared around the ring a moment with Maloney out-belting the "Shadow," when

TOTTEN NOT TO COMPETE IN NATIONAL AMATEUR

Well, the Cubs at Least Have a Firm Root

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

Parks, Young, Brand Depart

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

CHARLES A. TOTTEN, 19-year-old star golfer of the Stanton Heights Golf Club, will not compete in the national amateur championship at the Minikahda Country Club in Minneapolis next week, it was learned early this morning on the eve of his scheduled departure. It is reliably reported that young Totten himself was very eager to make the trip, but that his mother objected.

Totten is one of the best of the youthful golfers of the district. He made his first championship bid at the Edgewood Country Club last year, when he went to the final round in the West Penn junior tourney, only to be meted out defeat by Samuel M. Parks, Jr., of the Highland Country Club. This year he fought a gallant fight against Fred Brand, Jr., for the championship in the West Penn amateur, played at South Hills, and followed it up by reaching the final in the Stanton Heights invitational. His strength will be greatly missed by the Pittsburgh squad.

Samuel M. Parks, Jr., 18, and Knox M. Young, Jr., 17, both of Highland, and Fred Brand, Jr., 17, of Sewickley, who will be playing under the banner of the Hannastown Country Club, Greensburg, entrained today for the long trip to Minneapolis. This trio of junior golfers is one of the strongest in the country.

President William C. Fownes, Jr., of the U. S. G. A., national amateur champion of 1910, will head the Pittsburgh delegation at Minikahda, which also includes Allison R. Maxwell, of Oakmont, state amateur champion, and Carl F. Kauffmann, of Schenley Park, national public links crown-holder.

Brand, Parks and Young departed on the 10.40 train via the P. R. R.

WOMEN'S PLAY ADVANCES.

Play in the semi-final round of the women's city golf championship on the Schenley Park public links got a late start this morning due to soggy course. Professional Al McBride, who is in charge of the titular tournament, held up the competition in the hope that the layout would drain quickly. Menacing gray clouds hung overhead and the grass was still wet when the contestants in four divisions finally drove from the first tee.

In the upper bracket Mrs. L. G. Riley of the Edgewood Country Club, medalist and defending champion, battled Mrs. Boris Rabinoff, heroine of the second-round matches, while in the lower Miss E. Lucille Bejach, favorite to annex the title cup, and Mrs. Albert McBride opposed each other. In each instance close play was marked as they wended their way through the first few holes this morning, and it is anticipated that neither of the matches will end with a one-sided score.

The feature of yesterday's tilting was the defeat of Mrs. M. W. St. John, veteran star of the public links. Mrs. St. John fell before the courageous little Mrs. Boris Robinoff in a match that went to the home hole.

Miss Bejach produced the best medal scoring of yesterday with her 85 for the complete round, although she eliminated Miss Jessie Gould, tall, masculine-appearing linkswoman, by 5 and 3. On the eleventh hole she sank a 40-foot chip-shot approach.

Mrs. Riley advanced to the penultimate matches by virtue of her victory over Mrs. Blair, 6 and 4, while Mrs. McBride won over the Grandmother of Schenley Park golf, Mrs. Kerr.

Engaging in close conflict in the second flight this morning were Mrs. Wallerstedt and Mrs. Caplan, and Mrs. Eyer and Mrs. Kenley. Mrs. Long, Miss Kennedy, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Broido were put out yesterday.

In the consolation flight of the first sixteen, Miss Boechert played Mrs. Zinsmeister this morning and Mrs. Ed Lauer competed against Mrs. W. J. Lauer.

And in the beaten eight of the second sixteen there was only one match this morning, Mrs. Brinkman playing Mrs. Galvin. Miss Griffith drew a bye, due to the defaulting of Mrs. Myers. Mrs. Harnack and Miss Hughes, and will meet the winner of the upper bracket in the final.

Tomorrow the final round for the championship will be played over the 18-hole route.

EAST AND WEST MEET AT NET

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Tennis supremacy between the Eastern and Western divisions of the United States will be decided by five out of nine matches in the annual sectional series starting tomorrow at Forest Hills. This marks a departure from the usual seven-match series.

William T. Tilden II, in accordance with the wishes of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, will not participate in the singles. His withdrawal will afford opportunity for some of the younger players to gain tournament experience. Tilden will pair with Francis T. Hunter in the doubles.

Tomorrow's schedule:

SINGLES.

Watson Washburn (E) vs. Lewis N. White or Lionel Ogden (W).

Manuel Alonso (E) vs. John Hennessey (W).

Frank Shields (E) vs. Clarence Griffin (W).

DOUBLES.

Tilden and Hunter (E) vs. George M. Lott Jr., and John Doeg (W).

PRO GRID WAR IS ENDED

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The war between The National and American Professional Football Leagues that cost over half a million dollars last season has been definitely ended.

The announcement was made last night by Joe Carr, president of the National Football League.

As the result of the peace plan, which was developed by William Veeck, president of the Chicago National League Baseball team, there will be but one professional football league this year. It will be called the National Football League, and will include 12 teams.

Under the reorganization plan the following teams will be active: The New York Giants, Red Grange's Yankees, the Cleveland Panthers, Philadelphia Yellow Jackets, Chicago Bears, Chicago Cardinals, Pottsville, Providence, Green Bay, Duluth, Dayton and Buffalo.

William Veeck, Tim Mara, of the old National League; C. C. Pyle, head of the American League, and William (Big Bill) Edwards, so-called czar of the former National League, were the principals in the peace negotiations.

JONES TUNES UP AT MINIKAHDA

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones has bowed to old man par in his first two practice rounds over the Minikahda course where he is warming up for the national amateur tournament, which opens Monday. He turned in cards of 75 and 77 in his first survey of the course yesterday. There was a bad hook in his drives and his putting was somewhat off the usual Jones standard. Par is 72.

Watts Gunn, another Atlanta star, led the practice rounds with cards of 72 and 74. Gene Cook, a Jones protege, displayed some golf that marked him as a strong dark horse contender. He turned in scores of 73 and 75.

George Von Elm, defending champion, who made the acquaintance of Minikahda last week, is expected to return from Detroit tomorrow. Other outstanding stars expected some time today and Friday are Francis Ouimet, Jesse Guilford, Bob Gardner and Chick Evans.

SOCCER

by TOM BIRKS

Tomorrow evening the cup committee of the West Penn Football Association will meet to line up preliminary work for the playing of the Western Pennsylvania senior and junior cups this season. It is the most important committee in local soccer.

President Carson made no mistake in making John Watson chairman of it. He is a go-getter.

Gossip has it there will be no meeting at Burdine tomorrow evening for the Chartiers Valley loop. The amount of work accomplished at its first session was considered enough for a starter.

The dates for the senior competition will be the most important part of the program tomorrow evening. When these are named, the schedule makers can get together and line up the season's cards.

How the professional aggregation at Detroit is going to function in a league largely of the amateur type is a problem. The Cougar club is a professional outfit and all of the players will sign a professional form.

When the Celtics played at Packard Park on Sundays some fine attendances marked the game. It is possible this has led Detroit promoters to try professional soccer. In the writer's opinion, professional soccer will only advance when kept in a professional league.

Real soccer news will start to circulate when contracts reach the managers Saturday morning. There should be a grand rush on Sunday to get signatures affixed to the dotted line.

When some of the rosters are announced there is going to be a real surprise. Summer promises do not amount to much where players are concerned. One well-known soccerite with a tendency to manage a big league club told the writer away back in June that 14 players had promised their signatures. Try and get one now!

vania fight solons concurred they would be glad to recognize the Bass-Chapman affair in Philadelphia as a title bout.

Philadelphia is, of course, the logical place for the bout, it being the home of Bass, and affording a fight site large enough to hold the many customers expected. Chapman hails from Boston.

It was agreed by the principals and their respective managers that the winner will meet any challenger selected by the Pennsylvania Commission within a period of six months after the titular bout.

JUDGING from lack of excitement here over the Tunney-Dempsey bout, Pittsburgh, with far less population, will send many more fans to Chicago than this city. This lack of excitement indicates how shrewd Mr. Rickard was when he decided to take the big fight to the West. It is doubtful whether New York or Philadelphia could have been properly steamed up for the big event. Where Pittsburgh will send 500 fans to the bout, Philadelphia may not send more than one-fifth that amount. This is partly due, of course, to the long haul from Philadelphia to Chicago and to the comparatively short haul from Pittsburgh to Chicago.

SPIES here report that Philly fans, after having seen George Godfrey kayo Jim Maloney, believe that Godfrey is the real goods. More conservative fans, however, believe that Godfrey looked so good because Maloney in reality is quite bad.

However, the heavyweight battle had the town by the ears, and boxing seems to flourish here better than in many cities. Now the fans are talking about the coming fight between Battling Levinsky and Matt Aggie, a local pride. Levinsky is in his thirties, but he must still carry some appeal, for the fans are anxious to see him.

PIRATE troubles have reached the ear of Philadelphia and the people here have the impression that another good ball club has been deprived of a pennant chance on account of internal troubles. The Cuyler affair, being more sensational than the number of injuries suffered this season by the Pirates, naturally Philly fans believe all the Pirate ills are coming from the Cuyler affair.

As in Pittsburgh, fans in the East incline to the opinion that the Pirates are far superior to the first-place Cubs, but they have given up any idea the Pirates are going to win now, remembering the big advantage held by the Cubs at present.

THIS great baseball city finds itself annually at this time of the year looking at first place clubs in other cities. The Phillies are hopeless and no regret is expressed over the poor work, but there is chagrin over the fact that Connie Mack, after having signed Cobb, Collins and Wheat, once again finds himself forced to plan for next year instead of this one. This has been an old story here ever since 1916, when the Phils, National champions of 1915, failed to repeat.

Philadelphia is far more interested in boxing affairs than in baseball matters.

Why Tiolene is Pure Motor Oil

THE "spinning out" of the paraffine wax is just one of the many operations which assure the superiority of Tiolene 100% Super-Pennsylvania Motor Oil.

Wax adds nothing to the quality of the finished oil and so, for years, The Pure Oil Company has carefully removed this element from Tiolene.

Huge wax presses are used and, after chilling the oil to 20° below zero, centrifugal force is also utilized. Whole batteries of centrifuges—which are exactly like cream separators—whirling at 17,000 revolutions per minute, throw off or "spin out" the heavier wax . . . separate the unwanted from the wanted lubricating elements.

This leaves an oil which is pure oil, which is all oil, which is 100% motor oil. Tiolene, as a result of this process, will lubricate properly under a wider range of temperatures.

Not only is Tiolene made from the highest grade crude oil produced on this continent—the famous Cabin Creek Super-Pennsylvania Crude—but the most expert refining further assures its supreme quality. No care is spared, no cost is stinted, in preserving all of the desirable lubricating qualities of Cabin Creek crude.

Tiolene is 100% Super-Pennsylvania Motor Oil. It will stubbornly retain its body under the most extreme motor conditions. It will give you more miles of safe lubrication per fill.

Vitrified Products At Year's Low

A fair demand for Arkansas Natural Gas made its appearance on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, with early dealings witnessing a turnover of approximately 1,800 shares of the issue. Price was steady to firm at 9⅝ and 9¾, but the stock appeared to be pointing upward, probably in expectation of an official statement concerning the company's rumored deal with Cities Service for purchase of the gas end of the Arkansas company's business. Aside from Arkansas, dealings in the oil and gas issues were negligible in the first half of the session. Bids for Lone Star Gas showed practically no change from quotations prevailing yesterday.

In the miscellaneous section, the common shares of the American Vitrified Products Corporation established a new low for the year on a sale of 200 shares at 21. This company is maintaining its present dividend rate of $2 a share per year, but its failure to get far from a 10 per cent return basis has occasioned a little apprehension as to the future of the dividends. Company's principal product is sewer pipe, and it is thought orders are tapering off as a result of smaller volume of municipal borrowing noted in many sections. Fireproofing preferred was firm at 26½ as against yesterday's sale price of 26. The company yesterday sold a $1,000,000 bond issue to Hornblower & Weeks.

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt was quiet and demand for the issue was light. Odd lot sales were recorded at 47½, off a point from the last previous price. There was very little interest displayed in Standard Sanitary which was handled at 95¾, a slight fractional change from yesterday's quotations.

Expect Drop in Rail Net.

The July earnings reports of the railroads should begin to come out tomorrow. According to rail officials they will show, in most instances, a slight further drop in revenue as compared with 1926, as did those for June. Furthermore, it is pointed out, the carloading figures of the last three weeks have indicated that August reports of earnings will not show any material betterment, except in the case of some of the western roads. In the west the carriers should show gains from now on as crop movement and agricultural prosperity become effective.

That Old Ill Wind.

While heavy crude oil production has had an adverse effect on most of the oil companies from the standpoint of earnings, the situation is proving a boon to pipe line companies. These oil carriers have enjoyed a substantial increase in their deliveries so far this year, compared to 1926, and earnings naturally are expanding in proportion, as transportation rates on oil through pipe lines remain unchanged. Stocks of the pipe lines representing the Standard Oil group have been reflecting this condition in recent weeks and several of them are selling at or close to their highest levels in a long time.

Optimism prevails among hardware jobbers and dealers when considering the outlook for fall business. Early orders on fall merchandise have been light, but in view of the fact that carry over stocks on last year's fall goods were generally very small, the jobbing trade believes a substantial volume will be placed during the season, Hardware Age says in its weekly summary. Crop reports are encouraging and employment conditions are satisfactory, which adds weight to the optimism of the hardware trade.

Staple shelf hardware lines are very active in practically all important trading centers, in fact, unusually active for this particular season, which is often termed the "in between period." Collections show gradual improvement and few important price changes are noted.

Treasury Financing.

Notice was received yesterday by member banks in the New York Federal Reserve district that a new Treasury issue may be expected in the near future, as the Treasury has certificates amounting to over $319,000,000 maturing on September 15. The announcement is probably in connection with refunding operations. It seems likely that short-term notes with a 3¼ per cent or a 3 per cent coupon will be offered, judging on the basis of present easy money rates.

MAIN MARKET MOVEMENT UPWARD

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—(AP.)—The main price movement in today's stock market continued upward, but considerable spottiness developed, particularly in the early trading. Fears of a "secondary reaction," such as ordinarily follows the first recovery after a sharp break, undoubtedly kept many traders out of the market and accounted for the small volume of business.

Easy money rates continued to provide the main groundwork for the advance. Call loans renewed at 3½ per cent, the lowest of the year, and the lowest mid-August rate since the war. While the plentiful supply of funds testified to the general ease of credit conditions, there was a disposition in some quarters to regard it as bearish business, on the theory that the huge surplus of loanable funds were due, in part, to the relatively small commercial demand.

Rails shook off the sluggishness which developed as a result of the disappointing freight traffic reports, and started upward around midday under the leadership of the eastern carriers. "Nickel Plate," Lehigh Valley, Delaware and Hudson, Baltimore and Ohio and Atlantic Coast Line all sold 2 to nearly 4 points above yesterday's final quotations.

Further strength developed in the oil group on the theory that the industry would be helped by the seasonal curtailment of drilling operations, particularly in new fields. One block of 10,000 shares of Phillips Petroleum changed hands at 45, Houston extended its gain to more than 5 points and Atlantic Refining to 3½.

Motors were spotty, with speculative interest centering largely in Hudson on rumors of an increase in dividend at Saturday's meeting of the board. Resumption of the advance in the merchandising issues was accompanied by heavy profit-taking.

AUTOIST HURT IN COLLISION WITH BUS

One person was injured and eight others, including three women, escaped when a private bus and an automobile collided at Duquesne way and Seventh Street Bridge today.

Frank A. Land, of 3235 Waimbelle avenue, Dormont, suffered a probable fracture of the skull when his automobile collided with a bus containing eight employes of the Williams Company, of Pennsylvania avenue and Galveston street. Howard Depp, 26, of 821 Peralta, driver of the bus, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. Land was taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

NAB GIRLS WHO ESCAPED HOSPITAL ON "JOY RIDE"

A "joy ride" with two young men they picked up last night was the undoing of Rose Palestra, 16, and Hattie Schradel, 15, who gave their addresses as city. The girls, according to Juvenile Court workers, escaped from the West Penn hospital, where they were patients, three weeks ago. Search for the girls proved unsuccessful until last night when they were found with William Deeds, 20, and James Craft, 20, both of Webster avenue, on Monument Hill. The girls were turned over to Juvenile Court attaches and the young men were discharged.

POLICE TRIAL POSTPONED

Due to the absence of an important witness, the trial of Luke Connors and Peter Lehney, police lieutenants, was postponed today by the Police Trial Board to next Wednesday. The officers were suspended when Ray Rahn of South Fairmount avenue, whose auto struck and killed Martin Lydon, Pittsburgh Railways Company employe, charged that they allowed him to drive through East Liberty after seeing him intoxicated.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP)—To a great extent the curb market consisted all through the day in churning and floundering in many stocks within a narrow range at close to their recently established levels. Few issues moved into new ground and where substantial advances occurred they were generally the work of market combinations without a basis in the shape of new developments or changed prospects. This made price movements irregular.

General Motors new stock moved within a fractional range, being directed in its fluctuations by the action of the present issue on the stock exchange. New York Central new stock started with an advance which was lost within a short time and also was influenced by the position of the present shares on the stock exchange.

Oil stocks as a group reflected creation of new confidence because of the various steps to conserve the petroleum supplies of the country, but the most important movements in these issues were in recently inactive stocks which move up on a small volume of business. Illinois Pipe Line had a good basis for strength in the heavy production taxing its facilities to a considerable extent and advanced over two points making a new high record at 151⅛ and Standard Oil of Kentucky on a fractional advance to 123⅜, also entered new high ground. Southwest Penn Pipe Line moved up over two points on a few transactions. Mar[illegible] which was heavy yesterday had [illegible] of over four points. [illegible] was continued active trading [illegible] the Rayon stocks. Industrial Rayon advanced to a new maximum for the year at 11⅛ and a gain was made by American Rayon Products to 15. Celanese rallied after a 7-point decline. Ford Motor of Canada, after a late decline yesterday, rallied nine points to [illegible]. Chain Stores generally were well maintained.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Following is the official list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded [illegible]

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The bond market continued firm today, in reflection of the ease of money rates, but trading appeared a little less active than in several recent sessions. High grade railway mortgages were again the leaders, such issues as Erie refunding 5s, Chesapeake Corporation 5s, Kansas City Southern 5s, Lake Shore gold 4s and a few others selling in moderate amounts at or slightly below their best prices for the year.

Convertible issues displayed firmness, but the brisk demand of the past week or so showed marked signs of falling off. Erie "D" 4s were the most active in this department, selling up nearly a point just below 114.

Hudson Coal 5s were relatively active just short of 96, but other industrials were quiet, and little attention was paid to public utility bonds.

Foreign securities were led again by French issues, especially the governmental 7s and Department of Seine 7s, both of which were absorbed in rather large numbers at their best prices of 106 and 103¾ respectively.

United States government bonds were quiet and steady.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Transactions in the listed bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (not including [illegible]; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Canadian Pacific Gains.

Gross revenue of the Canadian Pacific from January 1 to August 14 were $121,[illegible], against $[illegible] in the same period last year.

Metals Lower.

Prices for all of the major non-ferrous metals are lower than a week ago. Although copper quotations are off 1/8 points in the domestic trade, it is significant, says the Engineering and Mining Journal, that sales at the decline have been small and the principal producers are uniformly out of the market. Net changes in lead and zinc have been small. Prices in London are generally down compared with last week.

St. Paul Longest Electrified Railroad.

With the opening of a 10-mile extension to the western terminal of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad last month, Seattle gains the distinction of being the largest city on the longest electrified railroad in the world, says the General Electric Company, which has built the 280-ton gearless electric locomotives that haul all trains in that division. This extension brings the total electrification of the St. Paul road to [illegible] miles, from Harlowton, Mont., to Avery, Idaho, and from Othello, Wash., to Seattle and Tacoma. Five mountain ranges are crossed.

Harvester Meeting Postponed.

The meeting of directors of the International Harvester Company, scheduled for today, has been postponed until tomorrow, due to lack of a quorum.

Business Outlook Good.

Inquiries received in the market for machinery and machine tools indicate that a steady volume of business is in sight for the fall period, the American Machinist reports. Improvement in production schedules has been announced in the typewriter industry, and among manufacturers of electrical equipments.

Chile Sends More Gold.

The Banco Central De Chile has increased its gold reserve in New York to $15,791,000 with a shipment of $2,100,000, consigned to the National Bank of Commerce. This is the latest of a series of gold shipments from Chile that began in February, 1926.

Outlook Bright, Fisher Says.

The outlook for continued prosperity is good, in the opinion of Prof. Irving Fisher, political economist at Yale University, who sailed for Europe today. With the exception of minor recessions which possibly might occur in the next few months, no serious setback appeared in sight, he asserted.

Structural Orders Fall.

Structural steel orders in the last week are placed at 30,000 tons, about 10,000 tons less than the week before. The largest inquiry for the week was for 150,000 tons for the Hudson River Bridge from Fort Washington, N. Y., to Fort Lee, N. J.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 16 to 23 points in response to higher Liverpool cables and buying apparently inspired by bullish private crop and condition figures. December sold up to 20.28c and March to 20.46c, on the initial buying movement, but advances of 20 to 30 points, but the market met a good deal of realization at these figures. There probably also was profit taking by traders who had bought in anticipation of bullish mid-month crop reports. At the end of the first hour the market showed reactions of 10 or 15 points from the best. With trading less active.

A private report made the condition 62.4 and the indicated crop 13,213,000 bales.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The raw sugar market was steady and unchanged early today. The only sale reported was 7,000 bags of Philippines, due the end of this month to a local refiner at 4.60c delivered, but there was further buying at this level with most holders asking fractionally higher prices.

Changes in raw sugar futures were narrow, but the undertone was steady, with the market at mid-day net unchanged to 1 point higher. Steadiness was due to covering, which was believed to be the taking in of hedges against sales in the spot market, but trading on the whole was of small proportions.

Refined sugar was unchanged at 5.70 to 5.80c for fine granulated, with business light and of a hand to mouth character.

FRIDAY NIGHT ONLY MONEY FOR YOU.

Here's an Amazing Opportunity
Here is the Key to a Good Position. An extra pay check Every Week. Whether Employed or Unemployed Read Carefully and Investigate. You can't afford to Pass Up the Greatest Opportunity in Pittsburgh Today. So Make Up Your Mind to Answer This Ad.
BUT THIS OPPORTUNITY WILL NOT LAST LONG.

$35 TO $75 WEEKLY.

Don't "grope in the dark," dreaming of extra money. You don't have to "pound the pavements" or go off on a "wild goose chase." Every ambitious person in the City of Pittsburgh would be amazed and glad to avail himself of this opportunity if he only knew the facts. YOU DON'T NEED EXPERIENCE AND YOU WON'T BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING. Briefly, the city's new administrative and and expansion has made it necessary for us to open an entirely new department and has created an opportunity unparalleled for people desiring EXTRA WEEKLY INCOME. Work WILL NOT CONFLICT WITH PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. No Selling. No Schooling. No Red Tape.

These positions can be filled during the spare hours during day or evenings of merchants, tradesmen, clerks, professional men and businessmen. Full time positions can be arranged for those desiring permanent work. ABSOLUTELY NO EXPERIENCE REQUIRED. FINANCIAL COOPERATION GIVEN from the start. You should earn NOT LESS than $44 to PER WEEK from the moment your name is placed upon the company's rolls. Of the scores of happy workers recently employed, very few earn less than $50 per week and are working but one hour per day. Positions (part time or permanent) are EXTREMELY SIMPLE, in pleasant surroundings and most congenial atmosphere.

Do not confuse this ad with another of similar wording, for YOU WILL NOT BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING AND YOU CAN EARN FROM THE MOMENT YOU START.

This is REAL. This is GENUINE. Here is an opportunity to earn a REAL BANK ACCOUNT during the summer months. The work is extremely simple and can be done by anyone of ordinary intelligence and we will make you understand and know you can do the work before we ask you to start.

You must understand this is an unusual opportunity. Come and get the facts. We require white applicants over 25 years of age AND EVERYONE will be given utmost consideration.

This ad will appear until FRIDAY EVENING and none will be considered after 8:30 O'CLOCK Friday evening. Make up your mind NOW to answer on time. NO APPLICANTS RECEIVED AT ANY OTHER HOUR. (Daylight saving time.)

LAST CALL. APPLY PAYMASTER.

APPLY FRIDAY EVENING, AUGUST 19TH, at 8:30 O'CLOCK, SUITE 601 CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUILDING, SEVENTH AVENUE AND SMITHFIELD STREET.

Notice! Remember this is an entirely new department and here is your opportunity to get a position in it. Scores of new applicants have been given employment during the evenings or after business hours and even the office boy earns $35 per week. Many of our employes who are employed otherwise during the daytime have bought new cars and have opened new bank accounts as a result of this wonderful extra income opportunity. You can answer other ads every day of the week, but—remember, you can only answer this ad Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

YOU SIMPLY CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS IT. Knowing how and why means EXTRA MONEY. Now if you really desire to open a REAL BANK ACCOUNT, DON'T MISS THIS. Do not answer this ad unless you are really sincere and anxious to earn an extra income. We will receive no applicants after 8:30 o'clock (daylight saving time) Friday evening, so make up your mind to answer on time. REGARDLESS OF PRESENT EMPLOYMENT, EVERYONE WILL BE GIVEN FULLEST CONSIDERATION AT ABOVE TIME. AND REMEMBER THE PLACE.

APPLY FRIDAY EVENING, AUGUST 19TH, at 8:30 O'CLOCK, SUITE 601, CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUILDING, SEVENTH AVENUE AND SMITHFIELD STREET.

CITY OF PITTSBURGH

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS

August 17, 1927.

1. SEPARATE AND SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the office of the City Controller, City-County Building, until 9 o'clock a. m., Eastern Standard time, August 26, 1927, and will be publicly opened and read in Council Chamber one hour later, for making the following public improvements:

FOR BUREAU OF BRIDGES AND STRUCTURES

Ellsworth Avenue Bridge over P. R. R. Reconstruction.

FOR BUREAU OF WATER

Howard Pumping Station. Wiring and appurtenances for motor-driven gate valves.

2. All bids must be made upon the prepared form of proposal to be obtained at the office of the Department of Public Works, Room 429, City-County Building, on and after August 17, 1927. Proposals containing any additions, erasures, omissions, alterations, additions not called for, or any additional bid of any kind, may be rejected as informal, and no bidder will be allowed to withdraw his bid.

3. Bids must be accompanied by a bond in the amount of fifty (50%) per centum of the estimated cost of the proposed improvement, duly and legally executed with a surety or trust company which has complied with the city ordinances relating thereto; said bond shall be in the form of bond furnished by the City of Pittsburgh.

4. Blueprint copies of contract plans, copies of Contract for Construction and Supplemental Specifications may be obtained at the office of the Bureau of Engineering, Room 419, City-County Building, except that the contract for Howard Pumping Station improvement is to be obtained in Room 429, City-County Building. Deposits in the amount of $10.00 will be required for each set of Supplemental Specifications and blueprint copies of the contract plans. Receipts for said deposits will be given and the money refunded upon return of plans and specifications in good condition and without marking within 10 days of the date bids are opened.

5. The Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works reserve the right to increase or decrease the amount of class of any portion of the work which they deem necessary, and to reject any or all proposals, or to accept any proposal which they deem it to the interest of the city so to do.

CHARLES H. KLINE, Mayor.

EDW. G. LANG, Director Department of Public Works.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

Vegetables and fruits were in fairly active demand at the local wholesale produce district today. The vegetable market held steady with the exception of Marietta tomatoes which were strong at nearly double the previous day's prices. No cars of Irish potatoes or apples arrived at the Pennsylvania yards. [illegible]

Live weight fowls and spring chickens fell off in price. [illegible]

The butter, egg and cheese markets were firm at unchanged prices.

Carlot supplies were light, a total of 424 cars being on track. Arrivals included 2 cars of cabbage, 3 cantaloupes, 3 grapes, 7 lettuce, 1 melons, 4 oranges, 9 peaches, 6 pears, 2 sweet potatoes, watermelons and 1 car nuts.

Hay receipts were moderate. [illegible]

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Wheat was subjected to wild and erratic fluctuations today as a result of mixed local trade. The heavy tone of the market in Winnipeg has offsetted the efforts of bull leaders here. Covering by September shorts gave strength to the corn market. Oats were affected by the action of wheat.

Wheat closed weak, 1 to 1⅜c lower. Corn was unchanged at ¼c down to 1c up, oats ⅛ to ⅝c off, and provisions 2½c higher to [illegible] lower.

East: ♠J107 ♡J109 ◇AKQ ♣KQ86

South: ♠KQ9 ♡AK832 ◇75 ♣752

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i.e., as though all four hands were exposed.

NOTE—In recording the Auction, or the play, use "S" for Spades, "H" for Hearts, "D" for Diamonds, and "C" for Clubs. Use "N. T." for No Trump, "DBL" for double, "REDBL" for redouble.

THE BIDDING

South Bids	West Bids	North Bids	East Bids
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 H	Pass	Pass	Pass

Final Bid 3 H Played by South

Salient Points of the Bidding

North raises his partner's bid to show better than average support for No Trump and shut out if possible a lead-directing bid by East. South takes out his own bid with three Hearts. Wishing to arrive at a game bid, and having doubts of going game at No Trump in view of his weakness in Spades and Clubs, South makes his secondary Major suit bid, leaving to his partner the choice of the final bid. North allows the Heart bid to stand.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 3. South plays low, finessing against the Jack. If West holds both the Ace and Jack, both must make.

Trick 4. West continues with Clubs rather than open blindly another suit. The result would have been the same had he switched.

Had Spades been opened originally another trick could have been made, but Clubs was the correct suit to open. Played at No Trump only two-odd could have been made, as Spades would have been established before the Hearts.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

Judge Martin's Fight

His Battle For a Principle Seems to Have Impressed the Lawyers.

Richard W. Martin, the young judge who has been making such an active campaign for re-election, received the highest number of votes of all the 29 judicial candidates, in the Lawyers' referendum.

Some time ago the local Republican organization selected nine candidates for the Common Pleas bench, who were indorsed as a "slate."

Judge Martin, not one of the nine, leaped to attack this practice of picking out a combine of judges.

The spectacle of a clique on the bench arouses no enthusiasm in the heart of anyone who cherishes the fundamentals of Americanism.

This statement is made without any reflection on the integrity and ability of the nine gentlemen on the party slate.

There is nothing more important in the life of a nation than to keep the judiciary untainted by political dickering.

Judge Martin's fight for a principle apparently has won enthusiastic support from the lawyers and it will be strange if the people of Allegheny county do not respond with enthusiasm just as great.

In considering the lawyers' vote, it is also interesting to note that Judge James H. Gray, who like Martin is a Pinchot appointee seeking to return to the bench on an independent, "anti-combination" platform, ran third.

On the other hand, all nine candidates slated by the Republican organization "qualified" by receiving at least twenty per cent of the lawyers' votes.

JUDGES SHOULD BE ELECTED OR REJECTED BY THE PEOPLE BECAUSE OF THEIR INDIVIDUAL PERSONAL QUALIFICATIONS—NOT BECAUSE THEY BELONG TO A COMBINE, CLIQUE OR BLOC.

Judge Martin's fight is interesting and important. Whether he is better qualified than the judges on the party slate is, of course, a matter for the voters to determine. But he is incontestibly right when he challenges the practice of judges running for re-election in a group, and not on their individual merits.

President Right in Favoring Stronger U. S. Sea Power

The President is to be congratulated for his words at Rapid City on Tuesday, championing an adequate American navy. The President criticised Congress for failing to pass the bill which he advocated last session, authorizing ten additional cruisers. The President explains that if this authorization had been made, he would be able to include appropriations for these cruisers in the budget he is now preparing.

Fortunately the difficulty can be overcome. Congress can authorize the ten additional vessels early enough in the session so that appropriations for them can be included in the naval appropriation bill. Construction of the cruisers can thus be got under way as rapidly as if they had been authorized last year and the President had included them in this year's budget.

President Coolidge was grievously disappointed in the Geneva disarmament conference. America went there expecting Great Britain and Japan to exercise the same generosity in stripping themselves of their cruiser superiority which we in 1921 showed in stripping ourselves of our battleship superiority. They refused. The President now recognizes the necessity of at least building cruisers of our own. The country will be with him.

No intelligent person can say that this is starting an "armament race." Of these modern, 10,000-ton cruisers we now have two under construction and six under contract. If this next session we authorize and start ten more, we shall have eighteen of them building, a total of 180,000 tons. In addition, we have built since the war ten 7,500 ton cruisers, a total of 75,000 tons. So that if we start the new ones that President Coolidge suggests, we shall have a grand total of 255,000 tons built or building. This compares with 380,000 tons of big modern cruisers for Great Britain.

President Coolidge's words at Rapid City give the text for a building program that will not give us anything like parity with Great Britain, but will be a reasonable step in the right direction.

Nationalism in Games

Football this Fall will be a new game in one respect, which means in many ways. Change in the rules regarding lateral passes and shift plays will force a type of offensive that nobody is yet sure about.

One interesting difference between England and the United States is this matter of changing rules in sports. Since the beginning of the present century football has been altered so completely that only the basic elements of the struggle forward with the ball against the opposition of physical contact is left. It is still football; but it is not the football of the nineties.

In the English game of cricket, on the other hand, the rules have not been changed a particle in a hundred and fifty years. Fathers and sons can play it together, and great-grandfathers look on in languid comprehension of every point.

There are, of course, advantages in both attitudes toward rules. One improves a game, the other preserves it. One is radical, the other conservative. But it is to be observed that when this country takes over an English game, like golf, it makes few or no changes. The stymie, for instance, never used here in ordinary play, is nevertheless still in the rules, and must be played in tournaments. Our radicalism is well and good in our own games, but it stops like a runner meeting a wall when it encounters the English immobility.

The Hearst Papers Advocate:

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and to promote the peace of the world.

2. Proportional representation in the United States Senate, no state to have less than two Senators. Legislation to enforce prompt constitutional reapportionment in the House of Representatives.

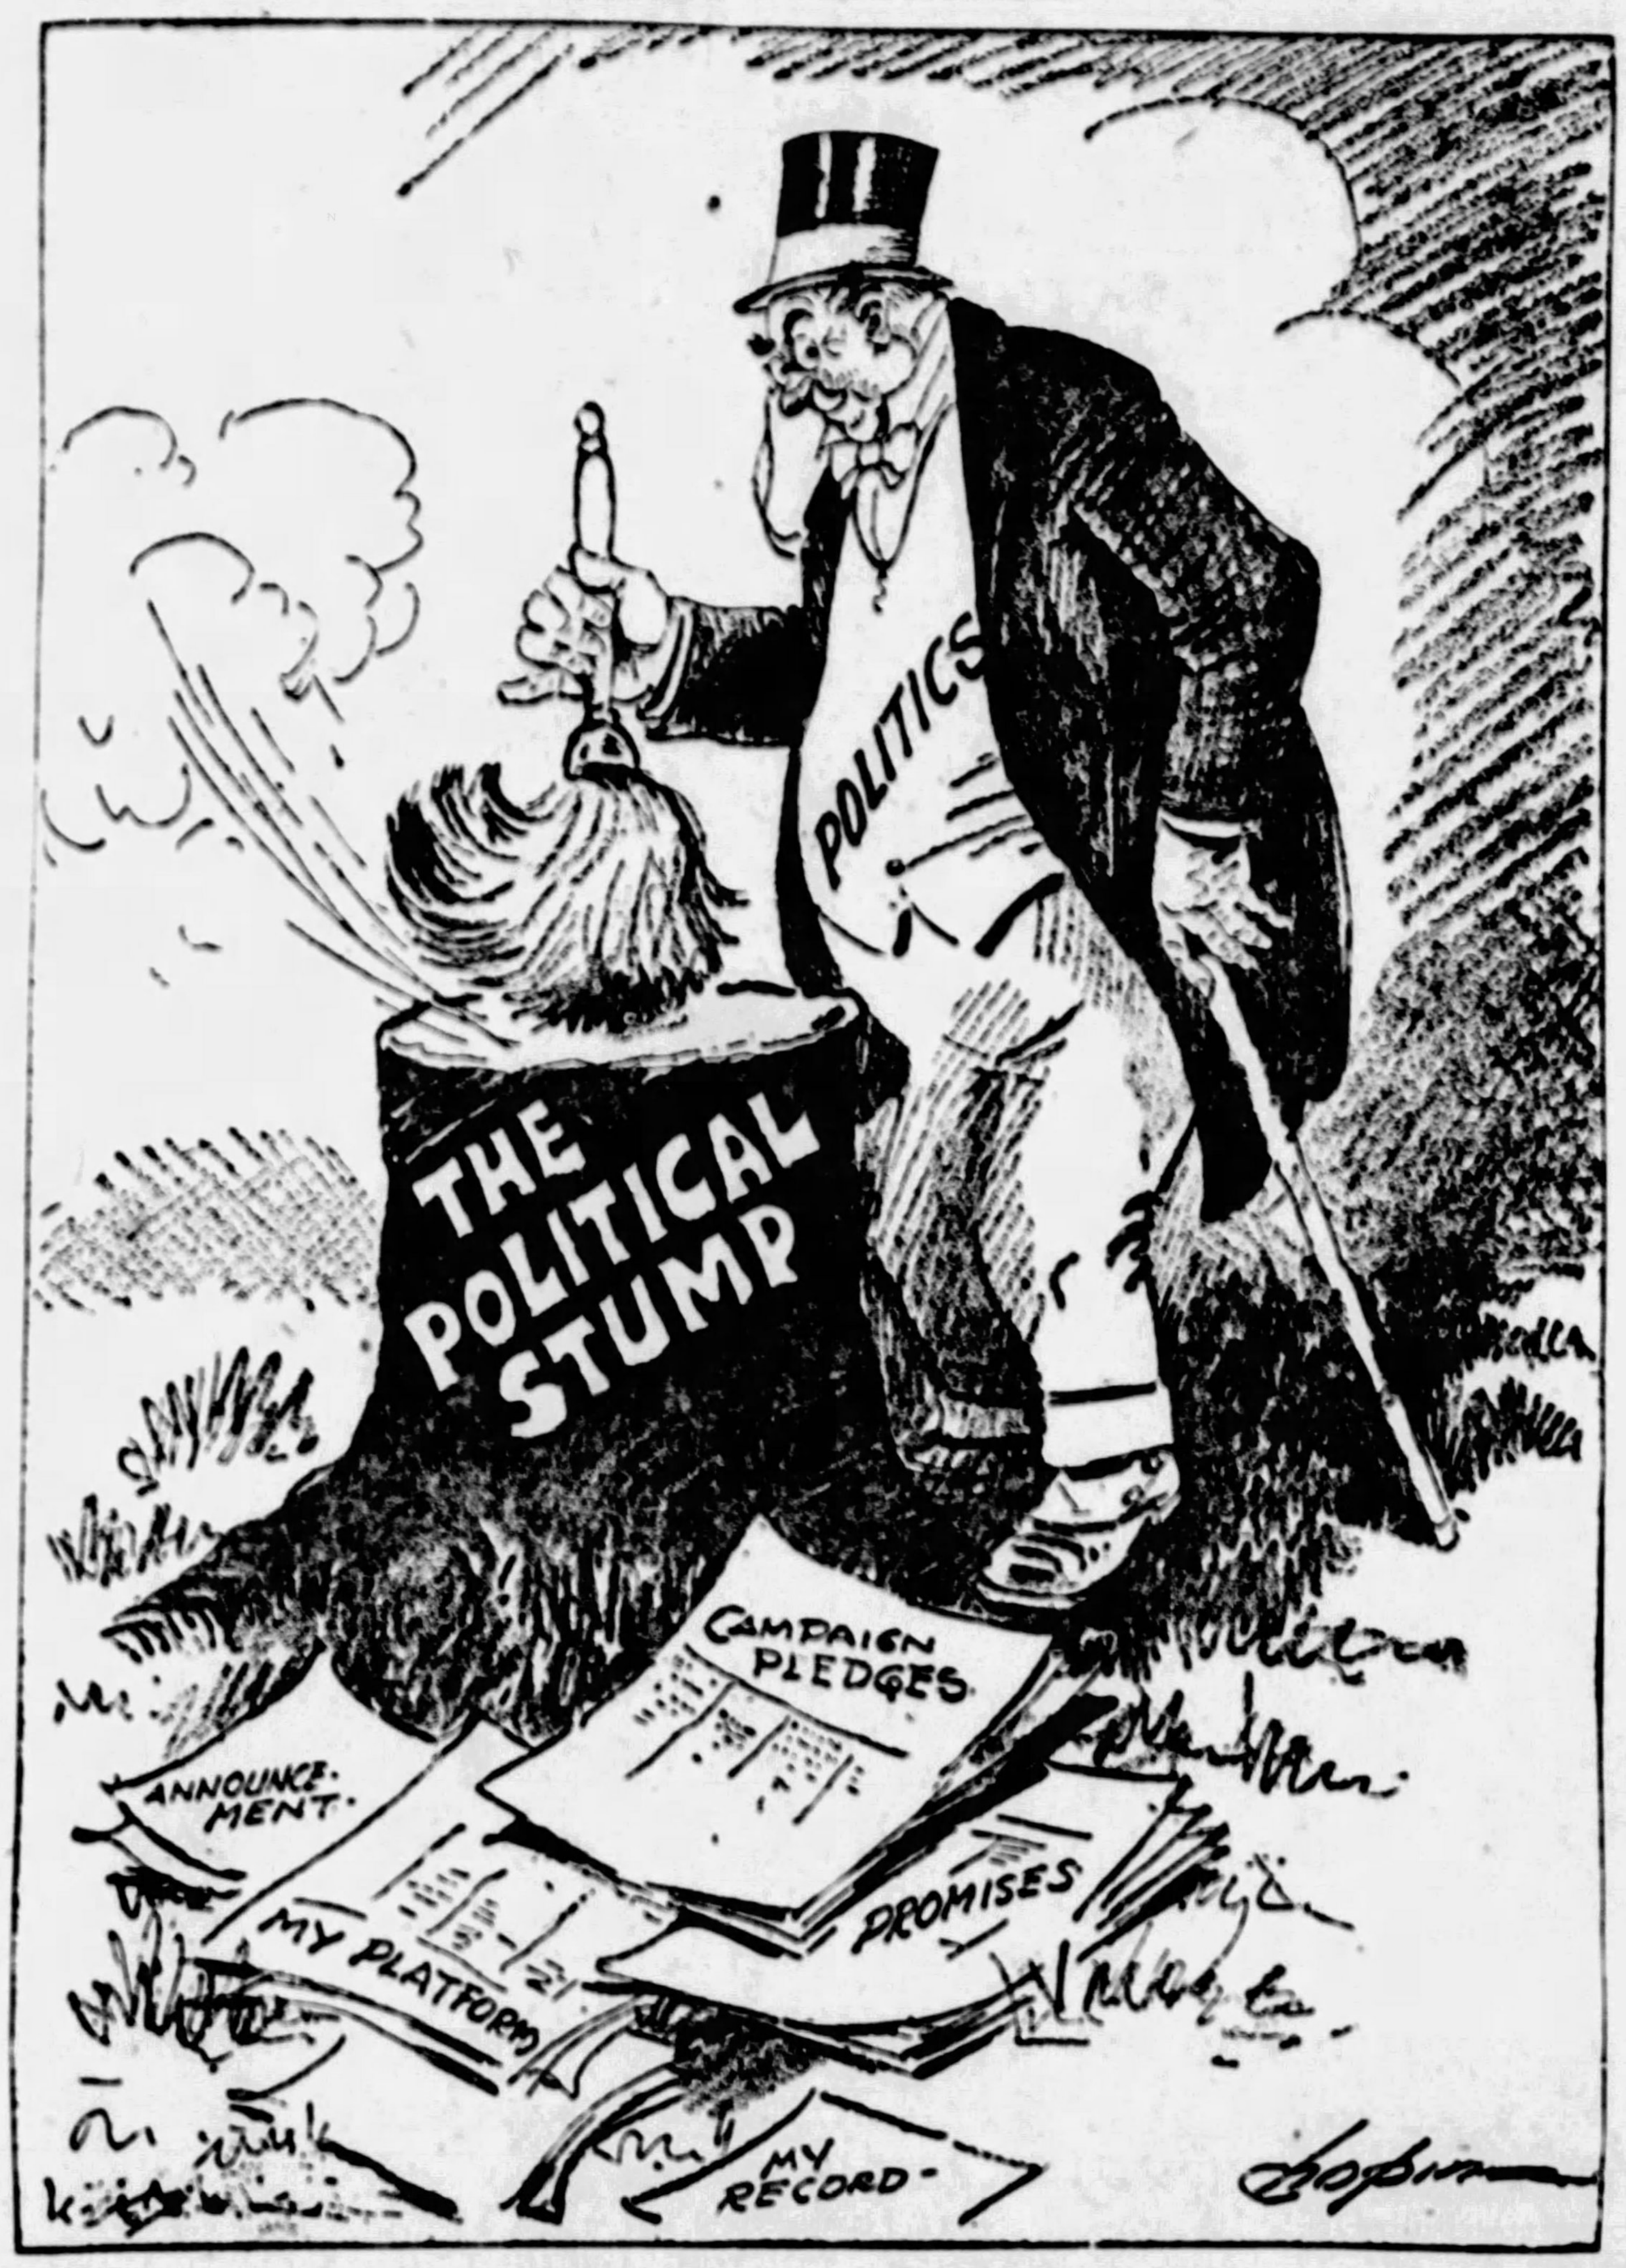
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.

4. Federal action to the limit of Federal powers to abolish illiteracy in the United States under a Secretary of Education.

5. Election of Congress in November. Installation on the 1st of January following. Inauguration of the President 1st of January next after November election.

DOING HIS CHOOSING

Copyright, 1927, by The Chicago Herald and Examiner.



CONTROVERSY has shown that there are two ways of "choosing." Either the candidate is urged to run, and at last consents under supreme pressure; or he comes right out, says "I want this or that office," and gives his reasons.

But this is not all. Intelligence and honesty in office after election are vitally important things. It is a matter of public concern that only men fitted for the offices be allowed to run.

More Truth Than Poetry

by S. E. Kiser

A Wasted Story

A SUDDEN smile was on his lips; from where He halted in the street he saw her light.
"Ha, ha!" he chuckled; "she is waiting there
To ask the usual questions. Well, all right;
My story's ready, and I'll make no slip;
She'll not be hurt by what she doesn't know;
I'll greet her with some careless little quip,
And kiss her, if she cares to have it so.

"HOW laughable it is, that all these years
She steadily has watched with jealous eyes
And let herself be plagued by foolish fears,
Believing her precautions were so wise!
She has not dreamed that each suspicious glance
And every doubt has challenged me to stray;
I never should have wished to find a chance
But for the constant barring of the way.

"AND what a joke it is that now, at last,
In spite of all her watching, she is fooled!
I know how she will ply her questions fast,
But she can thank herself that I'm well schooled;
I'll not be taken by surprise, nor find
Reproach or doubt a hindrance to my wit;
My story has no flaw of any kind;
The measure's made; I've cut my cloth to fit.

"I LAUGH: her light is there; she's waiting now,
And finally there's reason for her doubt;
Her first quick questions will be 'Why?' 'When?' 'How?'
Well, all right, then, I'll go and have it out."
Inside the room he paused and looked and tried
To rouse the figure lying on the floor,
Then clasped her hands, and, kneeling at her side,
He knew that she would question him no more.

Tales that are Told

His Autograph

A MEMBER of a congregation, becoming angry at a sermon the minister was preaching, wrote the single word "Fool" on a sheet of paper, called an usher to him, and had it delivered to the minister in the middle of his sermon.

The minister opened the paper and read what was written. Then he said: "An unusual thing has happened. A member of the congregation has signed his name without writing the letter."

Self-Defense

She was of rather stout build, and every time the car swayed she swayed with it, much to the annoyance of a man who was trying hard to read the evening paper.

Eventually the man got up. He could stand it no longer.

"Will you have my seat, ma'am?" he asked.

"You are very kind," remarked the stout person as she sank into the place just vacated.

"Not at all, ma'am," replied the other. "It's just self-protection."

A Little Mixed

Several mothers were discussing their problems in teaching "The Star-Spangled Banner" to the small members of their various families. Evidently ramparts as ramparts mean nothing to the average little mind, for one mother told of having had considerable difficulty in convincing her small daughter that it was "O'er the ramparts we watched were so gallantly streaming" and not "The rabbits we washed were so gallantly screaming." In one of the other families the young hopeful had insisted that it was "the rompers we washed."

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—New York spends many millions a year for flowers and floral decorations. The town exceeds every other city in the world in floral extravagance. Many men and women, too, have grown wealthy operating chains of shops.

It was recently computed that at a musical show premiere more money was spent for flowers sent to members of the company than the audience spent to see the show. Most of the floral tributes are sent to charity wards of hospitals when the curtain falls.

Many men enamored of stars and leading ladies order boxes of flowers sent nightly to dressing rooms during the run of a play. There are shops offering corsages for as high as $60 and single lapel flowers at $2.50. It is not fiction that diamond rings and bracelets have been passed over the footlights in bouquets.

And there is that story of one gentleman who ordered the entire stock of a Fifth avenue shop delivered to the lady who had a few hours before accepted his proposal of marriage. P. S.—She married the other fellow.

It is possible to have a bouquet of orchids delivered through the chief steward to a lady every day of the ocean voyage and a boutonniere in a like manner for the gentleman. Thousands of dollars are spent weekly having flowers delivered to friends in England and Europe.

Flowers have geographical value. Fifth avenue charges about double the price of Broadway and triple that of Sixth avenue. At many shops on Madison and Park avenue they are priced still higher. Roses that sell for $20 a dozen on Fifth avenue can be purchased on the lower East Side for $1 a dozen.

Three of America's foremost painters and illustrators are left-handed—Dean Cornwell, Robert Henri and Howard Chandler Christy. Indeed there are so many southpaw artists that art shops keep left-handed palettes. The left-hander excels often in various callings. His record in baseball and other athletics is pronounced. A half-dozen reigning novelists are left-handers, so are two famous architects, five celebrated playwrights, six famous surgeons, three noted stage stars and innumerable lesser fry. "Tad," the cartoonist, began life as a lefty but an accident forced him to draw with his right hand.

Swank dressmaking salons often have special Sunday morning showings for stage stars too occupied during the week to select gowns. The prosperous actress is usually the heaviest buyer of all customers for she realizes the value of making a smart appearance in public. Recently one attended an exhibition and selected 21 gowns, and when they were delivered a week later she sailed for—of all places—Paris, for more dresses, a divorce and perhaps a face lift.

New York's smartest dressmakers, incidentally, no longer fear Paris as a fashion center. They are beating French dressmakers at their own racket. People used to cross to Paris for frocks chiefly because of the supposed smartness and the sharp difference in price. Paris prices are about the same as those in New York. And Parisian establishments are sending over designers to pick up American ideas every season.

When speakeasies attempt to give us lessons in etiquette it is about time we all quit drinking.

Unpolitical Ambassadors

By DR. FRANK CRANE

When Lindbergh made his record flight to Paris he was greeted by Ambassador Herrick as being the United States' "unofficial ambassador," or "ambassador without portfolio."

This opens up an inquiry which may be suggestive. We are always sending an ambassador to other countries, but most of them are politicians or alleged statesmen. The business and life of the country, however, are in quite other hands and their distinctions in achievement are attained by other kinds of men.

Why not select men that have made successes in their own businesses, send them unofficially to other countries without portfolios, pay their expenses and have them show other people what it is the United States is doing?

We might suggest Mr. Byrd, the man who flew over the North Pole. Doubtless he would be welcome in the capitals of Europe and would do much to spread the fame of the United States.

Then there are such educators as Mr. Hibben and Glenn Frank, who might deliver weighty messages to the universities of Europe and enlighten them as to American ideals and accomplishments.

What a furore it would make in Paris or Vienna if Thomas Edison were sent to them, having the stamp of approval of his nation, to convey to them the peaceful message of the achievements of science. We understand that Mr. Milliken of the California Tech is going abroad, and why should he not represent the American government abroad? Scientists all over the world would be glad to see him.

Then, think how the business men of Berlin, of London and of Paris would enjoy getting a message from such a man as Judge Gary, and learning from him some of the secrets as to how he has been so successful in his business.

The Mayo brothers of Rochester, Minnesota, would be welcomed by the physicians of Oslo, Rome and Vienna, and would admirably represent the scientific efforts of America in the medical profession.

Such men as Ernest Seton Thompson and Arthur Brisbane could represent literary America and much good would come of their contact with European minds.

More representatives of this kind would emphasize the real message of America to the world and show how we are co-operating with all other countries instead of being their rivals, would show in fact what America is doing for the advancement of mankind.

THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

Text by Arthur J. Palmer

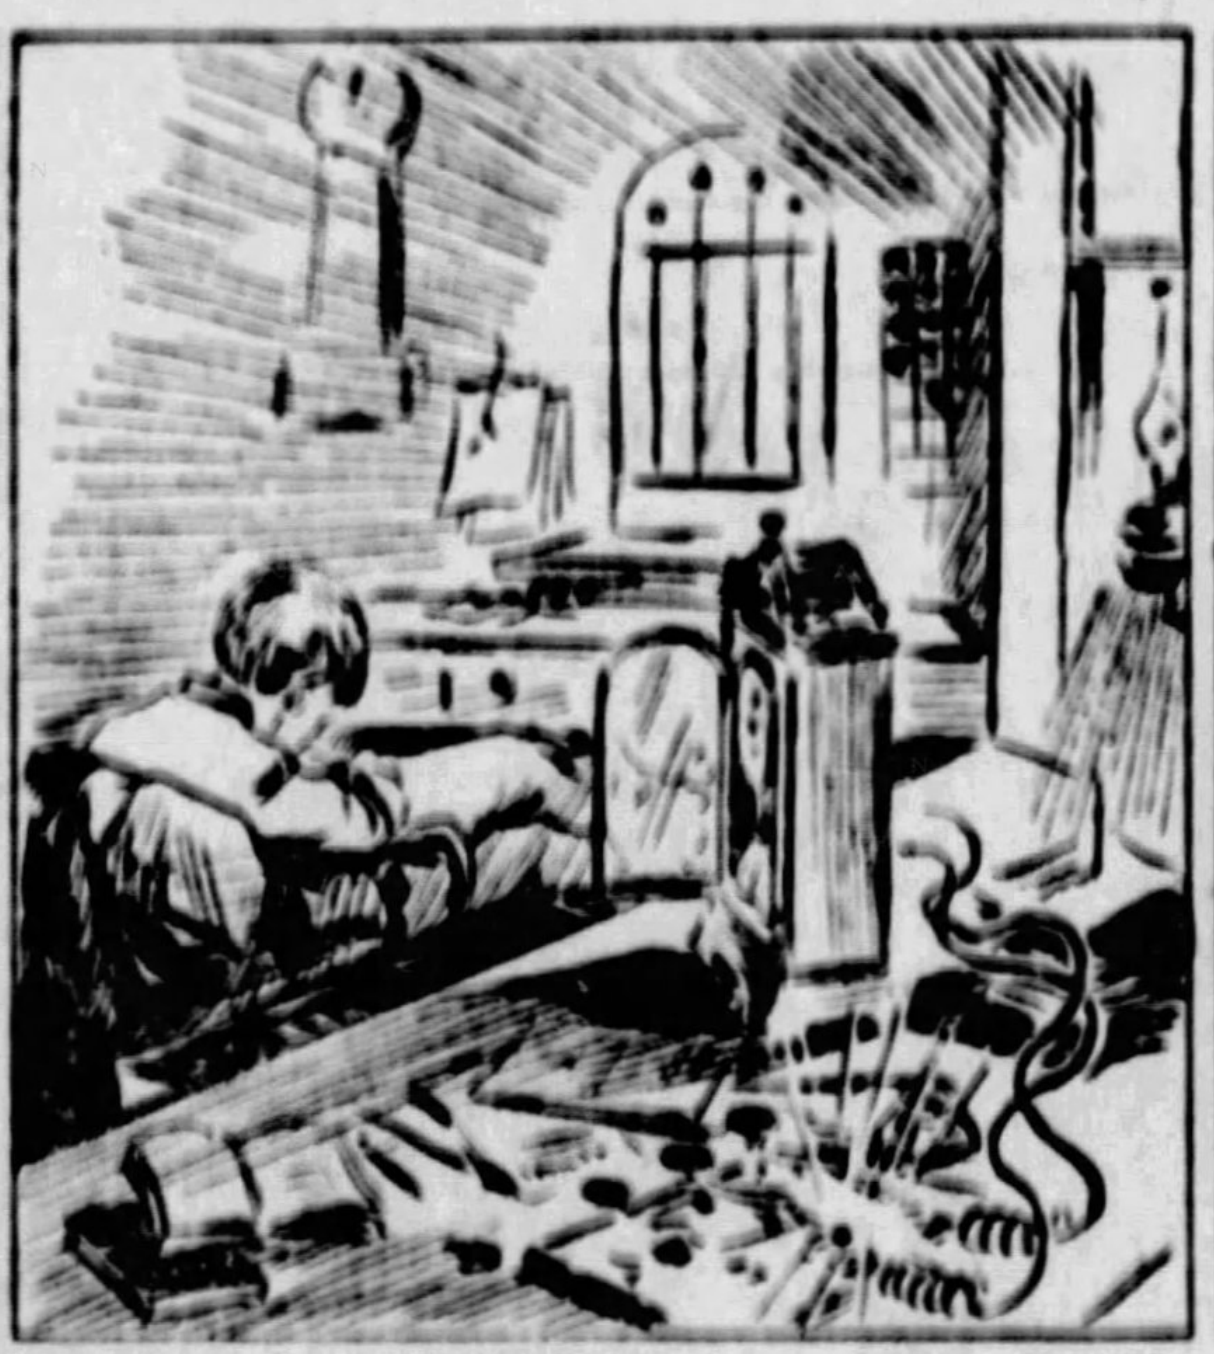
After several months study, Edison became telegraph operator at Port Huron, Michigan. He began to burn the candle at both ends, being experimenter and inventor during the day and operator at night. In order to snatch some much-needed sleep he set an alarm clock to wake him just before each train was due to arrive.



Trains did not always arrive on time and Edison's little ruse was discovered. He was instructed to report with the Morse "A" every half hour to the train dispatcher at a nearby station. He hooked up clock and telegraph so that "A" was ticked off regularly, with the truant boy operator in the Land of Nod.

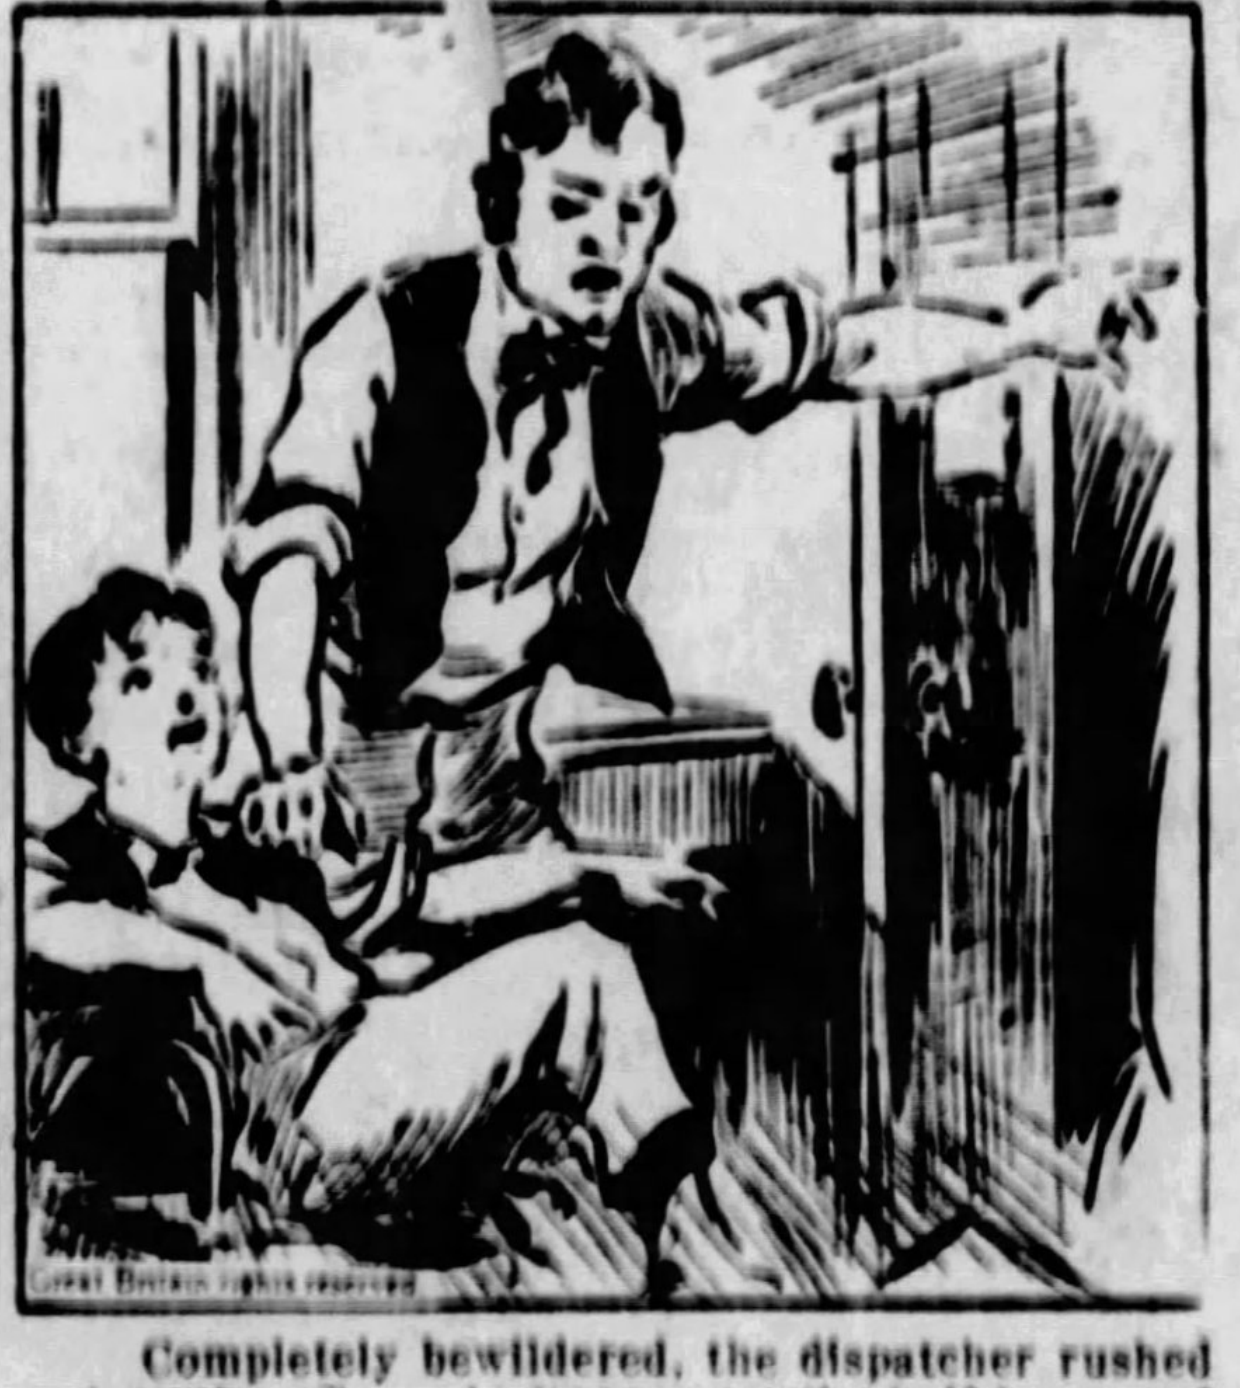
One night the train dispatcher thought he would have a chat with the youthful operator at Port Huron. He opened the key, but after trying for 15 minutes got no reply. Thoroughly alarmed, he hastened to Port Huron on a hand-car. Looking in he discovered Edison once more asleep at his post of duty.



Completely bewildered, the dispatcher rushed into the office. As it was near the half hour, and time for "A" to be ticked off, he discovered how ingeniously he had been fooled. Arousing the resourceful operator with a vigorous shake he sent him on his way looking for another job.
